77TH CONGRESS OPENS CRUCIAL SESSION TODAY

Holds Fate of Nation Over War Issue.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Facing decisions that will shape the destiny and affect the welfare of the United States for generations to come, the 77th congress will meet for the first time tomorrow noon. In both the house and senate the Democratic party will have an overwhelming majority.

The two houses will be organized and will begin work in the deepening shadow of foreign war now falling more and more darkly athwart our country. The acts of this congress probably will determine whether America is to go into this war with men, ships, and money, or is to keep out.

The congress almost from its beginning will be the scene of a mighty battle between the opposing forces on the issue of the war—the interventionists and the noninterventionists.

Clashing Views Summarized.

The clashing views of the two groups may be summarized as follows:

INTERVENTIONISTS—The security of the United States from invasion and the preservation of democracy require the annihilation of the Nazi régime in Germany. The British Isles are America's first line of defense. In the interest of disposing of a potential enemy the United States should supply Britain with such military resources as are essential to the subjugation of the axis powers.

NONINTERVENTIONISTS — The United States should be armed to repel successfully any attack on it. The two oceans that form our natural bulwarks are our first line of defense. Under the first principle of American foreign policy—the Monroe Doctrine—we are forbidden to intervene in foreign wars as we forbid foreign intervention in this hemisphere. The subjugation of the totalitarian powers would require the United States to send its navy and a gigantic army to Europe to implement a successful intervention, in the course of which we would sacrifice our own democracy and become totalitarian ourselves.

Roosevelt to Fire First Gun.

The first gun in this battle will be fired by President Roosevelt, leader of the interventionists, in his message to congress which he will deliver in person at a joint session of the two houses Monday. It will be his report on the state of the Union required annually by the constitution that will provide the vehicle for the presentation of Mr. Roosevelt's war program.

The President, in his fireside chat last Sunday, outlined his program in general terms—aid to Great Britain short of war for the purpose of compassing the defeat of the axis powers, whom he declared the enemies of the United States. In his message he is expected to become more specific, particularly with reference to his plan to lend and lease upwards of 3 billion dollars worth of military equipment to the British, the consummation of which will require action by congress.

War Issue Flares in House.

Harbinger of things to come was a flareup in the last session today of the house of the 76th congress on the Roosevelt war program.

Representative Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.] asserted that the President's plan to make the United States an arsenal for Britain, Greece, and China will take this country "into the war further and further." He said the President seeks to accomplish his objective "without the consent of congress or the people." He predicted that "not a dime of the cost of the equipment lent or leased to Great Britain will ever come back."

Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.] said in a speech that Mr. Roosevelt's project for increased aid to the foes of the dictators "may mean war," but it is evident that the President's fireside chat in which he presented his program, "expresses the will, the wish, and the determination of the American people.

In joint session also on Monday the

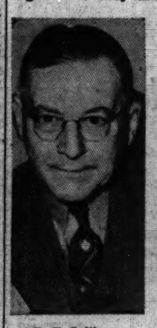
ASSERT PAY CUT MUST BE MADE IN CITY BUDGET

Slash Would Save $340,000 in '41.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

City council leaders declared last night that they are not going to be bluffed by the strike ultimatum handed to a council subcommittee yesterday by the leaders of 20 unions.



P. F. Sullivan.

The ultimatum said that the union leaders, headed by Patrick F. [Paddy] Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, stood ready to carry out action taken Dec. 19 at a massmeeting of union workers employed by the city. At that meeting the workers voted to strike if the council approves in the 1941 city budget a 10 per cent cut in the pay of all salaried union employés.

This cut has been recommended by the finance committee. The committee, however, has specified that the reduction is not to take any employé's pay below the daily union scale paid in private industry.

Need for Pay Cuts.

The cut was approved by the council finance committee Dec. 13 when it was told by its financial staff that the 1941 budget had to be reduced $2,000,000 below the 1940 figure if the city was to operate within its revenue. Besides the union pay trim more than 300 jobs were lopped off the pay rolls and savings were made in all departments. The corporate [operating] budget now awaiting passage totals $54,391,785, compared to $56,581,843 last year. The city owes approximately 8½ million dollars on unpaid bills.

Last night Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], president pro tem. of the council, who is frequently regarded as a spokesman for Mayor Kelly, said: "The city has not receded from its pay cut position. Union members have told our subcommittee of several instances where union men work more than 40 hours a week and where the cut would take them below scale. Of course there should be adjustments to take care of those cases.

Must Balance Budget.

"But the finance committee is not going to build a 1941 budget that will not balance. This cut saves $340,000. We told the unions today we will give them another hearing, probably Wednesday, to give them a definite statement to take back to their men. In the meantime our staff is making a survey of the jobs."

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the council labor committee, who is a member of the special subcommittee, said: "We are standing pat as long as the men will receive pay at the rate of the daily union scale."

"Our union employés now get salaries on an annual basis," Rowan continued. "That was arranged years ago after an epidemic of overtime had cost the city a lot of money. I think the overtime that was then blanketed into the annual salaries can now be eliminated. We have done that already in some city departments and it can be done with these workers."

Cut Approved by Mayor.

Mayor Kelly could not be reached last night for his opinion of the strike threat but when the council finance committee first approved the 10 per cent slash he told the aldermen: "You've done a great job."

The recommended slash in union salaries will affect almost 1,000 workmen. The cut was recommended by a survey commission which was authorized a year ago to study the city budget and recommend economies.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], finance committee chairman who heads the special subcommittee, said the subcommittee will present its final decision to Mayor Kelly on Tuesday morning.

A public hearing on the 1941 budget will be held Monday and the budget will come up for passage by the council Thursday.

"BOY!"

Chicago to Get Huge Airplane Engine Plant

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Chicago was assured yesterday of its first major aircraft factory under the defense program. After approval by President Roosevelt and the defense commission of a $36,799,300 expansion program for the Studebaker corporation, it was disclosed that a vast plant is to be constructed by Studebaker here. The plant, for the manufacture of airplane engine parts, will employ about 4,000 skilled workers.

The war department announced the Studebaker expansion. It was indicated that actual contracts would be completed shortly. The expansion provides for the construction of plants at South Bend and Fort Wayne, Ind., as well as Chicago.

Will Build Wright Engines.

Airplane engines to be built by Studebaker will be the Wright Aeronautical "2600" type, developing 1,700 to 1,800 horse power.

Studebaker officials said they could make no comment on the contract until it had been signed.

It was learned from other sources, however, that a site for the Chicago plant already has been selected. It is to be of the windowless air conditioned type favored for airplane factory use.

Chicago was selected as the site, it was said, because of the vast supply of skilled workers available. The plant will concentrate in the production of engine parts requiring highly skilled labor. Assembly of the various parts to make completed engines will be done at South Bend—the home of the Studebaker corporation.

New Developments Forecast.

It was stated that the Studebaker defense program may be much larger eventually than the war department contracts let yesterday indicate. The war department contract involves engines to be built only for the United States army. In addition the British are said to be negotiating with Studebaker for the building of a large number of airplane engines. It was considered possible that additional construction work will be required to handle British orders.

The President also approved expansion by the Buick division of the General Motors corporation of plant facilities in Grand Blanc township, Genesee county, Michigan, for the production of Pratt & Whitney airplane motors.

Approval of the Studebaker and Buick expansion and announcement of a number of contracts brought projected war department expenditures released during the day to more than $80,000,000. Chicago area companies will share in the total in moderate amounts.

DANISH BACHELORS ASK: A BAR OF SOAP OR SHAVING STICK?

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, via Berlin, Jan. 2 (AP).—National soap rationing has confronted Danish bachelors with the choice between one cake of hand soap monthly or a shaving stick. They can't have both. Households get about 14 ounces weekly per member and soap consumption in laundries, barbershops, and public baths is cut to 75 per cent of normal. Laundries are forbidden to take new customers and housewives are not permitted to increase the quantity of their laundry. Rationing also is extended in other directions, including butter which has been fixed at 12 ounces per person weekly—much higher than in most European nations.

HINT NAPOLEON'S LAST KIN MAY GO BACK TO FRANCE

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 3, Friday (AP).—Possibility that a modern "L'Aiglon" might rule France was disclosed today when it was learned that the government of Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and Bonapartists were negotiating for the return of Napoleon's great-grandnephew, last of the emperor's line.

Since Adolf Hitler's gesture in returning the ashes of the original "L'Aiglon," Bonaparte's ill-fated son who never saw France, the name of the dark handsome young prince has been mentioned frequently among royalists.

Hitler's action was declared by some observers to be a forerunner of the Napoleonic restoration, but friends of Louis Napoleon Jerome Victor Emanuel Marie say he would not be a puppet ruler. He now lives in Switzerland.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 2.—The Hungarian Meteorological institute stated today that 1940 was the coldest year since 1825, when it began keeping its records.

Big Navy Plane Fights Storm; 5 Bail Out; 1 Dies

Big Spring, Tex., Jan. 2 (AP).—A navy patrol bomber carrying two men was unreported tonight hours after five crew men leaped from the storm-battered plane—one to his death. Three others were injured.

Radioman A. M. Perry, who landed unhurt, said at Lamesa, Tex., that the men bailed out at 17,000 feet after encountering a "terrible" storm which broke the plane's windows and sent the craft momentarily out of control.

The body of W. F. Percich, machinist's mate, was found in a plowed field near Ackerly, Tex., 24 miles to the northwest. His parachute was found a quarter of a mile away.

Three in Hospitals.

In hospitals were Radioman L. J. Hughes and Machinist's Mates H. E. Neff and F. Reche Jr. Extent of their injuries was not determined.

The two who stayed with the plane were Lieut. M. Hanson, navy pilot who ordered the men to bail out, and Co-pilot R. B. Clarke of the naval reserve.

Two other long range bombers which left San Diego, Cal., with the missing plane landed at Corpus Christi late this afternoon. The three ships were en route to Pensacola, Fla., on a routine delivery flight.

Radio Contact Lost.

A radio report from the distressed plane at 3 p. m. [Chicago time] said it was flying "blind" in a snowstorm over this west Texas prairie country. The report added the pilots wanted to land but could sight no lake and the flying boat lacked landing wheels. Radio contact was lost shortly thereafter as the plane headed toward the southeast.

Perry said the ship seemed to drop 1,000 feet at a time after encountering difficulty in the storm.

It was reported the five men were ordered to bail out after ice began to form on the wings and the men were buffeted by a cargo of auxiliary electrical parts.

Army Flyers Killed.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 2 (AP).—Capt. Eugene C. Tips of Seguin, Tex., and an unidentified enlisted man from Brooks field, San Antonio, Tex., were killed today in an airplane which crashed at the Casa Blanca Country club grounds.

Houses Struck; Troops Dig for Buried Victims

DUBLIN, Jan. 3, Friday (AP).—A single unidentified warplane bombed this capital of neutral Ireland before dawn today, injuring at least 12 persons and damaging several houses.

The bombing followed a series of aerial assaults which began Wednesday night on an area within a 60 mile radius of Dublin. Some of the explosives dropped in these attacks were identified as of German type by Irish officials.

Dublin's modified screened street lighting was in effect at the time the bombs fell in the capital. Thus far there has been no demand for a complete blackout of the city.

Surprised and Bewildered.

Crowds poured into the damaged area. Their attitude appeared to be one of surprise and bewilderment rather than outrage.

The injured persons here were in two houses on Donore terrace, which received direct hits. Windows were blown from several other houses. Two persons were believed trapped in the wreckage. Windows also were blown out of houses on Dufferin avenue.

Police and soldiers continued digging this morning for others believed buried there.

Invaders Believed German.

Invading warplanes, apparently German, also loosed new loads of bombs last night near Enniscorthy, 60 miles southwest of Dublin and less than 15 miles inland from the Irish sea, which separates Ireland and England. No damage or casualties were reported in this case.

In the attacks Wednesday night and early yesterday, however, at least three civilians were killed and two injured at Knockroe, near Borris, in County Carlow, and one of the bombs was declared by the defense department to have borne German markings.

Parachute Borne Sea Mines.

The missiles dropped Wednesday night and early yesterday included parachute borne sea mines which the Irish government said fell inland, lying unexploded and menacing in fields, and bombs which fell on the grounds of Irish army headquarters.

The mines which fell in Glen Cormack near Enniskerry, County Wicklow, were said by experts to be of the German magnetic variety used early in the war before Britain devised a defense against them.

The government information bureau said the army engineers would destroy the mines today and warned residents in a three mile radius to open their windows. Residents for a half mile about have been moved out of their homes.

List of Localities Struck.

In the five hour bombing Wednesday and yesterday morning the department of defense listed these localities as struck:

The Old Curragh [County Kildare] race course—now Irish army headquarters—three high explosive bombs and "a large number" of incendiaries in the area.

Duleek, five bombs, and Julianstown, three bombs. Both towns are near Drogheda, center of the Irish cattle industry supplying Liverpool, England.

Rathdown Park, Terenure, a Dublin suburb, two bombs; two houses smashed, several damaged; seven persons trapped in wreckage, but rescued; "several" persons injured.

A fortified road in the Laverna grove area of the same district, two bombs which fell in "waste ground"; "some" houses damaged.

Widest Attacks to Date.

This was the most widespread bombing of Irish territory yet to take place, altho there have been some half-dozen previous incidents of less seriousness. The Irish government announced that the German government had expressed regret for the bombing of Campile, on the southeastern Irish coast, in which three girls were killed on Aug. 25.

Germany was represented then as not acknowledging that it was a German affair, but as "prepared to admit the possibility" that a Nazi pilot might have lost his way.

LONDON TO ARM POLICE 1ST TIME WITH U. S. GUNS

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 2 (AP).—A $300,000 order from the British purchasing commission for revolvers with which to arm the London bobbies, was announced today by Joseph P. Carney, president of Harrington and Richardson Arms company. The order for 25,000 revolvers and retooling will be expedited to enable early shipment. The London police force has never been armed with a revolver, rifle or similar weapon, Mr. Carney said. Revolver issue is to enable them to help repel an invader.

NAZI SEA RAIDER BELIEVED TO BE COUNT LUCKNER

Report Marauders Use British Ship.

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—Naval circles tonight said the commander of a wide ranging and destructive German raider in the Pacific "probably" is Count Felix von Luckner, world war commander of the German raider Seeadler [Sea Eagle].

These sources said they knew Von Luckner went to America soon after the war began and that, altho he was not a regular officer in the Nazi navy, the command of a Pacific raider was the sort of a job he would get.

Raider Said to Be British Ship.

HONGKONG, Jan. 2 (AP).—The German raider responsible for most, if not all, the sinkings of British ships in the Pacific was declared by travelers arriving here today to be the speedy, comparatively new former British-owned Glengarry, reported seized by the Germans at Copenhagen and converted into an auxiliary cruiser.

These informants said the raider is commanded by a "Captain Count von Lucknow."

The 7,100 ton Glengarry formerly was operated in the Pacific by the Glen Line. She was launched at Copenhagen in 1939 and is reported to have a speed of 22 knots.

TELL OF ATTACK

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 2 (AP).—Destruction of the big British liner Rangitane by a German raider which stole alongside an hour before dawn and fired without warning was described today by survivors of the disaster.

Six women were killed outright by the shelling. Many of the survivors displayed wounds on faces, limbs, and bodies.

One of the women said the German captain, when ushering them aboard the raider as captives, asked, "Don't you British women ever cry?"

Ship Sighted, Opens Fire.

They were among 496 survivors of seven ships who were rescued by Australian ships after being marooned Dec. 21 on Emirau Island, near New Guinea, by the sea raider and a Nazi supply ship on which they had been imprisoned when their ships were sunk. Crews and survivors of three other ships still are aboard the raider, those who were rescued said.

The Rangitane's quartermaster, L. Valerie, said he was at the wheel on the morning of Nov. 26 when he noticed another vessel near by. At once the stranger opened fire, he said. The first shot crashed thru the steering gear and threw the Rangitane out of control.

Other shells screamed into the 16,712 ton vessel rapidly, he said, killing six stewardesses in their rooms.

Fire as They Try to Reach Boats.

"Ship's Surgeon Crawford," Valerie continued, "gave first aid and the stewards gathered the dead and injured in blankets. There was no time to get stretchers."

Valerie and other survivors said the shelling continued even as they were trying to reach the boats. Two brothers from the engine room were mortally wounded.

A Mrs. Langan, sitting beside her 10 year old son, Jimmie, who had part of his leg blown away by a shell, said:

"I half carried Jimmie and his brother, Brian, to a lifeboat. As I did so I realized that Jimmie was hit, but he never whimpered. To think we were only three miles from home in Nauru when it all happened."

Women Get Scant Rations.

Nauru is a British island shelled by a German raider Dec. 27.

Fifteen women said they had spent nearly two months as captives in a small room below the waterline in the German raider, that their food was scant and unpalatable, and that they were given no water for bathing.

Male survivors of the Rangitane reported they were imprisoned in the hold of a supply ship, the Tokio Maru, with a machine gun trained on them. Their food was mainly black bread.

Thirteen New Zealand airmen, among those landed on the island, said they had obtained their release by promising not to fight in the war. Five of their fellow flyers were said to have refused to make such a promise and still were in German custody.

Hint Raiders Know Code.

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 2 (AP).—Navy Minister W. M. Hughes today said the Australian naval board was investigating statements of rescued survivors of merchant ships sunk by German Pacific raiders "indicating that the raiders know the British admiralty code for communicating with merchant shipping."

Report Sinking 10 Ships.

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP).—In an account of raiding activities in the Pacific, the German high command today said 10 British merchant ships "or ships in enemy service" totaling 64,155 tons had been sunk. The crews of the sunken ships, it added, were landed on a South Sea isle by a German warship.

STEAMER TORPEDOED

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Mackay Radio reported that the steamer Galgora had radioed today that she had been torpedoed. The ship's position placed her about 500 miles northwest of Dakar, West Africa. No standard shipping registries list a Galgora.

Maritime Register today reported the recent sinking of five merchant vessels, including the Scottish Maiden, 6,993 ton British tanker. The Scottish Maiden was torpedoed, the Register said, but no details were given on the other losses, all freighters. They were the 5,225 ton British Kenbane Head, the 1,456 ton Norwegian Kong Haifdan, and the 1,996 ton Convallaria and 1,572 ton Gunborg, both Swedish.

LEAHY ARRIVAL BELIEVED KEY TO FRENCH ACTION

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LYONS, France, Jan. 2.—French authorities here today expressed increased concern over activities on the border between the occupied and unoccupied zones of France.

It was expected that the arrival of Admiral William D. Leahy, new United States ambassador, in Vichy would be awaited before any outright decisions are made, however, by the government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain. If Leahy brings some explanation of his recently expressed desire to collaborate with the marshal's government, the French attitude toward repressment of the country would be modified, but it is not known exactly what Leahy meant. Leahy is expected in Vichy Jan. 5.

In connection with his arrival, it is significant that President Roosevelt's speech on helping Britain last Sunday night was very briefly reported in the French press, with his most vehement denunciations omitted. Some papers referred to the speech as somewhat oratorical and the opinion was expressed that eventually there must be some form of collaboration in Europe, even tho the dictators now are pitted against the English.

CHARGES PANAMA NAMES NAZI SPY 'AS CITY PLANNER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Representative Earl Lewis [R., Ohio] charged today that the government of Panama had assigned a "Nazi spy" to a position enabling him to obtain aerial photographs of the Panama canal and locks.

Just returned from a visit to the Canal Zone, Lewis said in a house speech that American military authorities were "tremendously disturbed" by the appointment of "a certain Dr. Brunner of Vienna, Germany, as an advisor in city planning for the republic of Panama."

"The evident purpose of the appointment of Dr. Brunner," said Lewis, "is to enable the Nazis to obtain aerial photographs of the canal and locks. Any one who has visited the canal and who has seen the cities of Colon and Panama City can understand that there is no problem of city planning presented by either of these cities."

DEMAND APOLOGY BY JAPS FOR U. S. MARINES' ARREST

PEKING, China, Jan. 2 (AP).—An apology by the Japanese gendarmerie for their "unlawful arrest" of five United States marines in a Dec. 30 cabaret incident was demanded tonight by Col. Allen H. Turnage, marine commander here.

The Japanese army command was informed that, failing to receive such satisfaction, the Americans would refuse to make a local settlement of the affair and would carry it to higher authority. Turnage also demanded the Japanese promise to take steps to prevent a repetition of such incidents and that those responsible for the arrests be punished.

The American version is that the five marines were insulted and threatened in the cabaret by armed and drunken Japanese civilians; that they were innocent of any wrongdoing and were unjustly arrested; that all were held for 17 hours and that four were injured by gendarmes. Japanese military authorities maintained silence tonight.

Hitler and Duce Exchange Greetings; Pledge Victory

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP).—In an exchange of New Year's greetings, Adolf Hitler wired Benito Mussolini that Italy and Germany in coming years will fight to a "decisive defeat of the common enemy." Mussolini's message declared that "our revolutions and people march in tested comradeship to victory."

JAILED FOR DISORDERLINESS.

Sam Katz, 66 years old, 1549 South Spaulding avenue, was sent to the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in Fillmore street court to work out a $25 fine for disorderly conduct.

LUCKNER'S LIFE A THRILLING PAGE FROM SEA'S LOG

Began Adventures When a Boy of Only 13.

Count Felix von Luckner, whose raids in a windjammer made him almost a legendary figure in the world war and who is believed to be raiding British shipping again, was born in Dresden 55 years ago, the son of Count Heinrich von Luckner. An adventurer from childhood, he went to sea when he was 13 years old. He became a lighthouse keeper's assistant in Australia and then toured Australia as a billposter for a Hindu magician troupe.

Landing in San Francisco while still a boy, he tramped and rode freight trains to Denver to see Buffalo Bill, only to find that the picturesque American had gone to Germany. The young soldier of fortune then worked his way across the continent to New York.

Fought in Battle of Jutland.

He fought as a naval officer with the German fleet in the battle of Jutland. Soon afterward his incredible adventures as a sea raider began.

A British ship had intercepted an ancient three-masted American sailing ship, the Pass of Balmaha, and started with her to Kirkwall for examination. A German submarine took the windjammer from the British and led the prize into Bremerhaven.

The innocent looking 2,800 ton sailing ship was armed with cannon and machine guns and equipped with a Diesel engine which gave her a speed of 14 knots. She was loaded with timber and provided with forged Norwegian orders. Her crew of 68 was taught to pose as Norwegians.

On Dec. 21, 1916, she sailed to raid allied shipping. North of Scotland a British cruiser halted her on Christmas day. But the raider, named the Seeadler [Sea Eagle], was permitted to proceed, the British believing she was Norwegian.

The Seeadler's first recorded raid was on Jan. 9, 1917, when she sank the British freighter, Gladys Royale.

Claim Raider Sank 25 Ships.

The raider then proceeded south in the Atlantic, preying on allied shipping and then moved into the Pacific. Some authorities say she had sunk 25 ships—without loss of life, von Luckner has always insisted—before she was shipwrecked on a coral reef at Mopelia Island, near Tahiti. Von Luckner had gone there to make repairs when he was caught in a heavy storm in August, 1917.

He abandoned his prisoners from the ships sunk by the Seeadler and set out in an open power boat for far away New Zealand with five of his men. The party was overtaken by Australian authorities and imprisoned for the rest of the war.

The count lectured in Chicago in 1927. He returned in 1930. In 1931 he came back again with his wife, the Countess Ingeborg. The dread raider became seasick while sailing the Great Lakes with Eugene F. McDonald Jr. on McDonald's yacht Mizpah.

KANKAKEE WOMAN NAMES ROBBER.

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Alvin Blair, 48, of Sacramento, Cal., who was carrying a revolver today when arrested by police, was identified by Mrs. Vincent Accurso of Kankakee as the bandit who robbed her of $50 in her grocery last night.

ROOSEVELT TALK INCENDIARY, SAYS THE PROGRESSIVE

War Stand Assailed by La Follette Paper.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 2.—The Progressive, weekly newspaper owned by Senator Robert M. La Follette and his brother, Philip, former governor of Wisconsin, today accused President Roosevelt of "incendiary oratory" in his address to the nation Sunday night.

"President Roosevelt's incendiary oratory—it could hardly be called a fireside 'chat'—came as a shock to these millions of people who supported him in the belief he was determined to keep this country out of the European war," said the leading editorial of the La Follete publication.

Harsh Words for Peace.

The editorial said Mr. Roosevelt had only "harsh words" for peace in his Sunday night address, and added: "The President's obvious resort to name calling and his offhand crack that those who oppose his program are doing the sort of work the dictators want done was not softened by his magnanimous disinclination to charge protestants with being foreign agents.

"If the practice of calling names and casting slurs on those who refuse to support the administration's foreign policy follows its logical course, the United States will soon assume the trappings of war hysteria and war intolerance."

Assails 'Eloquent' Silence.

The Progressive said the President's address was an eloquent effort, but his silences were often more eloquent than his words.

"His report to the nation was as loudly silent on the present state of our own efforts to rearm as it was on the domestic problems which press so urgently for solution. Every American senses the menace abroad in the world and wholeheartedly supports our program of national and hemispheric defense. But we part company with the President on the crucial issue of where and how this menace shall be met."

Morris H. Rubin is editor of the Progressive. Isabel Bacon La Follette, wife of the former governor, is associate editor.

ADVOCATES U. S. TRADE ARMS FOR ROAD IN CANADA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—An outright trade of munitions and war supplies to Great Britain in return for a right of way for a military highway thru Canada to Alaska was proposed by Representative Andrew Edmiston [D., W. Va.].

Edmiston, member of the house military affairs committee, said in an interview he would offer the suggestion at the first meeting of the committee this year. His plan, which he said has been approved by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, would call for a 1,000 foot wide right of way on the most direct route between Seattle and "all of our air bases in Alaska."

"If we had this military road we could get troops up there in a hurry if we had to, and that might be the spot where they would be needed."

Construction of a Seattle to Alaska highway has been discussed for many years. An international highway commission headed by Representative Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.] will meet in Washington this month to decide on means of financing the proposed $25,000,000 road.

WHITE RESIGNS AS HEAD OF 'AID THE ALLIES' GROUP

Action Forced by Row with Interventionists.

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—The storm raised by the war interventionists along the eastern seaboard over William Allen White's recent statement that he favors keeping this country out of Europe's conflict today forced his resignation as chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies.

William Allen White.

White, 72 year old publisher, of Emporia, Kas., formed the committee last May to help throw the economic and moral weight of the United States on the side of England and France. In the following months he saw it develop into the country's most outspoken interventionist group.

In a formal statement White said he was retiring because the "need for hard, concentrated, intelligent work on the chairman job is too much for a man who has to earn a living running a country newspaper." He suggested the post go to "some strong, high visioned young man" who could devote full time to the work.

Resignation Accepted.

A statement issued at the organization's headquarters said White's resignation had been accepted with the "greatest reluctance." The executive committee will meet here soon, probably Tuesday, to elect his successor.

White said he will retain his post until his successor is chosen and will then serve as honorary head and as a member of the organization's executive committee.

His resignation or removal from the chairmanship had been predicted after disagreement among committee members and widespread discussion of the committee's aims followed White's statement that the only reason for committee membership was "to keep this country out of war."

This stand brought expressions of approval from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the American First committee, both leaders in movements to keep the United States from becoming involved in war.

But committee members denounced White for his "limited view."

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York entered the controversy with a letter to White in which he asserted the chairman had "done a typical Laval."

Start New Pro-War Drive.

The formation of another pro-war movement, the Mobilization of America for War, was urged today in an open letter to congress signed by 53 persons. Many of the signatories joined in a recent round robin telegram to President Roosevelt urging him to take any steps necessary to defeat the axis powers.

Among the signers were Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the budget, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, who were the instigators of the round robin telegram.

Other signers included Franklin P. Adams, newspaper columnist; David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union; Dr. Harry Gideonse, president of Brooklyn college; E. R. Harriman, New York banker; Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college; Herbert Agar, Louisville, Ky., newspaper editor; William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad; James P. Warburg, author and economist; Alexander Woollcott, writer; Robert E. Sherwood, playwright, and Dean G. Acheson, Washington lawyer.

Extortion Target

BETTY GRABLE.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 2 [Special].—An extortion plot against Betty Grable, screen actress, was revealed today when it was learned a complaint was issued against "Betty Westlake, alias the Yellow Hornet."

A letter demanding $2,000 was mailed last Dec. 6 to Miss Grable, former wife of Jackie Coogan. It set forth that unless the money was forthcoming, "I will personally come out and get you." It was signed "Betty Westlake, alias the Yellow Hornet."

The note was sent from Washington, Pa., and was addressed to the screen actress at her studio here.

SENDING MILLION PEACE WIRES TO CAPITAL URGED

Rev. O'Brien, Notre Dame, Pleads for Action.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 2 [Special].—An appeal for a million telegrams urging President Roosevelt and congress not to abandon hope of bringing about a negotiated peace in Europe and not to repeat this country's tragic mistake of 1917 was made by the Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien, professor of Notre Dame university, in an address here tonight.

Rev. John A. O'Brien.

The President, in his "fireside chat" Sunday evening dismissed as "nonsense" the demands that this government explore the possibility of a negotiated peace. He said the "United States has no right or reason to encourage talk of peace" until the aggressor nations abandon their present war plans.

Dr. O'Brien's plea for a national peace crusade was made at a huge rally of members of the Holy Name societies of the Lafayette deanery at Purdue university in Memorial hall here. The Most Rev. John F. Noll, bishop of Fort Wayne, was guest of honor.

Mighty Crusade Urged.

"Let us mobilize the millions of our members," Dr. O'Brien said, "in a mighty crusade to keep America out of the war, and out of all the steps which lead inevitably to it.

"Let the members of our organization from coast to coast send a deluge of a million telegrams to the President and congress begging them in the gentle name of the Prince of Peace not to repeat the tragic mistake of 1917 and send millions of our boys to slaughter on the battlefields of Europe.

"Let us entreat our governmental officials not to make the mistake of saying that the day of reconciliation, of a negotiated peace between European nations, is past.

Peace Conference Is Goal.

"Unless we implement our prayers by a deluge of telegrams which will rise like thunder above the shouting of the war interventionists—the 10 per cent minority—we shall witness once again the tragedy of having the masses of our people led like sheep to the slaughter."

Dr. O'Brien said the greatest contribution America could make to the preservation of Christian civilization would be to "use her good offices and her great moral influence to bring the warring nations to the conference table to lay the foundations of a just and lasting peace."

OPEN DRIVE HERE TONIGHT.

William J. Grace, chairman of the Keep America Out of War committee in Chicago, announced yesterday that a campaign to obtain a million signatures to a petition urging President Roosevelt and congress to keep this country out of war would be inaugurated at a dinner in the La Salle hotel tonight.

"This petition will serve a threefold purpose," Grace said. "First, the number of signers must necessarily impress our Washington representatives with the fact of public sentiment.

"Second, these petitions are a thousand times more preferable to guns in the hands of our boys on overseas battlefields. Third, the hundreds of thousands who will be approached for signatures will be made aware of the liveness of the 'Keep America Out of War' spirit."

The Chicago chapter of the America First committee reported that several hundred persons came to its headquarters yesterday offering help and financial assistance.

Sonja Henie, queen of the ice, said last night she got the idea for her ice ballet when as a child she saw Pavlowa dance. Miss Henie, who is starring in the ice revue at the Chicago Stadium, was interviewed by Jess Kirkpatrick during the In Chicago Tonight program on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Outstanding musical entertainers also were featured on the program. Yvette, song stylist, sang "When I Speak Your Name" and "Frere Jacques," one of her French specialty numbers. Bob Zurke, the swing pianist, came over from the Hotel Sherman and demonstrated what "Boogie Woogie" music is. The Mills brothers displayed some of their melody. They open at the Oriental theater tomorrow.

Harold Stokes and the W-G-N dance orchestra and chorus provided the musical background. Next week Bert Lahr, Frances Williams, and Benny Baker of the musical comedy, "Du Barry Was a Lady," now at the Erlanger theater, will be presented on the In Chicago Tonight program. Lou Jackobson is producing the show in the absence of William A. Bacher, who is vacationing in Florida.

HOLT HITS F. D. R. DICTATOR BLAST AS HYPOCRITICAL

Insists President Should Denounce Stalin, Too.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—In what may be his last senate speech, Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] today accused President Roosevelt of hypocrisy in attacking dictatorship in Germany while trying at the same time "to get into bed" with Stalin's dictatorship in Russia.

The West Virginia senator, who was defeated for renomination this year and will not return to the senate unless he is appointed to a current vacancy, charged that President Roosevelt's "fireside chat" last Sunday night was a transitional speech, intended to lead the people gradually from the peace pledges of his recent campaign to full participation in the war.

The President's denunciation of the Nazi dictatorship and his failure to condemn the Russian dictatorship proves the hypocrisy of his contention that the European war is a contest between dictatorship and democracy, Senator Holt contended.

Asks What Is Difference.

What is the difference, Holt asked, between the world revolution of Stalin and the world revolution of Hitler, between the destruction of Christianity in Russia and the destruction of Christianity in Germany, between Russia's invasion of Poland and Finland and Germany's invasion of Poland, Belgium, Holland, and Norway, and between Russia's occupation of Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, and Germany's occupation of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Denmark?

"There are two answers," Holt said. "First, Germany is fighting England; Russia is not. Second, Germany is a factor against England in world trade, while Russia is not. Russia is in bed, and England, thru Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt, is pulling at the sheets, trying to get into bed with Russia, because they think it will help England.

Insists Yanks Will Go Over.

"If we are going to destroy dictatorship in the world, as the President indicated he hopes to do, is he going to stop when Germany is defeated, or shall we continue to fight Russia on the theory that dictatorship is an enemy of our government? You know what will happen. This war will stop the day England's fight against competition in world trade is finished.

"American boys are going to be sent once again to Europe, in the next session of congress, not to destroy dictatorship or to preserve democracy but to preserve the balance of power and protect world trade."

Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.], reminded Holt of President Roosevelt's promise that no American expeditionary force would be sent to Europe. In reply Holt reminded Lee of Mr. Roosevelt's promises to balance the budget, reduce government expenditures by 25 per cent, and "a hundred other things he said he was going to do."

"I would rather determine what the President is going to do by his actions than by his words," Holt said. "His policy is war, and he knows it."

When Lee urged American aid to Great Britain by "every means," Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] remarked that this term would include war and an expeditionary force. Lee denied, however, that he advocated going to war.

Appointment of Parsons as Housing Official Urged

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] announced today he had recommended appointment of Representative Claude V. Parsons [D., Ill.] as deputy administrator of the United States Housing authority. The senator said he had conferred with White House aids and that in his opinion Parsons would receive the appointment. Parsons failed last November to win a seventh term in congress. He was defeated by James V. Heidinger, Republican.

MEXICO WILL NOT SEND DELEGATION TO INAUGURATION

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2 (AP).—The Mexican government announced tonight it would not send a special diplomatic delegation to Washington, D. C., for the inauguration Jan. 20 of President Roosevelt because United States custom does not provide for such special missions.

It said this was the "only reason" Mexico would not send such a delegation. The government, which in recent months has shown increasing friendship for the United States, emphasized that the decision could by no means be considered as a failure to reciprocate the courtesy in designating Henry Wallace as special envoy to Mexico's inauguration.

ENGLISH THRUST 75 MILES BEYOND LIBYAN FRONTIER

Hold Part of Road from Bardia to Tobruk.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 2 (AP).—British mechanized forces were reported operating 75 miles beyond the Egyptian border in Libya today in a possible prelude to an attack on the big Italian base at Tobruk even before the anticipated fall of besieged Bardia.

With these mechanized forces declared to be firmly holding a stretch of the road leading from Bardia to Tobruk, 80 miles west of the Egyptian border, the R. A. F. lashed out anew last night against Bardia, on the Mediterranean coast, and other Fascist objectives deep in the Libyan desert.

17 Days of Siege.

Besides Bardia, the R. A. F.'s objectives included Derna, 175 miles within Libya, and the air bases at Tmimi and Gazala.

After 17 days of siege there still was no indication of any immediate British attempt to wrest Bardia from its 20,000 beleaguered defenders.

Instead, indications pointed to a likely thrust against Tobruk, where Italian forces have been busily strengthening their defenses.

Italians Active in Air.

ROME, Jan. 2 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported air attacks on British mechanized forces besieging Bardia, in Libya, and on Greek positions in Albania. British artillery, munitions, and motor trucks were abandoned on the North African desert in the face of one of these attacks, a communique said.

Greeks Gain on Northern Front.

ATHENS, Jan. 2 (AP).—Despite bad weather and stiffening Italian resistance Greek troops in the northern sector of the Albanian battle front were reported tonight to be slowly continuing their advance.

A government spokesman said conditions in this area "have not completely stopped our troops from pushing their lines forward after crushing stiff enemy resistance and occupying some villages."

American Praises Greeks.

SOMEWHERE ON THE SOUTHERN ALBANIAN FRONT, Jan. 2 (AP).—An American army observer today declared the Greeks held the initiative on every front he visited during a week's tour of the southern Albanian sector.

"Their fighting spirit is superb," remarked Maj. Thomas T. Craw of the United States army air corps, who arrived here today in a Greek staff car which was machine gunned by an Italian dive bomber along the Adriatic coast. One bullet, Maj. Craw said, missed him by three feet in the ditch where he dived to escape the attacker.

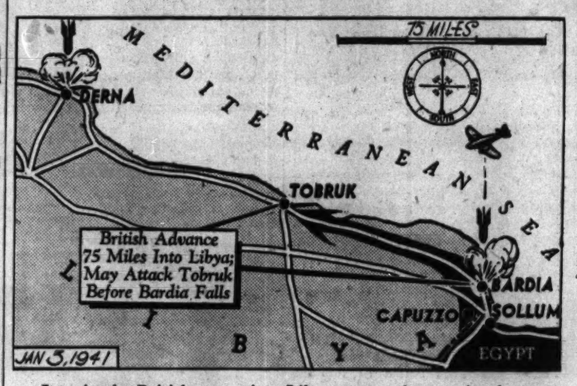
British Strike Deeper Into Libya

(Story in adjoining column.)



Invasion by British troops into Libya apparently was aimed at an attack on the big base at Tobruk. Besieged Bardia and Derna were among the places bombed yesterday.

BRITAIN REDUCES MEAT RATION TO 29 CENTS A WEEK

Pork Put on Restricted List First Time.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The food ministry tonight decreed that beginning Monday the meat ration now officially set at 36 cents a week per person will be cut to 29½ cents. From that day also pork and most waste meats, hitherto unrationed, will not be available without coupons.

Corresponding reductions, the ministry announced, will be made in supplies issued to canteens and catering and residential establishments. A meat shortage has been reported.

A reduction in the sugar and meat allowances which soldiers, sailors, and airmen can obtain while on leave also will be enforced beginning Monday. Men getting a 14 day leave will be allowed 42 ounces of meat weekly, against the present ration of 72 ounces, and 12 ounces of sugar compared to 16 ounces as before.

Housewives Limited.

The ministry also ruled that housewives will not be able to buy two weeks' rations of meat at one time from Monday on, as had been previously promised.

The new rationing scale means that housewives will be limited to three-quarters of a pound of steak weekly. But many butchers will be unable to fulfill even these small orders.

In some districts today, particularly in the north, butchers either closed entirely or opened for only one hour or two because of the lack of supplies. To share the meat fairly among their customers most retailers unofficially cut the ration to 21½ cents. In Worthing, one of the hardest hit areas, butchers by mutual consent have allotted only 10 cents worth of meat for each adult and 5¼ cents worth for children.

Transportation Is Disrupted.

The ministry blames the Christmas aftermath and dislocation of transportation for the shortage.

Another order issued by the food ministry set forth that all meat unsuitable for human consumption but fed to animals must henceforth be colored green. Napthalene green, or acid green will be used for the coloring. A ministry spokesman gave the assurance to anxious owners of pets that the coloring matter is harmless to dogs, cats, and other animals.

LABORITE FEARS BRITAIN IS MAKING ARMS FOR JAPAN

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Fear that British munitions factories are making armaments for Japan was expressed today by Alfred Edwards, a Labor member of parliament, in a speech in Middlesborough.

Edwards said he would support workers threatening a strike rather than produce munitions they believe destined for Japanese guns. He said he had written to Prime Minister Winston Churchill for an explanation but had received no reply. He said that if munitions were being manufactured for export to Japan to obtain foreign credits it was "disgusting."

Neither Japan, Italy nor Germany would have been able to start hostilities if they had not been supplied with armaments by British and United States manufacturers, Edwards said.

Maj. Gen. Karl Truesdell to Command 6th Corps

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special].—Maj. Gen. Karl Truesdell, now commanding the 1st division, with headquarters at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., has been assigned to command the 6th army corps, with headquarters at Providence, R. I., the war department announced today. His transfer is effective Jan. 10. Gen. Truesdell was in command at Fort Sheridan, Ill., from April, 1938, to October, 1939.

IOWA WOMAN DIES IN CRASH.

Columbus, Ind., Jan. 2 (AP).—A head-on automobile collision here today killed Mrs. Anna E. Closson, 64, of Waterloo, Ia. Her son, H. K. Closson, 39, construction engineer; his wife and daughter, and Roger Meshberger, 24, of Berne, driver of the other car, were hurt.

U. S. WARPLANES FLYING TO BRITAIN —BEAVERBROOK

English Force at Peak, Minister Reveals.

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production, said today Britain has "more planes in service and more in reserve than ever before," and that a "very good flow" is coming from the United States, some of them being flown across the Atlantic."

The ministry, he asserted, is pushing industry "to the last point of endurance," but he confessed he did not know whether production was anywhere near that of Germany.

Four new types of planes are in production, Lord Beaverbrook disclosed, and three of them already are in the air. They are the Manchester bomber, Sterling bomber, Whirlwind fighter, and Tornado fighter. The latter he described as "a gem—the most successful new fighter" with greatly increased range and speed, but he gave no details.

Report More Destroyers Sought.

Britain was said reliably tonight to be urgently seeking additional United States destroyers for convoy duty and to use as antisubmarine patrols on her trans-Atlantic lifelines.

An informant, who termed this one of the most important ways in which America could expand her aid, intimated the destroyer question and the need for cargo ships to replace those being sunk would be among the first matters brought up when Lord Halifax arrives in Washington as the new British ambassador.

British maritime circles pointed to the recent assertion of Food Minister Lord Woolton that "the enemy is making a direct attack on our foodstuffs" and that "the danger is much worse than it was in the last war." To all this, they said, the only answer was more convoy and hunting craft.

Two Planes Set for Flight.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Two long range reconnaissance seaplanes, equipped to carry two bombardiers each and destined for the defense of England, were poised here today for a nonstop flight to British territory.

Members of the party of 13 aboard the planes said two more were due to arrive here later today and two others tomorrow. The squadron of six will take off tomorrow for an unannounced destination under the British flag.

Can Cruise 4,000 Miles.

The planes were built by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, San Diego, Cal., and were flown here from the factory with only one stop, at Fort Worth, Tex. They are twin motored craft capable of cruising 4,000 miles.

American crews will fly the planes to British territory, and will return to this country by commercial airways.

INJURED AT RAIL CROSSING.

John J. Pearce, 81 years old, was critically injured last night when struck by an Illinois Central train at the 73d street and Exchange avenue crossing. He lived at 7337 Coles avenue.

EX-CONVICT HELD IN $50,000 BAIL IN N. Y. MILK RACKET

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—Jacob [Jack] Bernoff, 34 years old, an ex-convict and known aid of New York racketeers, today was held in $50,000 bail as a material witness after District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey named him as one of the principal figures in the city-wide milk racket—described as "the biggest racket in the history of the country."

Long sought by police as a grand jury witness in connection with Dewey's revival of the milk industry racketeering investigation, assertedly involving millions of dollars in shakedowns, Bernoff was arrested early today by detectives working under the district attorney. Dewey described the arrest as the first big break in the investigation which had been under way for several months.

Small tradesmen and truckmen in the loose milk industry have been the principal victims of the extortion operations, Dewey said. He was reticent about divulging details of the milk racket ring's operations at the present time.

MACHINIST KILLED AT WORK.

Walter Tychewicz, 42 years old, 14554 Damen avenue, Harvey, a machinist, was killed yesterday by a falling piece of machinery while at work in the International Harvester company plant at 3600 31st street.

GERMAN PILOTS AIDING ITALIANS, BERLIN ADMITS

Blows at British Fleet in Mediterranean Seen.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Germany tonight confirmed the Italian announcement made in Rome earlier in the day that German planes had joined the Fascist air force in operations from "different bases of the Italian front." Whether the Nazi airmen were fighting in Albania or in North Africa was not disclosed.

Reports of British advances in Libya and of Greek advances in Albania have been noted with special interest in Berlin. German Stukas [dive bombers] have not been mentioned recently with the customary frequency in German reports of air battles over England. Their fighting value in the Mediterranean would be strong, military experts averred. They cited the successes of Stukas against British naval units in the waters off Norway and said they believed such planes might be able to cripple British naval activity in the Mediterranean.

Weapon Against Tanks.

Stukas also proved powerful weapons against tanks in the battle of France. British military reports have stressed the strength of their tank units fighting in Libya.

German organs which enjoy the use of semiofficial sources of information, now are referring to Jugo-Slavia's reported claim against Greece as fully justified.

"Jugo-Slavia has never forgotten the fate of southern Macedonia," it was said. "For every nationalistic thinking Jugo-Slav, it is self-evident that someday Salonika must again become Jugo-Slav property. Belgrade is aware of the fact that this will be possible only with the acquiescence of the axis powers. But to date Belgrade has not dared to draw all the necessary conclusions from this fact."

[A dispatch from Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, last night said that the German army had requisitioned all school buildings in Graz, Klagenfurt, and thruout Styria and Carinthia to barrack German troop concentrations arriving in southern Austria. Klagenfurt and Villach are German air bases from which Nazi warplanes are flying daily to Italy, these dispatches said.]

Italians Leave Channel Bases.

ROME, Jan. 2 (AP).—Italy announced officially today that a German flying corps has reënforced Il Duce's aviators on Italian soil, and indicated this massing of axis airmen will intensify the assault both on the Greeks in Albania and the British in North Africa.

The Germans, said the announcement, will "help in the bitter aero-naval fight now developing in the Mediterranean basin." Coincidentally, it was disclosed that all the Italian air corps assigned to help the Germans bomb Britain from bases on the English channel have been called home to Italy, except for a group of fighter planes.

The newspaper La Tribuna said the axis air coördination, coming when the British are exerting a strong effort to defeat Italy decisively, is "a warning to those who still count on the British guarantee and an announcement of new events for the enemy's haughtiness, which will be broken at any cost with iron and fire."

Greeks, Turks "Guaranteed."

Greece and Turkey are guaranteed by the British, the latter having a mutual assistance pact with London.

Lavoro Fascista added that the German air corps would be assigned "a certain military task predetermined by the two commands," and that "all equipment and resources are pooled to make the attack against the common enemy more efficient."

This was interpreted in foreign circles as meaning the German flyers would attack the Greeks, with whom Germany nominally is at peace, as well as the British.

Today's announcement was made by Gen. Francisco Pricolo, chief of the Italian air force.

Report 12 U. S. Bombers Fly Nonstop to Hawaii

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 2 (AP).—The Star Bulletin said today that 12 VP-11 bombers arrived from the United States Tuesday noon after a nonstop flight. Confirmation was not forthcoming in naval circles.

HEAR REDS MASS TROOPS ALONG DNIESTER RIVER

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 2.—The Russians have massed considerable numbers of men and much material along the northern bank of the Dniester river from Lwow to Odessa, and a state of siege has been decreed for Odessa, Black sea port, reports from various sources indicated today. If true, the reports would indicate, military experts say, that the Russians are expecting "difficulties" or attacks from the Germans, and are planning to abandon the Lwow province in southern Poland.

Military informants with a knowledge of the terrain expressed the opinion that such an action is probable, as protection of that region would be difficult unless there were more elaborate fortifications works than are known to exist there. There still is considerable confusion regarding the direction of any possible German "onslaught." Reports reaching an informed Jugo-Slav source spoke of five divisions concentrated at Timisoara in Rumania. There were other reports of another five divisions being stationed at Arad, a town about 37½ miles northeast of Timisoara.

SAYS HE DOWNED ITALIAN BOMBER WITH PROPELLER

ON THE SOUTHERN ALBANIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 2 (AP).—A Greek pilot claimed today he downed an Italian bomber with the propeller of his plane after running out of machine gun ammunition and captured its crew of three at pistol point.

His story as related by military sources said he exhausted his ammunition in a dog fight, then streaked for the bomber's tail and veered away just in time to avoid a full collision. His blade cut the Italians' rudder and elevator surfaces and forced them to land, he reported, and he sat down in the same pasture with his propeller bent. The Greek met the Italians with his pistol drawn and they surrendered.

PREDICTS BETTER LONDON WILL RISE FROM FIRE RUINS

Paper Says Raid Cleared Way for Rebuilding.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard tonight said that Sunday night's fireblitz on London may be a blessing in disguise.

It devoted a column editorial under the heading of "Dynamite" to this argument and declared the raid accomplished what "multitudes of local authorities and millions of committees" were unable to do in trying to rebuild London into a "fit and noble city."

It hoped that with dynamiters now busy bringing down the ruins a new London will emerge in which the roads will be wide and straight.

"Amid all these disasters and regrets," the Standard said in its editorial, "we realize a great and glorious principle has been approved. London always needed this dose of dynamite and now she is going to get it."

The Prewar Campaigns.

The Standard devoted the opposite page to an article supporting the editorial entitled "No tears if some of these were bombed," in which it recalled prewar campaigns to rebuild London into a modern city and which were defeated by a "save the churches" movement. The churches were saved," the writer said, "but do not let us shed too many crocodile tears if some of them happen to be hit now. They might easily not be there to hit."

He also described as the "funny side of a very grim business" the "weeping and wailing over statues that have been more or less hit recently." He added, "London statues, with a handful of exceptions, have been condemned by successive generations of Londoners."

"Not Necessarily Glories."

He went on to state "Part of the houses of parliament, not including Westminster hall, are not necessarily one of the glories of our nation. It is sham Gothic and only 80 years old. . . . Another pile of Victorian sham Gothic is the law courts. They are about 60 years old, but they fool quite a number of people with their medieval whimsies.

"Indeed, when one counts the number of prominent London landmarks that have the sanctity of age and authenticity, some are very low. The Tower bridge, which most Americans take for the London bridge, is less than 50 years of age. Of London's classic skyline, only the Abbey, Tower of London, and St. Paul's [cathedral] were present when Queen Victoria came to the throne. St. Paul's was built 150 years before as the center piece in a great London mosaic which was dreamed of."

First 1941 Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. INEZ HARDEN.

The first Chicago divorce of the new year was granted yesterday to Mrs. Inez Rumler Harden, 20 years old, before Judge Roger J. Kiley. Mrs. Harden, a blonde living at 411 South Wabash avenue, testified that her husband, Thomas Harden, 24, beat her every week for 30 weeks. The Hardens were married Dec. 24, 1937, and separated July 15 last. According to her lawyer, Theresa C. Ehrlich, Harden is a theater usher in Marietta, Fulton county. Mrs. Harden waived alimony and was given permission to resume her maiden name.

Britain to Enlist Women in Fighting Fire Bombs

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—Women as well as men will be accepted for Britain's volunteer fire bomb fighting brigades, Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison announced today. "Fighting fire bombs is dangerous work," Morrison said, "but the time is long gone by when women can be kept away from dangerous work in defense of their country."

BRITISH BOMBERS RENEW RAIDS ON 'INVASION BASES'

Make Big Assault on Nazi Gun Batteries.

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP). — A new assault by British bombers upon German "invasion bases" along the French coast was signaled tonight by flashes of flares and muffled explosions visible and audible from across the cold and wind-swept Strait of Dover.

German positions between Calais and Boulogne appeared to be under attack, with the Boulogne region and the Nazi big gun emplacements at Cape Gris Nez getting special attention.

In this attack, the R. A. F. had to plunge thru severely unfavorable weather.

Smash Again at Bremen.

Bremen, important German industrial city, was struck by the raiders for the second night in succession. The assault tonight was said to be along the lines of the raid Wednesday nght when, the British claimed, the bombers left flames in Bremen that were visible 120 miles away. Tonight blows also were struck at Emden, at the mouth of the Dortmund-Ems canal.

Twenty thousand incendiary bombs and a great load of high explosive missiles were dumped on the German North sea military and naval port Wednesday night by relay after of planes, official accounts related. This, the British declared, was "partial retaliation" for last Sunday night's devastating fire raid on London.

The Focke-Wulf plane plant was left "a raging furnace," the air ministry's account said.

The Deutsche Vacuum oil refinery, one of the largest in Germany, was greatly damaged, and railways of the port were hit "again and again," the bulletin continued.

Like Mannheim, Bremen also has important shipbuilding yards, which were among the targets of the raid. Starch and rice mills, docks and warehouses of the port rivaling Hamburg in importance, and other industrial objectives were declared hit.

Declare No Planes Lost.

Antiaircraft guns filled the sky with a "formidable" barrage and one or two Nazi planes rose to challenge the raiders, but officials said no planes were lost in this or simultaneous attacks on Flushing, Ostend, and Brest.

[The Germans, acknowledging a raid on "northwestern Germany," said five persons were killed, several wounded, and three factories and a number of homes were damaged. They said one British plane was shot down. On the offensive side, the German air force was reported to have raided Liverpool, London, Sheffield, and Harwich Wednesday night.]

The German air force singled out a town in South Wales for its overnight fire bomb attack while raiding other parts of Britain on a far lighter scale.

London had an early evening alarm, but the antiaircraft guns tossed up a quick barrage and the "all clear" came before midnight, after long periods of calm.

Towns in the west and southwest of England also reported small raids.

NAZIS REVIEW RAIDS

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP).—The German high command claimed for its air force today a 25 to 1 superiority over the R. A. F. in bombs dropped during the last half of 1940, credited the air force and the navy with sinking 3,900,000 tons of British shipping, and declared that 1941 "will bring proof" of the effectiveness of "the battle against Britain."

The report declared the European coast from Narvik, Norway, to the Pyrenees frontier of France and Spain had been made impenetrable to any British landing operations.

The high command added these other claims:

In 2,000 attacks since Aug. 8 [the beginning of the "retaliation" siege of Britain], the air force has dropped 92,400,000 pounds of high explosive and 3,520,000 pounds of incendiary bombs on England.

England's most important harbors were attacked 350 times with "heaviest damage to Britain's imports and the capacity of these important harbors."

There were 130 major air attacks [in which 110 tons or more of bombs were dropped] on the British Isles since Aug. 8 and more than 100 attacks on London since Sept. 6, "some of which were of tremendous size."

U. S. MAY SERVE BRITAIN'S TRADE LINES IN PACIFIC

Administration Approves London Proposal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Administration approval of the London suggestion that America come to the aid of harassed British shipping by taking over operation of British trade routes in the Pacific was voiced in maritime circles today.

The proposal was offered as administration leaders were preparing plans to lease or lend cargo ships to Britain to replace merchant losses suffered thru mines, torpedoes, and bombs.

The suggestion that this country take over the empire's Pacific trade routes to relieve British ships for service in the war zone was advanced a year ago. Nothing came of the suggestion at that time, because the situation was not as critical as it is today.

Berlin Boasts of Raider.

Coincident with its revival came a boast from Berlin that a Nazi raider, identified merely as a "warship," had sunk some 65,000 tons of shipping in the Pacific. It could not be determined whether the Berlin report was issued by way of warning to this country against Pacific operations.

It was expected that the Germans would protest against operation of British lines by American vessels as an unfriendly act. Officials, however, were confident that the protests would not take the form of attacks on the American vessels even tho they plied in British colonial waters.

Services Already Taken Over.

American ships have already taken over two services between the east coasts of North and South America which had been operated by the British. No arrangements were made for the shift, however. The British will be free to resume the services in the event of a successful peace, but they will have to compete with the American vessels now plying the routes.

The same thing might also be accomplished without any special arrangement in the Pacific, a maritime official said. Another high official said the plan would be acceptable to this country and suggested that it be conditioned on a British guarantee that the United States can return to North Atlantic trade routes which it ceased operating under the neutrality act.

This official said that the North Atlantic was the most lucrative trade field. If the United States could get its share of that trade back without a struggle postwar economy will be considerably benefited.

PREDICTS DROP IN REJECTIONS OF DRAFTED MEN

Army doctors are expected to reject fewer draftees for physical reasons when induction under the draft law is resumed here today than they did during the first induction examinations last November, in the opinion of Capt. William R. Albus, medical induction officer of the 6th corps area.

The reason is that since the first examinations local draft board doctors, who must pass the men first, have received more definite instructions concerning whom to reject.

Statistics on the 294 rejections during the first induction period show that the largest number of men turned down [21.12 per cent] had insufficient serviceable teeth.

PANAMA TO AID U. S. DEFENSES, ITS PRESIDENT SAYS

President Arias.

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Jan. 2 (AP).—President Dr. Arnulfo Arias, in a speech largely devoted to relations between Panama and the United States, said today his government was "ready to lend its coöperation to facilitate the defense program that the war and navy departments of the United States contemplate."

In exchange, he said, Panama expects "understanding and unselfishness from the United States government."

Dr. Arias warned that such coöperation "does not and cannot signify the cession of sovereignty or unrestricted jurisdiction over any portion of the nation."

MINORITY PARTY BACKS URUGUAY PLAN FOR BASES

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 2 (AP).—In an about face the Herrerista party today voted in caucus to support President Alfredo Baldomir's proposals for naval and air bases within the Pan-American defense system.

Thus the country's largest minority party, which under the constitution controls half the seats of the senate and three cabinet posts, ended two months of bitter opposition directed by its leader, Senator Luis Alberto Herrera.

He had denounced the proposed bases, which would be built in collaboration with the United States, as a threat of domination by the northern power.

LEAVING BRITAIN IS DIFFICULT JOB, REPORTER FINDS

Planes and Ships Booked Months Ahead.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 5 [By Air Mail].—Departing from England at this stage of the war is a complicated problem. After numerous credentials have been obtained, a traveler is confronted with the all important question of transportation. Both boats and airplanes are booked months in advance and both are uncertain as to departure dates—without government intervention it is next to impossible to depart by air.

Thru the courtesy of the air ministry, accredited newspaper reporters are placed on a priority basis for the Lisbon air service. I bought a ticket for Nov. 27 and was told to report at a southwestern seaport on Nov. 26. Arriving there, I was told that the takeoff date had been delayed, but to stand by. The plane finally left on Dec. 4.

Each Passenger Questioned.

Before boarding the plane each passenger was weighed and taken individually into a private room and questioned by an army officer and a civilian official. Credentials were checked in detail.

After passing this muster, the customs came next. Then the guards took charge. The morning wore on. At 12:30 o'clock we were ushered out to the wharf 100 yards away and boarded a small motor launch. No one was allowed to remain outside the cabin. A 10 minute run brought us alongside the big four motored Imperial Airways Clipper. It resembled a huge shark on the surface of the water.

All 10 passengers soon were aboard, but difficulty in starting the engine delayed the takeoff another 15 minutes. An efficient steward explained the mechanism of the chairs and how to put on the life belts, which form the seat and back of the chair, and how to open emergency exits.

Poised for the Takeoff.

The ship was poised in the takeoff position so the full throttle was given as soon as all four engines got going. The plane's windows all had shutters, so no views of the surroundings were obtained. However, the launch ride disclosed shipping activity and inquiry disclosed no German bombers had visited this locality.

A skeleton crew of two pilots, a radio operator, and a general handy man operated the plane. The flight to Lisbon was smooth and uneventful. Shutters were removed from the windows after nothing but water was left to see.

The lights of Lisbon were particularly welcome after nine hours in the air and 12 weeks in a blackout country. Facilities here were lacking for night flying, so improvised flares were used. The pilot circled until he picked up a little motor launch with its deck lights, then glided down to a perfect landing beside the launch. The passengers were brought ashore in the boat and customs cleared at 11 p. m.

DECLARE RUSSIA JAILS THOUSANDS IN BALTIC LANDS

Travelers Report Many Persons Vanish.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland [By Mail].—The fate of the Baltic states under Russian rule proves Finland chose the right course in resisting the soviets to the last ounce of her strength, according to reports reaching Helsingfors from Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania.

Travelers said these three nations, which now form part of the soviet union, furnish a new example—that communism cannot provide a higher standard of living.

Workers Dispossessed.

The classes who worked, saved, and acquired property in the tiny nations rimming the Baltic have been dispossessed, according to reports. It further was charged that within a few weeks after the soviets replaced the local governments no one was permitted to own more than two pairs of shoes. All purchases are registered in passports. A special permit from the local commissar is required for the purchase of all goods except foodstuffs, which are rationed.

The so-called leveling off of the classes was accomplished quickly. It was said that thousands were arrested and disappeared. Some were executed on the night of their arrest, the travelers asserted. The killings were not announced, and the only indication of the fate of an arrested person was the receipt from the GPU [secret police] of a bundle containing clothes.

The new governments' rule by terror were said to have included repressions against Christian churches and the arrest of leading Christians and certain priests and pastors.

Put Pressure on Farmers.

Farmers, it was said, have been subjected to pressure to increase their production without hiring additional help. However, since stores have been emptied of their goods and farmers no longer can buy freely, production has begun to decline.

It was charged that introduction of collectivized agriculture has been held over farmers' heads as a threat to increase their output. But a large percentage of the farmers has depended upon hired help and today they are declared to be as thoroly demoralized as the urban population.

According to reports received here 12,000 Estonians, 10,000 Latvians, and 8,000 Lithuanians have been taken to Russia.

Fort Sheridan will become one of the nation's foremost antiaircraft training centers in 1941, it was predicted yesterday by Col. John L. Homer, commander of the 61st coast artillery and acting commander of the post.

Col. John L. Homer.

Within the next six weeks two antiaircraft outfits will move into the north shore encampment to form, together with the 61st regiment, which has been at Fort Sheridan since 1924, the 40th antiaircraft brigade. The incoming units are the 210th coast artillery of the Michigan National Guard and the 103d coast artillery of the Kentucky National Guard.

Other Units to Take Minor Roles.

Fort Sheridan will become the antiaircraft training ground for reserve officers from all parts of the country. Units of infantry, the quartermaster corps, ordnance corps, signal corps, and a medical detachment will be relegated to minor places in the make-up of the post, Col. Homer said.

The new 40th antiaircraft brigade will replace the 14th cavalry as Fort Sheridan's No. 1 outfit. The cavalry unit was accorded this honor for 16 years until its transfer in November to Fort Riley, Kas., to become part of a new cavalry division.

About 6,000 men will be stationed at the post by Feb. 15, and this number will be increased to 10,000 by April, the commander said. The 40th antiaircraft brigade will boast the largest number of men—3,000—with the corps area service command second with 1,142. The latter outfit furnishes a complete administrative setup for the post, relieving the tactical army units of all administrative responsibilities.

1,000 Draftees to Be Accommodated.

The recruit reception center will accommodate a maximum of 1,000 draftees, while the various service units stationed there will show a total of 913 men. Among the service units are the 50th signal battalion, the 48th quartermaster battery, the 81st quartermaster battery, the 6th signal detachment, and the 23d ordnance company.

The present organizational structure of the 61st regiment consists of a headquarters battery, a searchlight battery of 15 lights of 800,000,000 candlepower each, and three gun batteries, each with four 3 inch antiaircraft pieces. The units from Kentucky and Michigan will be similarly organized, altho not so large, the commander said. There are 1,755 men in the 61st. The addition of the two incoming units will bring the total antiaircraft personnel to 3,000.

The 61st coast artillery was the first antiaircraft regiment organized in the nation, Col. Homer said. Its active batteries have been together since 1921 when they were stationed at Fort Monroe, Va. When the outfit was expanded from a battalion to a regiment in 1924, it traveled cross country in its own trucks to Fort Sheridan.

Poe an Early Sergeant Major.

The history of the 61st goes back to the early part of the 19th century. Present members of the unit point with pride to the name of Edgar Allan Poe as a regimental sergeant major with the outfit from Jan. 1 to April 1, 1829.

Its A battery is directly descended from the A battery of the old 60th regiment, which was formed in 1806 by Capt. Winfield Scott. The unit became Easterbrook's light battery in 1808 and as such fought in the war of 1812, the Blackhawk war of 1832, the Seminole Indian wars of 1836 and 1838, the Mexican war, and in 21 battles of the civil war.

SECOND COURSE TO BE GIVEN IN ARMY SCIENCE

Courses in military science will be offered each Friday night from 7 to 10 o'clock in the University of Chicago field house beginning next Friday, it was announced yesterday by the Fort Sheridan Special C. M. T. C. Battalion association. Instruction will be the same as that given in the first series of courses which were organized last October and have just been completed.

Altho the training does not lead to a commission in the organized reserve, it is helpful in preparing draftees for their year in camp and provides veterans an opportunity to review their training so that they can serve in the new Illinois Reserve Militia.

Instructors will be members of the association, a group of 100 business and professional men who attended the civilian training camp at Fort Sheridan last summer. Applicants for enrollment must have two years of high school education and live in Chicago or its suburbs. The fee for the course is $5. Enrollments are accepted at the association's office at 6 North Michigan avenue.

115 Naval Reservists Finish Signal Course

One hundred fifteen naval reservists of class V-3, who had been studying signaling at the naval reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street since Oct. 1, were graduated yesterday. The group left for Norfolk, Va., where the men will continue their training with the Atlantic fleet. The graduates finished the four month course ahead of schedule. Remaining members of the class are expected to complete the course by the end of January.

UNION SEEKS RIGHT TO DEMAND EFFICIENT OPERATION OF FIRMS

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Julius Hochman, general manager of the dress joint board of the International Ladies Garment Workers union [A. F. of L.], said today that New York's 85,000 unionized dressmakers would demand a clause in new contracts whereby they would have the right to demand efficient plant management as a condition of employment.

He said workers would insist upon inclusion in new contracts of a clause giving workers the right to file charges with the impartial chairman of the dress industry against employers whom they deemed inefficient.

THREE BURNED, 400 DRIVEN OUT BY HOTEL BLAZE

Three men were burned, two severely, when fire swept the 10th floor of the New Michigan hotel, 2135 South Michigan avenue, shortly before midnight yesterday. About 400 guests, many of them in nightclothes, were chased to the lobby and street.

The injured are George Dempsey, 72 years old, a retired superintendent of the Cermak road postal substation; John F. Burns, 64, a decorator, and Orville Horn, 47, an employé of the Firestone Rubber company. Dempsey is in Mercy hospital in serious condition. Burns is in the People's hospital and Horn was given first aid after he dashed to safety down the blazing 10th floor corridor.

Second Deputy Fire Marshal Michael J. Cody estimated the damage at $3,000. Guests said there might have been other injuries if Miss Reva Welsh, switchboard operator, and Charles Hanson, bellhop, had not roused guests on the top 10th floor.

ARMY WILL ASK 3 BILLION MORE FOR ARMAMENT

Wants Weapons for Force of 2 Million Men.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The war department is preparing to ask the new congress for an additional 3 billion dollars for armaments in order to provide weapons for an army of 2 million men and facilities for manufacturing materiel for an army of 4 million men which would be called to the colors in the event of war.

Army officers refused to discuss war implications of the newest bid for billions which, if granted by congress, would boost defense appropriations and authorizations of the current rearmament program to over 20 billion dollars within the space of a year. It was felt in military circles that the new bid for funds indicates that the administration feels United States entry into the war inevitable or that the army is to be stripped of all materiel to aid Britain.

For Bigger Army Now.

A year ago the general staff was convinced that a well equipped army of 375,000 men would be sufficient to protect this country from any invasion. Many officers still are convinced this country needs no larger army for purely defensive purposes.

They point out that Hitler in six months of operations against England has not attempted to cross 20 miles of water even tho he has air superiority. He would, therefore, it is contended, debate a long time about conducting operations over 3,000 miles of ocean, particularly against a nation possessing the world's most powerful navy.

The defense estimate was radically revised upward when the administration started its rearmament program late last spring. The general staff then set the goal at 1,200,000 men. By June 30, it is estimated that some 1,400,000 men will be under arms—regulars, guardsmen, and conscripts—as the program to train the initial force of 1,200,000 reaches its peak.

Uses Word "Emergency."

Today it was learned that the army is seeking new funds to procure materiel for an army of 2 million men and to build factories to turn out supplies for an army of 4 million men in an emergency. The army employs the word "emergency" in place of the word "war" because it feels that the former word is less frightening to civilians.

Army officers were silent when they were asked whether the use of the phrase in connection with the new request does not mean that the defense program has become an arming for entry into the war program or an arming of Britain program.

The army's share of the huge 18 billion dollar program underway, according to solemn assurances made the last congress, would provide all the materiel needed for the army. It was said that the program would furnish enough guns, ammunition, tanks, and other equipment to guarantee the western hemisphere from attack by any power or combination of aggressor nations.

Under the program now being carried out, army appropriations were 5 billion 701 million dollars and contract authorizations were set at 2 billion 979 million dollars for a grand total of 8 billion 680 million dollars. Navy and civilian military appropriations and authorizations brought the entire program up to 17 billion 842 million dollars.

Division of Funds.

The additional 3 billion dollars, on which the army is working, would push the entire program up to almost 21 billion dollars. The new request contemplates the following approximate division of funds:

1. For the production of between 3,000 and 4,000 bombing planes to be made in midwestern automobile factories, $1,900,000,000.

2. For guns, tanks, and other materiel to equip an army of 2 million men, $1,500,000,000.

3. For construction of factories of sufficient reserve capacity to enable the nation to supply an army of 4 million men, $500,000,000.

The contemplated new plants would swell the total of 84 factories and other special facilities provided for out of the $800,000,000 appropriation for this purpose, voted by the last congress.

Approximately 75 per cent of the funds voted and authorized have been obligated to date by the army.

LEGION OPENS DRIVE FOR PERMANENT LAW TO DRAFT MEN 18-21

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The American Legion began a drive today to have the draft law made permanent legislation, but with compulsory military training limited to men 18 to 21 years old.

The legislative committee of the world war veterans' organization said Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] and Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] had agreed to introduce legislation embodying this program tomorrow, the first day of the new congress. The legislators are chairmen of the senate and house military committees, respectively.

The present draft law, making men 21 to 35 inclusive liable to a year's military training, will expire in five years, unless reënacted. The Legion proposed an amendment changing the age limits to 18 to 21 and striking out the clause limiting the legislation's life.

ASCAP PREPARES ITS FIRST SUIT IN RADIO MUSIC WAR

Protests Number Played in Fred Allen Show.

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers [ASCAP] will file within the next few days the first copyright infringement suit in its fight with radio stations and networks over what music may be played on the air.

John G. Paine, general manager of ASCAP, announced late today that he has instructed the society's attorneys to prepare papers for the suit as a result of music played last night on the program starring Fred Allen. To be named in the suit, Paine said, are the Texas company, sponsor of the program; Buchanan & company, advertising firm handling the broadcast; the Columbia Broadcasting system, and all CBS stations that carried the program.

"Wintergreen for President."

ASCAP charges infringement of the tune, "Wintergreen for President," from "Of Thee I Sing," popular musical show of several years ago. The full selection was not played and the exact nature of the alleged infringement was not stated, but it was pointed out that copyright laws forbid the unauthorized playing of more than eight bars of a selection protected by copyright. The music was written by the late George Gershwin and the lyrics by his brother, Ira.

The Columbia Broadcasting System issued the following statement: "There is absolutely no basis for such a suit. The tune mentioned was not 'Wintergreen for President,' but an original theme melody."

Speaking in behalf of ASCAP, John G. Paine, its general manager, said: "The society intends to defend vigorously its composers and authors from piracy and exploitation by the radio monopoly."

How It All Started.

The music fight arose when the major radio networks refused to sign new contracts in which ASCAP asked higher fees for the right to play music of ASCAP members on the air. The National Broadcasting company and CBS then were instrumental in establishing Broadcast Music, Inc., to form a rival pool of music for radio use.

Most of the popular tunes of the last 50 years were barred Jan. 1 from use on the more than 600 radio stations not signing new contracts with ASCAP. The stations subscribing to BMI include most of the large broadcasting units of the country.

Government Will Act.

The United States department of justice also has announced it will bring antitrust action shortly against both ASCAP and BMI, and against CBS and NBC as organizers of BMI.

Spokesmen for both organizations agreed in saying they have heard nothing of an offer to arbitrate the dispute which was reported today to have come from James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians.

CHICAGO DOESN'T CARE

Radio listeners in the Chicago area apparently are not much excited about the current musical war between Broadcast Music, Inc. [BMI] and the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers [ASCAP] to judge from reactions reported by Chicago stations last night.

Among some of the more popular songs being broadcast since the major networks barred ASCAP tunes are "Frenesi," "Alexander the Swoose," "I Give You My Word," "Perfidia," "Love Can Do the Darndest Things," "Practice Makes Perfect," "Let's Dream This One Out," "Wise Old Owl," "May I Never Love Again," "So You're the One," "Country Dance," and "Deep River." In addition, the classics and Stephen C. Foster's favorite melodies, as well as the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana" went over the air. All these are from the BMI music pool.

Few telephone calls or letters have been received by W-G-N, WBBM, WMAQ and WENR, the stations here using BMI music, the stations reported. A few comments were: "I think the old tunes are the best;" "Old music is pleasant now and then, but why so much?" "Why so much Latin Rhumba?" and "American homes need more old fashioned music."

Nineteen officers and 409 men were in the line of march. Other units departing were the regimental band, the veterinary and medical sections, and the service troop of the Urbana unit of the 106th cavalry regiment of which the Black Horse squadron is a part. The regiment was inducted into federal service Nov. 25, but departure for Camp Livingston was delayed because the camp was not completed.

ORDER SERVANTS MUST TESTIFY IN JOSLYN HEARING

Edward Richards, houseman, and his wife, Catherine, cook, in the Lake Bluff home of Mrs. Charlotte Joslyn, must tell what they know, if anything, concerning the alleged friendship between Mrs. Joslyn and her attorney, Thomas Hart Fisher.

The two originally were called as witnesses before Master in Chancery John J. Kelly in a hearing to determine whether Fisher is entitled to a $24,000 fee for obtaining a divorce for Mrs. Joslyn from George R. Joslyn, son of a manufacturer. Joslyn's lawyer, Alvin Hubbard, is fighting payment of the fee on the charge that Fisher's relationship with Mrs. Joslyn was more than that of attorney. Fisher denies the charge.

As the Richardses were about to testify recently Harold M. Keele, Fisher's lawyer, warned them that they might be liable to criminal prosecution if they mentioned names. An Illinois statute of 1935 bars the naming of corespondents in divorce cases. Yesterday, Judge John C. Lewe ordered the Richardses to testify on the grounds that the matter involves fees and not a divorce and does not come under the statute. The two are expected to testify next week at a date to be set by Master Kelly.

NEGRO DRAFTEES URGED TO FILE AS OBJECTORS

Negro draftees in Chicago have been urged to declare themselves conscientious objectors to army service because of plans to segregate Negro soldiers. This was announced yesterday by J. G. St. Clair Drake, secretary of an organization called the Conscientious Objectors Against Jim Crow committee.

Drake said letters have been sent to Negro draftees charging that the segregation movement is Jim Crowism, and violates the bill of rights.

Eight Sections of Subway Completed During 1940

Construction of eight sections of the subway tunnel costing $18,770,728 was completed during 1940 and contracts for 15 subway stations to cost $8,146,076 were awarded, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, reported yesterday. Harrington said 40,500 feet of single tube were mined in 1940 by subway workers, virtually completing the tunnel work in the initial system.

ASCAP DEALT A LEGAL BLOW IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2 (AP).—Federal Judge F. Ryan Duffy, ruling against the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers [ASCAP], today held constitutional the Wisconsin law licensing music brokers and requiring them to pay a state franchise tax of 25 per cent of fees collected.

The court's decision was handed down in preliminary skirmishing over the suit of Leo Feist, Inc., a New York music house, to collect $250 from Wiley Young of West Allis, a tavernkeeper. The plaintiff alleged that Young had permitted, without ASCAP authority, the playing of "The Waltz You Saved for Me" in his tavern last Jan. 6. Feist claimed copyright infringement.

Young counterclaimed, asserting that neither Feist nor ASCAP had obtained a license under the Wisconsin law. He asked a temporary injunction restraining them from collecting fees for permitting rendition of copyrighted music. This was refused.

FRESH DELAYS HIT MOBILIZATION OF GUARD UNITS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The war department announced today additional delay ranging from one to three weeks in tentative plans for mobilizing the 34th and 40th National Guard divisions and 11 miscellaneous Guard units.

"Recent torrential rains, lumber strikes, and other conditions over which the war department had no control" were blamed.

Heavy rains have hampered construction at Camp Claiborne, La., where the 34th division will train, and at Camp San Luis Obispo, Cal., to which the 40th division is assigned. Both these will be delayed about two weeks, it was estimated, and the induction of smaller units was postponed up to three weeks.

The delays affect 25,000 or more men, and were the latest of a series of such difficulties that have plagued mobilization of both the National Guard and selective service recruits.

Watch Family Now While Epidemic Colds Are Spreading

At a treacherous time like this, with an epidemic of contagious colds all around you, what you do today may save you and your family a lot of sickness, worry and trouble later.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SNIFFLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION . . . put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Va-tro-nol helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) use Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks Va-tro-nol and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today—have them handy, ready to use.

★ THE RULES ★

WHO CAN ENTER? This offer is open free to men, women, boys and girls everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO? Each week day a Crossword Puzzle will be printed in the Daily Tribune until 40 have appeared. Each puzzle contains the missing words of the informative item beneath the puzzle. Solve the puzzles, find the missing words and write them in the spaces provided. Missing words will appear automatically as you solve the puzzles. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 40. Do not send them in separately. You may send facsimiles if you wish. It is not necessary to solve ALL correctly. Prizes will be paid for entries ranking highest.

WHERE TO SEND? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Flag Puzzles," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. With your entry send a letter giving your name and address and stating in 25 words or less why you like to live under the protection of the flag of the United States. Letters will be considered only if two or more persons submit equally correct solutions to the puzzles; in which event judgment will be based on sincerity and originality. Entries must be in by midnight one week after Puzzle No. 40 has been printed.

JUDGMENT: Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. 430 cash awards totaling $5,000 will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of puzzles. No one shall be entitled to more than one prize. Elaborate entries will receive no more consideration than simple ones. In case of ties duplicate awards will be paid.

77TH CONGRESS OPENS CRUCIAL SESSION TODAY

Holds Key to U. S. Fate Over War Issue.

two houses will canvass the returns from the electoral college and formally proclaim Mr. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace elected President and Vice President, respectively, for the next four years. They will be inaugurated on Jan. 20.

On Tuesday congress will receive another message from the President, submitting his budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1—a budget that is expected to touch the unprecedented peace time total of 17 billion dollars, largely for the rearmament of the nation.

The defense program will occupy the attention of the new congress from the start. Additional appropriations will be considered and the progress of the arming program will be debated. Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] is demanding a congressional investigation of lagging airplane production.

Tax Increases in Offing.

Congress will receive at an early date the administration's request for an upping of the public debt limit from the present 49 billion dollars to 65 billions. The boosting of taxes to pay for the armament program also is in the offing but is unlikely to receive serious attention until after the March 15 income tax payments, when it will be possible to calculate how much more tax revenue is needed.

Early action will be sought on the federal reserve board program to terminate the President's powers to devalue the dollar and issue greenbacks and to authorize other measures to check inflation.

The President will endeavor to get congressional approval of the new agreement he has made with Canada to carry out the St. Lawrence seaway project as a defense water power measure. Having sustained defeat when he offered this plan as a treaty requiring a two-thirds vote of the senate, Mr. Roosevelt contemplates submitting it in a bill requiring passage by both houses but only by a simple majority.

Rayburn Picked for Speakership.

As a forerunner to the opening of the new session, Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas was renominated unanimously for speaker by house Democrats today. Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts was reelected house Democratic leader by the party caucus, and Representative Richard A. Duncan of Missouri was chosen chairman of the caucus.

SEEK TO IRON OUT TRANSIT PENSION DEADLOCK TODAY

A special city council subcommittee will meet today with transit officials and representatives of the transit employés' unions in an effort to settle the dispute over pensions under the proposed transit unification.

This was announced yesterday by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the council transportation committee, after Joseph J. Kehoe, spokesman for surface lines' employés, and Wilhelm Levander, elevated lines workers' spokesman, told the aldermen that the pension question is deadlocked. The unions have proposed a temporary plan for payment of $50 a month to men over 65, in addition to federal social security benefits. The companies have offered to make up the difference between social security benefits and $50 a month.

Joseph Sharfsin, counsel for the Federal Works agency, warned the union spokesmen that if their demands are too high the proposed 53 million dollar federal loan on which the whole merger plan is based may be killed. The pension clause is the chief point still to be settled in the traction ordinance, which is slated to be submitted to the city council next Thursday.

Office of County Clerk Sets a Collection Record

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn reported yesterday that his office collected $1,189,702 in fees during 1940, a new all-time record. The total is $460,571 more than was collected in 1939. The fees were from such sources as marriage licenses, tax redemptions, cancellations of sales, and registrations of births and deaths.

MADDEN IS GIVEN CONFIRMATION FOR U. S. BENCH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The senate voted 36 to 14 today to confirm the nomination of J. Warren Madden, former chairman of the National Labor Relations board, to be a member of the Court of Claims, after hearing Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] contend Madden's record was one of "prejudice."

Speaking for nearly three hours, Taft asserted that the administration of the labor board constituted "the greatest perversion of justice we have seen in America at any time," and that Madden "completely lacks the qualifications for being a judge."

Taft asserted Madden had demonstrated that he favored "blacklisting firms" even before the labor board had passed on truth or falsity of charges involving them; that he and other board members and employés had engaged in "lobbying activities" in express violation of federal laws, and that "the labor board went out and deliberately stimulated industrial strife."

Those voting against confirmation were Burke, Byrd, and Clark [Mo.], Democrats, and Austin, Ball, Capper, Frazier, Gurney, Hale, Holman, Johnson [Cal.], Nye, Taft, and White, Republicans. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois voted for confirmation; Wayland Brooks was not recorded.

76TH CONGRESS SPENDING MARK TOPS 36 BILLION

Outlay Exceeded Only in World War Days.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The 36 billion dollar 76th congress virtually concluded the longest session in history today and will expire automatically at noon tomorrow.

Technically, tomorrow will be the 367th day of the third and last session of the congress, altho the house adjourned sine die after meeting for an hour and a half today. The present senate will meet at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow for farewell remarks and tributes to lame ducks and departed members.

Appropriations and contract authorizations of the 76th congress, providing funds for expenditure in the 1940 and 1941 fiscal years, aggregated 36 billion 489 million dollars. This peacetime spending record was exceeded only during the world war days, when congress appropriated a total of 45 billion 947 million dollars for the fiscal years 1918 and 1919.

Spends at Rapid Pace.

The third or 1940 session appropriated 19 billion 71 million dollars in cash and granted authority to let contracts against future appropriations aggregating 4 billion 66 million dollars. Of this amount 13 billion 106 million was made available to the army and navy and related activities under the national defense program.

In addition to these provisions for immediate outlays, congress voted authorizations for future appropriations to finance construction of so-called two ocean navy at a cost of 4 billion 586 million.

Thus commitments of the session for national defense aggregated 17 billion 692 million dollars.

Defense Fund Purposes.

The national defense appropriations were intended to:

1. Provide for complete equipping and maintaining on a combat status the force of 1,400,000 men contemplated by the army's protective mobilization plan.

2. Provide reserve stocks of critical equipment [items not commercially manufactured, such as guns, planes, tanks, ammuntion, etc.] for a force of 2,000,000.

3. Raise the enlisted strength of the regular army from 227,000 to 375,000, the strength of the National Guard in officers and men from 210,000 to 346,000 and the enlisted strength of the army from 145,000 to 170,000.

4. Provide for the induction and training of 695,000 conscripts during the first year of the conscription program and to finance the National Guard in active federal service for one year.

5. Provide the army with a force of 25,000 and the navy with a force of 10,000 airplanes.

6. Begin the construction of 202 warships and 57 auxiliaries.

War Policies Big Issue.

The national defense program and President Roosevelt's war policies overshadowed all other issues during the year long third session of the present congress. The first session adjourned on Aug. 5, 1939, 215 days after it met, in full rebellion against the Roosevelt administration.

The house scrapped a 5 billion dollar lending-spending program advocated by Mr. Roosevelt and the senate refused to act on his demand that the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act be repealed.

Following the outbreak of the European war, however, the President called congress into special session on Sept. 21, 1939, and the arms embargo was repealed after a momentous controversy. The special session ended on Nov. 3, 1939.

Battle on Conscription.

Altho national defense appropriations recommended by the President were voted virtually unanimously during the third session the first peacetime conscription law was enacted after prolonged and bitter controversy, especially in the senate.

The release of army and navy airplanes to Great Britain, the exchange of 50 navy destroyers for air and naval base leases in British western hemisphere possessions and other acts of the administration increasing the participation of this country in the European war were subjects of great controversy.

The last session indicated its distrust of Mr. Roosevelt's promises to keep the country out of the war by refusing to adjourn both before and after the Nov. 5 election.

Aside from national defense and the war issue, the outstanding domestic issues of the last session were presented by the Walter-Logan bill and the Smith amendments to the National Labor Relations act, both of which failed to become law.

House Sustains Veto.

The house sustained President Roosevelt's veto of the Walter-Logan bill, which was designated to facilitate judicial review of the regulations and orders of federal administrative agencies and halt what proponents of the legislation termed "the drift toward totalitarianism."

Altho the house by an overwhelming vote passed the Smith bill to abolish the National Labor Relations board, as constituted before its recent revision, and to overhaul the Wagner act administration forces filibustered the measure to death in the senate labor committee.

TO PREVENT INFLATION.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board of governors, has become convinced that congress must act if the country is to be spared the danger of inflation. In a dramatic move over the New Year holiday this top-flight New Dealer asked congress to cancel the President's power to print 3 billion dollars' worth of greenbacks and to reduce the gold content of the dollar. He also asked that steps be taken to counteract the inflationary forces created by the government's spending and gold buying programs. Mr. Eccles' action was approved by the heads of the 12 federal reserve banks and the 12 outstanding bankers who compose the federal reserve advisory council.

Mr. Eccles wants the reserve banks to have the authority to increase the amount of cash banks must keep idle and in reserve. The idea seems to be that if business men should begin to borrow heavily at the banks the reserve authorities could prevent the increase in loans from getting out of hand.

There is nothing in our recent experience to suggest that business men will at any time in the early future plunge themselves heavily into debt. The lowest rate of interest in all history has not tempted them. The big borrower has been and is likely to continue to be the government. But if 12 leading bankers and the 12 reserve bank presidents agree with Mr. Eccles that power to increase reserve requirements is desirable, we won't ask that the power be withheld.

Similarly on the gold proposal. Mr. Eccles thinks that the future receipts of gold ought to be sterilized. He would have the treasury borrow money to buy any future sales of foreign gold here. Again with the 12 advisory council bankers and the 12 reserve bank presidents indorsing the proposal we won't go against it, altho it sounds a little bit silly for the government to borrow money to buy gold we don't want and which we fear to possess.

The important items in the Eccles program are the restriction on coin clipping and printing press money. THE TRIBUNE was aware from the beginning that there were grave dangers in such executive powers. We urged congress not to confer these powers upon the President and to withdraw them after they had been voted him. When the President asked to have extended the authority to devalue the dollar further we objected as vigorously as we could, giving as reasons those which Mr. Eccles has advanced. Such authority in any man's hands always held out the specter of inflation and thus discouraged private investment of capital.

The corrective steps we have long urged and which are now recommended by the head of the federal reserve system are indispensable to prevent inflation while armament expenditures are swollen and after the armament boom has passed to create confidence in the American dollar so that private investment can be made with confidence.

Perhaps this further comment may not seem out of place: THE TRIBUNE for 75 years has been an advocate of a secure monetary system and the financial historians have been kind in giving this newspaper considerable credit for the maintenance of the gold standard. A believer in sound money, we welcome Mr. Eccles' support of the cause, belated tho it is.

DEMOCRACY IN A QUEER SETTING.

An organization known as the American Forum of Democracy was created last summer in the belief that "democracy was becoming a word without meaning and the only way it would ever get any definite meaning would be for every intelligent person to think about it and talk about it." Accordingly, the forum proposes to encourage the organization of town meetings in communities all over the country "to talk over and clarify matters of community and national interest" and is presently engaged in seeking funds to finance this work.

The appeal is not without its oddity. The organizers have been at great pains to collect august names for the executive committee. Behind these dignitaries, row on row, come the members of the advisory board representing all that is accepted as admirable in American life. The Association of Junior Leagues of America is there in the person of its executive secretary, Mrs. De Forest Van Slyck. So are the Daughters of the Cincinnati, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, the Camp Fire Girls, the Elks, the American Federation of Teachers, the Sons of Confederate Veterans, the World's Christian Endeavor society, and others too numerous to mention.

And behind them march thirty-six trustees appointed respectively by the governors of thirty-six states.

That list represents a lot of hard work on the part of some one expert in the public relations business. Some of the grandees were pushovers, but to land all of them required perseverance, patience, and no ordinary talent for letter writing and personal solicitation. The organizers can be credited not only with good intentions but also with considerable skill in the arts of persuasion.

It is curious, then, that the organization has its headquarters at No. 9 Rockefeller plaza, New York City. It is curious because that is not the kind of address which will make an instant appeal to informed lovers of democracy. It is a fine address from which to raise heavy money; but this organization says it is not out for subscriptions on anything like that scale. Money, as the saying goes, is not its principal object.

The Forum of Democracy is devoted to good works and, with admirable inconsistency, it has set itself up in Rockefeller plaza which represents the nation's best current example of ruthless real-estating. With Rockefeller money an immense amount of office space was created. The methods used in obtaining tenants were strikingly similar to those practiced by the founder of the fortune in his unreformed period. Tenants were swiped from other and weaker landlords with a magnificent disregard of the decencies of competition.

Today the collection of Rockefeller buildings in New York is the home of some of the tightest monopolies this country knows. The building corporation houses, if it does not control, a theatrical monopoly, a musical monopoly, a radio monopoly, and we do not know how many other monopolies. They are strange companions for an organization devoted to the regeneration of democracy; but that doesn't seem to have bothered the executive committee, the advisory committee, nor yet the governors and the trustees.

How much good this organization can accomplish is anybody's guess. Certainly the chances are that it can't do much harm, unless, indeed, the selection of the headquarters is an evidence of a belief that democracy can be bought. It never has been. Thomas Jefferson, who devoted a great deal of thought to the subject, was persuaded that democracy could not flourish in an atmosphere of economic privilege and there is no reason to believe he was wrong.

LEOPOLD'S SUPPRESSED LETTER.

The letter King Leopold wrote to President Roosevelt May 28, 1940, explaining the surrender of his army that day, has at last been published here in its full text. Even now it reaches the American people, for whom it was obviously intended, by indirect means. It is contained in the quarterly bulletin of the Belgian-Luxemburg Chamber of Commerce in Switzerland, that bulletin having been received in Washington Dec. 31.

When Leopold wrote to Mr. Roosevelt he was anticipating what was likely to happen and what did happen. He feared that in the terrible confusion of the time he and his army would be accused of treachery to the allied cause. Bitter charges were made and, altho Mr. Churchill made a plea for suspended judgment, the French government and some Belgian civilian officials in Paris gave color to the idea that the disaster in Flanders had been precipitated by the unexpected collapse of Belgian courage and resistance. Very little accurate information was obtainable and misinterpretation of what had happened was probable.

The Belgian government, when the Germans invaded, asked for assistance and the British and French undertook to extend their fronts and defend the Low Countries. The history of those fatal days is not yet completely revealed, but some of it is coming out, and it appears that it was not weakness, irresolution, or infirmity of purpose which exposed the Belgian army and brought it to its final catastrophe.

Leopold wanted the people of the United States to know his story because he realized that a distortion of the facts, or a lack of knowledge, might adversely affect public opinion here. A good opinion in the United States had been valuable to Belgium and would be again. Therefore the head of the Belgian government addressed the head of the American government to explain, on this painful day, the circumstances in which he was compelled to surrender.

He wrote Mr. Roosevelt that the Belgian army had been used up, regardless of cost, in a four-day battle. "We were finally surrounded on extremely limited territory, inhabited by a very dense population and already invaded by hundreds of thousands of civilian refugees who were without shelter, without food, without drinkable water, and swarming from one place to another as a result of aerial bombardments. Yesterday my last means of resistance were destroyed under the weight of an overwhelming superiority of troops and airplanes. Under those conditions I sought to avoid a combat which would have today led to our extermination without profit for the allies."

This letter reached the White House and was withheld from publication. The explanation now is that, if reported back to Europe, it might have had a damaging effect upon the French morale and that, therefore, it was unwise to make it public. There would seem to be an overstrain of the probabilities here; but after the collapse of France there was no reason whatever for not permitting Leopold to use his only opportunity to address the friendly American people. He had no other opportunity because he was, immediately after writing the letter, a prisoner of the Germans. The only purpose the censorship of the letter served was to throw upon the Belgians the full responsibility for a defeat for which they certainly were not more responsible than the British and the French.

Americans who have taken some thought of the deplorable condition of the people in the overrun countries soon found that the disparaging reports regarding the Belgians had taken effect here. It was a disposition to hold that they not only had brought their disaster on themselves but that they had contributed to the fall of France and the subsequent position of the British fighting without allies. It was evident that this was unfair and, further, that it might work an additional and unjust hardship to the conquered peoples. We had heard a great deal about treachery in all these unfortunate lands and were being led into errors difficult to overtake and correct. The release of Leopold's letter at the proper time might have helped the people to suspend judgment and to await the facts.

Editorial of the Day

A REVOLUTIONARY TECHNIQUE.

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.]

The world, as others have doubtless observed, is changing fast. Not the least conclusive evidence is the announcement that some of those who made contributions to the last campaign are getting part of their money back. The Independent Citizens' committee, a branch of the Republican campaign in Allegheny county, has divided a surplus of $1,402.46 among contributors on a pro rata basis.

This is, of course, at variance with all previously accepted political procedure. It may be that the Independent Citizens' committee will be criticized, charged with unfairness, even picketed and boycotted by the formal political organizations as a result of such unorthodox and unheard of conscientiousness. When before did a political committee ever confess it had collected too much money? The thing is, in its way, revolutionary.

We've always wondered what a radio announcer feels like after two and a half hours of rapid fire chattering for a football broadcast. Does he yearn to withdraw into the silence, or does he keep right on talking?

We are wondering, at this moment, what happens when a day after day columnist feels too sick to drag himself to the office.

Now and then, when we see the thermos bottle type of lunch box being lugged about, we wonder if the old fashioned folding box, such as we used in high school, wasn't a handier gadget. When emptied, it could be flattened out and carried in the pocket.

* * *

The phrase "all out," which has become a refrain in bellicose talk, causes us to wonder if it might not be translated into "nobody home."

* * *

We wonder if a year's training in the army would put a sense of orderliness into the lugs who toss empty booze bottles out of their cars to shatter into dangerous fragments on roadways and sidewalks.

MARY ANN'S QUILT.

Mary Ann's house at the edge of the wood,
Winter and summer, weathering stood;
In her chamber window facing the road,
Mary Ann, dreaming, pieced and sewed.
Trifling business, the neighbors said,
Piecing such quilts for a spinster's bed.
But Mary Ann dreamed as the colors spilled
Out of her piece bag just as she willed;
She pieced her quilt of the colors she saw,
Of the oak and the maple, the birch and the haw,
Of the golden lights on the wimpling creek
And the red kine drinking, dappled and sleek,
Or perhaps the work teams pulling by
With sun-starred buckles and hames swinging high.
She sat by her window and pieced and dreamed
And the forest aisles with gay riders teemed,
Jingle of spur and flash of shield—
Mary Ann dropped her quilt and kneeled;
Caroling blithely her knight rode at ease
Under the sun warmed, dappling trees,
And the gold of his hair and the gold of his greaves
Was the rich birch gold of the forest leaves.
They found her there, her head on the sill,
Smiling as one who is dreaming still.

When Celebrities Came to Main Street.

A memory of the late Daniel Frohman as seen by a small boy of Bloomington, Ill.:

Soon after he married Margaret Illington [Maude Light] they visited her home town, which she honored in coining her stage name. It was summer, and Sunday morning. Right after church they strolled down Main street. When small boys, including myself, all fresh from Sunday school, saw Mr. Frohman attired in silk hat, cutaway, and striped trousers we trailed along until the visitors were leading a wide-eyed parade. Nothing like it had we seen, except in connection with minstrel shows, and our speculations as to the purpose of the costume were audible to Mr. Frohman. He tried to speak to us, but when he turned we fled to safety; and when he proceeded we resumed the pursuit. This continued until he and Miss Illington found shelter in a home.

SIRE OF DON QUIXOTE.

[Miguel de Cervantes, 1547-1616.]

There is no code that Fortune must consult
To bring the gifts of nature to success;
Her ways are hers alone, and the result
Redeems always her harshness or largess.
Full decades five she dogged a powerful soul,
Among the Dons, the Ottomans and Moors,
With tripping clods and hardship's broken bowl,
Frost-bitten hopes and prison's luckless doors;
Stole his left hand, fed him musty victuals,
And met his smiling spirits with a frown;
Yet all her junk, all her rusty missiles,
His sixty years' exertions melted down.
And so that tale of Spanish madness flows
Like molten metal and forever glows!

A GENEROUS DIET FOR BLEEDING PEPTIC ULCERS.

Bleeding from the gastric pouch is regarded by most of us as of fairly serious import. And yet, one need not be apprehensive if proper management can be instituted without delay.

Within the last few years we have learned much about the usual cause—a peptic ulcer. We know now—instead of following the old time dictum "no food whatsoever by mouth"—that the patient can be rendered comfortable by prompt feedings. As soon as possible after nausea has subsided, a pureed menu, including meat, is prescribed.

To many of us this plan—first suggested by a Copenhagen physician in 1937—came as somewhat of a shock. But the logic behind the régime appears so sound and the results have been so favorable that we accept it as not only conducive to recovery, but life-saving.

What is this new diet and how is it administered? First, it may be stated that it contains about 2,500 calories, a generous amount of vitamin C, and all the minerals. Portions are given at two hour intervals between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. Enough water or milk in 5 ounce quantities may be drunk to allay thirst.

Meanwhile the victim—tho not allowed to walk about the room until the third week—may adjust himself comfortably to his surroundings and move about in bed. In most instances, recovery is complete by the end of a month as the rations are adequate to maintain nutrition, to bring the blood back to normal, and to promote healing.

Strangely enough, there is rarely the slightest tendency to vomit after the second, or at the most the third day. If this untoward complication persists, however, it may be desirable to omit several "snacks" until the stomach quiets down. Unfortunately, however, withholding meals may not rest the gastric apparatus. In fact, when empty, the muscle coats will contract strongly and, in consequence, a new hemorrhage may be started.

Another reason that must be considered is that blood coagulates quicker when mixed with edibles that are undergoing absorption. This is due to the meat, which is a part of the prescribed program. Thus it is that patients who are kept on the Meulengracht schedule are far less likely to suffer subsequent losses of blood. A further advantage lies in the fact that these individuals are not exhausted. Digestion proceeds normally and well being is enhanced.

But what is the diet? The vegetables consist of beets, asparagus, carrots, peas, spinach, and potatoes. Among fruits [also pureed] may be mentioned apples, apricots, peaches, pears, prunes, and orange juice. All are passed thru a sieve to exclude the fiber. Baked custard, cornstarch, and rice and tapioca puddings are well borne; while cooked cereals, such as oatmeal or cream of wheat, are useful. Meat is prepared as scraped beef, made into balls and broiled. Additional items, such as minced lamb and baked or creamed fish, are listed.

Every sufferer of this type has lost fluid—hence it is wise to replace body liquids as speedily as possible. But the stomach should not be flooded to the point where a firm clot will become dislodged. It should be pointed out, however, that certain observers believe that this will not ensue and many physicians place no restrictions on the amount of water or milk that may be taken. At any rate, there is no rule against satisfying fully hunger and thirst.

VITAMINS IN DRIED FRUITS.

Mrs. C. H. writes: Do dried fruits lose their vitamin potency in the dehydration process?

REPLY.

A careful check of dried apricots shows that 16 to 51 per cent of A is retained. In prunes, however, 91 per cent remains. Peaches which are sun or mechanically dried keep most of their A. Raisins lose a generous proportion [as much as 50 per cent] of their B. So will peaches. The use of sulphur dioxide serves to preserve C and produces very little effect on A. In other words, most dried fruits apparently keep from 50 to 90 per cent of their vitamin values.

DON'T MENTION MY NAME.

S. D. I. writes: I am afflicted with talking in my sleep. At times I say things that are true and at other times things that are untrue. Consequently, I get into arguments with my mother. What can I do to correct this condition?

REPLY.

Audible dreaming is a fatigue symptom. The subconscious mind keeps going at a rapid pace. Light evening meals and a quiet few hours before retiring are suggested. Anxiety, worry, apprehension, etc., pull the triggers of dreams. If secret thoughts come to the surface, whisper—don't shout.

WHEEZING.

R. A. writes: Can eating lots of ice be the cause of wheezing in the chest?

REPLY.

If you desist, and then improve, it is. If no change is observed, it probably isn't.

Ice water creates quite a commotion when it enters the stomach. The cold may blanch the gullet temporarily, as well as the neighboring air passages. Congestion is likely to follow, which may explain your trouble.

HEREDITY IN ALLERGY.

J. D. M. writes: If both parents are afflicted with eczema, will their children necessarily inherit the ailment?

REPLY.

Eczema is a manifestation of allergy or skin sensitivity. The tendency will be inherited altho the offspring may not exhibit the disorder in the same form. For example, the hereditary type may be hay fever or asthma. More often than not, no trouble will appear.

NAIL GROWTH.

M. C. writes: Why does it take so long for my finger nails to grow? I need to cut them only about twice a year. Could it be that something is lacking in my diet?

REPLY.

The circulation to the extremities may not be up to par or your food may be deficient in sulphur.

STOP EATING.

G. L. writes: Is there any medicine that will lessen appetite?

REPLY.

Perhaps your family doctor can help you by prescribing some nauseating drug, such as ipecac. The quantity may be regulated so that food will not be appealing. A generous dose of self-control may be substituted.

NOT RECOMMENDED.

R. L. writes: Is kerosene beneficial to the hair?

REPLY.

Not advised as a routine prescription. When mixed with olive oil, it may be employed to eradicate head lice and their eggs. There are many cleansing or stimulating substances which are far better.

PROPERTY SALE.

Harvey, Ill., Dec. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I received a quit claim deed for a piece of property. The seller put documentary stamps on the deed for the required amount, so he says. What I would like to know is:

1. Are documentary stamps the proper stamps to put on a deed?
2. If not, what kind of stamps are used?
3. Are the stamps canceled by the seller or purchaser or does the recorder of deeds cancel the stamps at the time the deed is recorded?
4. How much is necessary per $1,000?
5. Is it necessary to foreclose on a mortgage within 10 years after the mortgage becomes due? In this case the mortgage has not been heard from for more than 10 years.

W. D.

1. Yes.
2. See 1.
3. Ordinarily by the seller, but it makes little difference.
4. Fifty cents for each $500.
5. Since a part payment or new promise prevents the general 10 year limitation period from operating [Ill. Rev. Statutes, Chap. 83, sec. 17], title examiners have experienced difficulty in determining whether old mortgages may safely be ignored by real estate purchasers. The legislature has botched two attempts to deal with this situation.

In 1915 it passed section 11½ of the limitation chapter, declaring that every mortgage then of record is declared to have ceased by limitation if more than 20 years have elapsed since the original or extension due date of record, unless the holder shall record an extension within five years after 1915, "then said mortgage . . . shall continue a lien . . . for a period of 10 years" after the extension due date and no longer unless a further extension be recorded.

Presumably because the opening clause limited the 1915 act to mortgages of record in 1915, section 11a was passed in 1935 stating that "on and after July 1, 1940 when more than 20 years has [sic] elapsed from [the due date as shown by the] mortgage [or] any extension agreement on record . . . then the . . . mortgage . . . shall cease by limitation. Any such extension . . . shall continue the lien . . . for a period of 10 years" after the extension maturity. It will be observed that the first sentence fixes a 20 year period, while the second sentence implies a 10 year period, but there is no distinction between the fields to which they apply.

Clearly mortgage holders are not safe in relying on the 20 year period. They should record an extension or start foreclosure within 10 years of the recorded due date. This means that, if extensions are for five year periods, only the alternate ones need to be recorded but many brokers are playing safe by recording all extensions.

[*This clause dangles in the statute just as it does in our summary, but perhaps it is unreasonable to expect the draftsman to remember how he started his sentence in the perspective of the fact that the sentence is 254 words long. We also have carried into our summary the legislative confusion in the use of "shall." In general, statutes should speak in the present tense.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 25.

1. A person who directed his actions by a metronome would probably be learning Carpentry Aviation Music Accounting.
2. An olive branch is usually regarded as an emblem of War Science Athletics Peace.
3. The concrete area immediately in front of an airplane hangar is called the Apron Runway Skirt Ramp.
4. Which of the following types of cheese is not a dairy product? Cottage Cheese Limburger Headcheese Roquefort.
5. Wives slit the top crust on pies before baking them for the primary purpose of Decoration Preventing Crumbling Venting Steam Improving Flavor.
6. The edible portions of the following farm products are always covered with some protective device. How well can you match each fruit or grain with the name of its protective covering? You are entitled to one point for each correct matching.

[a] Pop corn	[v] Rind
[b] Navy beans	[w] Hull
[c] Oats	[x] Peel
[d] Watermelon	[y] Husk
[e] Orange	[z] Pod

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—the last question counts five points.]

MERITS AND EMOTIONS.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—The principal reason given by those who would distinguish the present war from past ones by coloring it with an ideological tint is that international morality is outraged by the dictators' use of broken faith, treachery, murder, and other less heinous acts as instruments of policy. These practices undoubtedly exist but their value as levers to catapult the U. S. into the fracas is open to serious controversy.

Britain is fighting for her national existence and we are naturally sympathetic to her cause. We have the bonds of many years of friendly social and trade relations with the empire. Her attempt to retain control of a large portion of the world's trade meets with no opposition in this country. We know that we can deal commercially with her on a basis of mutual trust and governed by rules of fair exchange which have prevailed for decades. However, none of these factors make a convincing argument for American participation.

Circumstances have placed her in the rôle of crusader against an international monster—the axis. The millions now being spent in this country for "educational" purposes are being concentrated on convincing us that the Armageddon is at hand, that the anti-Christ is roaming at large and that we owe it to Christendom to take up arms against the inhuman beast—but not one word about saving the British empire.

Let's judge this problem on its merits alone and not allow our decisions to be governed by our emotions.

BARBED WIRE.

Barrington, Ill., Dec. 27.—In today's issue you relate that the city of Chicago is violating its rule on barbed wire fence. I am wondering if this ruling is not being misinterpreted.

Our Barrington General Ordinance book, printed in 1903 and still in use, states in Section 1. "No fence or barrier consisting of what is called "barbed wire," or of which barbed wire is a part, shall be built or used within the village of Barrington along any public street, alley or way."

The evident intention of this ordinance provision is to protect the public using a public way from bodily injury due to possible contact with barbed wire, and from damage to clothing and other wear. The ordinance evidently does not prohibit the use of barbed wire fencing on private property not "along any public street, alley or way."

It appears to me that where a chain link or similar design of fence is erected along a public way, the use of one or more strands of barbed wire on top of such fence, on arms extending from the fence posts at an angle of say 45 degrees into the private property, and where the fence is higher than a person walking, is perfectly in order. No person has any business on top of such a fence, along a public way; and a fence is erected fundamentally for protection against egress or ingress, so that barbed wire at the top should be permissible as long as it can do no damage or injury to any one moving along a public way in customary manner.

CANTONMENT WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—I read with great interest the article in THE TRIBUNE headlined "Two Unions Fix Price of Jobs at U. S. Camps." Your writer, Mr. Thompson, seems to be very much perturbed over the fact that to get a job as a carpenter at Great Lakes or Fort Sheridan, you must be a member of Lake County, local 461, of the Carpenters' union, or of any local belonging to the Carpenters District Council of Chicago, and that to get a job as a laborer you must be a member of Lake County, local 152 of the Laborers' union or one of the Chicago locals.

Perhaps, if he had made inquiries, he would have found out that the contracts called for the payment of the prevailing rate of wages, and that only union men of the building trades are to be employed, and that agreements to that effect are in force with the general contractors.

From the interviews Mr. Thompson had with the applicants for work, they evidently are jacks of all trades and floaters, who never carried a union card, and never had to fight for union wages and conditions, and probably never will, but they wish to reap the benefits.

Did Mr. Thompson ever join a fraternal organization or a club without paying an initiation fee or dues? I think not.

Recording Secretary,

BLIGHT.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Congressman Dewey's plan to place dilapidated and abandoned properties to profitable use calls to attention a fundamental remedy which must be found and applied if Chicago is going to survive.

Blighted areas now cover large expanses of the city and are sweeping on like prairie fires before a wind. Large areas have been abandoned. Blighted property provides little or no revenue to the community, but contributes heavily to government overhead in crime, disease, policing, street cleaning and other services. At the ballot box, the inhabitants, by means fair and foul, not only seal the blight upon themselves, but fan the flames so that further properties are consumed. Unless the trend is stopped, no part of the city will be safe.

Unneeded subways, widened streets, superhighways, boulevards and such improvements do not help, but aggravate the condition. They provide an escape to places of decency. Plans should be made to rezone these areas of blight by a law which will not be patterned after the makeshift, ill-enforced ordinance in effect today. Take the abandoned properties which have been forfeited for taxes and make small parks of them. Encourage buildings of the proper type. Protect them against encroachment of obnoxious businesses and improvements. Teach our people to properly care for their buildings and their surroundings. Civic pride must be revived. If these things are not done, Chicago will become one great slum. It has a good start now.

And, by the way, a little of the three billions proposed to be given [or loaned?] for the purpose of blowing men and property to hell could be used for the benefit of our own people in projects like this. If we must fight to satisfy the war dogs, let us give the people something to fight for.

EMPLOYMENT FOR NEGROES.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—The Chicago Council of Negro Organizations, a federation of eighty-one religious, educational, labor, business, social, and civic groups, with an aggregate membership of approximately 165,000, heartily indorses the special campaign for employment opportunities for Negroes, sponsored by the Chicago Urban league, and referred to in your recent editorial.

We are vitally concerned over the social and economic plight of our Negro citizens, which is due very largely to the discriminatory practices of industries which limit their opportunities for employment.

We appreciate the fact that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has given mention to the Urban League's appeal and we sincerely hope that your great newspaper will continue to lend support to those efforts which are intended to improve the status of our fellow Negro citizens.

[MRS.] IRENE MCCOY GADES,

MR. DEWEY'S PROPOSAL.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—It is gratifying to note that some one has finally hit upon a practical solution to our airport problem. Congressman Dewey's proposal for the conversion of the blighted areas on the near south side into a central airport is sound and should have the indorsement of every Chicagoan.

A modern subway by 1942. The world's greatest and most modern two level airport by 1945. Why not? R. W. DANOW.

SAME TEN CITIES STILL BIGGEST IN 1940 U. S. CENSUS

Washington Has Largest Percentage Gain.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Rankings of the major cities changed little under the 1940 census, the Census bureau said today.

The first 10 cities and their populations are: New York, 7,454,995; Chicago, 3,396,808; Philadelphia, 1,941,334; Detroit, 1,623,452; Los Angeles, 1,504,277; Cleveland, 878,336; Baltimore, 859,100; St. Louis, 816,048; Boston, 770,816, and Pittsburgh, 671,659.

These were the same 10 cities at the top of the list in the 1930 census, and the rankings were the same except that in the decade Baltimore took seventh place away from St. Louis.

Among the larger cities, Washington, D. C., where government employment has greatly increased, had the biggest gain, 36.2 per cent.

92 with More Than 100,000.

Listing all cities of 100,000 population or more, the bureau noted that there were 92 of them, one less than 10 years ago. Newcomers to the list were Sacramento, Cal., and Charlotte, N. C., but these additions were more than offset when El Paso, Tex.; Lynn, Mass., and Evansville, Ind., dropped out of the 100,000 class.

In the 92 cities of the 1940 list, there were 37,987,989 residents, or approximately one-fourth of all the people in the continental United States. As a class, their population was 5 per cent larger than in 1930, a gain slightly under the national average.

Cities Listed by Rank.

The final census figures of 1940 and 1930 for cities with populations exceeding 100,000, arranged according to rank, follow:

City—	Rank— 1940.	1930.	Population— 1940.	1930.

Calles, Exiled Ex-President of Mexico, Plans Return

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—Plutarco Elias Calles, exiled former president of Mexico, today disclosed he would return to Mexico City "shortly" to reside as a "retired citizen." Earlier this week the former "iron man" president broke a long silence to indorse the administration of President Avila Camacho.

"ONLY A COLD" But Don't Neglect It

Unless colds are given prompt treatment, there is always danger of complications. Colds should never be neglected in the early stages.

Be careful—use Father John's medicine promptly. Its rich, nourishing elements not only help throw off colds but aid in restoring health and vigor.

Locating a Plane in Flight

Sketch illustrates operation of the new airplane location recorder. Every time plane's radio transmitter is used, stations on ground receive bearings on the craft. Station A or B, which are on the airway, then determines the exact position with the aid of stations C or D, which are off the route of flight.

AIR LINE'S RADIO DEVICE LOCATES PLANE IN FLIGHT

Direction Finder Will End Lost Ship Peril.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

An automatic direction finding radio receiver which records at ground stations the location of an airplane in flight and thus makes it virtually impossible for a plane to be lost has been developed by radio technicians under J. R. Cunningham, United Air Lines' director of communications, the company's officials announced here yesterday.

The device is revolutionary because of its great accuracy. In tests over a period of more than a year, according to the announcement, more than 99 per cent of all the bearings taken by the new receiver were found to be accurate. It also is acclaimed as remarkable because of its simplicity of operation. It is entirely automatic and operates without any special assistance from the plane in flight.

Principle an Old One.

Direction finding by radio is not a new science. It was known prior to 1912 and was used at sea during the world war of 1914-1918. Subsequently Pan-American Airways engineers developed a long range direction finding receiver that gave fairly satisfactory results over water, where radio signals are more effective than over land.

This Pan-American system was tried out over land some five or six years ago and found to be unsatisfactory. Since then a number of radio manufacturers, the army, and the navy have been seeking an antenna system that would operate over land. A number of systems have given accurate results up to 80 per cent of the time, but this was not considered good enough for use with passenger carrying planes.

United's direction finder is the result of some four years of study and experimentation under Cunningham and Pete Sandretto, who heads the company's radio laboratory.

Rotating Antenna Used.

The receiver acts on the radio waves sent out from planes in flight each time they make their routine half hourly position reports. These waves are picked up by a large antenna that is the heart of the instrument. This antenna is rotated constantly by motor.

The electric wave picked up by the antenna is transferred to a standard radio receiver and in turn amplified into energy that operates a moving pen on a scroll chart that constantly unrolls beneath it. The pen traces the form of the wave in a vertical zigzag line that shows the maximum and minimum strength of the signal. The bearings are all based upon the minimum signal, or "null," as it is called by radio engineers.

The null is taken when the antenna is at right angles to the direction from which the signal is coming. The null as shown on the chart form can be plotted exactly from a transparent plexiglas plate graduated in degrees that is placed over the chart. The radio operator then reads off the bearing of the airplane in degrees.

Stations Can Work Together.

Two or more stations equipped with the antenna and recorder can work together in triangulating a plane's position so as to inform the pilot of his location. Stations A, B, and C can take bearings simultaneously. Lines from the stations are projected on a map, and the point where they intersect will show where the plane is flying.

"The first station is now being installed at Salt Lake City," Cunningham said yesterday. "We expect to install about 20 for United's entire system coast to coast, and from Seattle, Wash., to San Diego, Cal.

"In practice we will use two or more ground stations simultaneously in receiving the reports from any given airplane. The bearings obtained by these stations will be electrically transmitted to our key dispatching posts on the transcontinental route. There the bearings can be plotted on charts in a few seconds and we thus will know the location of every plane within a mile or two.

"For practical purposes, with a swiftly moving object like an airplane, this is 100 per cent accuracy."

Static Errors Eliminated.

Most other direction finding receivers have given trouble because of static interference. Static spoils signals and gives inaccurate nulls. These in turn give inaccurate bearings. United's device, however, makes it possible to weed out the bad bearings because of visual charts.

"We expect that as soon as the ground stations are in we will have our pilots asking for the direction finder reports to check their own navigation," Cunningham said. "It will be one more device to make air transportation as safe as we know it can be."

The army and navy are interested in the receiver, and it has been offered to other air lines of the country.

Fire Drives 40 Persons from Apartment Building

Fire of undertermined origin last night drove 40 persons from their apartments in a three story building at 922 Webster avenue. The fire started in the basement. Second Deputy Fire Marshal Michael Cody estimated the damage as $2,000 to the building and about $5,000 to contents of a grocery on the first floor.

2 Boys on Bicycle Killed by Auto at Salem, Ill.

Salem, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP).—Robert Van, 11, and Harold Hutchinson, 9, Salem newspaper carriers, were killed today when the bicycle on which they were riding double was struck by an automobile. The driver made a report of the accident and was released.

MAP FLIGHT PLAN TO CONTINUE CIVIL PILOT TRAINING

School Owners to Carry Battle to Washington.

Representatives of 225 civilian flying school operators in eight midwest states met in the Stevens hotel yesterday preparing to battle next week before congressional appropriation committees in Washington for funds with which to continue the civilian pilot training program that has started 45,000 fledglings into the air in 12 months. The operators hear that congress may kill the program.

Specifically, these operators—part of the National Aviation Training association—are anxious to prevent Washington politicians from turning all pilot training in the country over to the army and the navy. They fear that the services, in event of an emergency, would try to ground all civilian flying even tho such aviation would not cause any peril for the country.

Army and Navy Disagree.

"We're told the army is dissatisfied with our students," said Roscoe Turner, president of the third regional unit of the NATA. "But the navy on the other hand says our students are well trained and that naval aviation can use all that we can turn out."

Turner, the country's ace speed flyer and three time winner of the Thompson trophy race at the National Air races, is head of a flying school at Indianapolis, Ind.

The operators explained they desire continuance of the flying program because most of them have $15,000 to $20,000 worth of airplanes that they purchased to qualify their schools. These ships include light plane trainers worth $1,400 to $1,700 a ship, and so-called "advanced" trainers purchased for $6,500 to $7,500 a ship.

Cancellation of the program at this time would leave the schools without business to complete time payments under which most of the equipment was bought. It would virtually bankrupt nearly 1,000 businessmen and would throw 800 flight instructors out of jobs for which they have been specially trained and rated by the Civil Aeronautics authority.

Pays Out 100 Per Cent.

"The civilian flying program has a lot of strong points," said John Wilson, head of the Lewis School of Aeronautics at Lockport, and secretary-treasurer of the NATA.

"It is the first governmentally financed program I know about that has given 100 cents on the dollar spent. Not a penny of graft has been paid. Not a politician in the country has had his palm greased by any operator who conducted a school. It's been 100 per cent honest.

"The participation of the country's colleges and universities in the program has opened the eyes of university authorities to aviation in general.

"Big schools and little schools are putting in courses in aviation, engineering, theory, business, and administration and other phases of the aviation industry that hitherto were neglected.

"We've shown that all this could be done safely. Aviation insurance companies have reduced rates three times since the program started. Fatalities have been extremely limited. These are concrete results of which we all can be proud. We deserve a permanent place in the pilot training scheme."

Plan to Stress Four Points.

The association decided to stress the following points in their campaign at Washington:

1. The civilian schools assist in weeding out students who cannot qualify as flyers, thus saving the army and navy time and expense.

2. The civilian schools for an expenditure of $325 can give a student 35 to 50 hours of solo flying. The army spends this much money on an airman before he enters an airplane which he may not be able to master.

3. Altho it is too early to arrive at conclusions the records from army and navy air stations indicate that approximately 90 per cent of the students from the civilian flying program are able to qualify as pilots, while only 40 per cent of the service cadets who have not had previous flying experience qualify.

4. The civilian flying schools, if continued, will within a few years build up a reserve of flyers that inevitably will make the United States the world's greatest potential air power even tho the present war is quickly ended.

Awake at the Switch for 1941

Down the track, head on, comes a bright new train numbered 1941, full of power and possibilities. All we can see is the front of it. What's behind that engine wouldn't we give a lot to know!

It may be a year of joy or a year of tragedy. It may bring us progress and prosperity or dash our hopes. For the railroads, as for the nation, this is a time for planning and for prayer. There are so many things we cannot guess or know.

BUT THIS WE DO KNOW: On our railroad, as in our nation, there is the calm confidence of ability to meet the needs of 1941.

We on the Illinois Central have in our hearts and minds the fruits of nearly ninety years of railway operating experience. Crises are nothing new to an organization and a plant like ours. We have carried through them in the past, and we will continue to carry on.

We have just completed a year in which, besides meeting all traffic demands, we continued our preparation to handle future needs. We modernized approximately 100 freight locomotives, bought more than 3,000 and rebuilt more than 5,700 freight cars, reduced our percentage of temporarily unusable freight cars to 1.6, added notably to our diesel-electric switching and transfer fleet, installed one long-distance diesel-electric streamline passenger train and had in use or under construction three smaller units for shorter runs.

SO REMEMBER THIS: Whenever 1941 approaches a turning point in Illinois Central territory, it will find a railroad ready for action and wide awake at the switch.

FLORIDA URGED TO CLEAR ROADS OF HITCH-HIKERS

Patrol Chief Warns Some Are Dangerous.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 2.—A law to bar hitch-hikers from the highways of Florida was advocated here today by Chief W. F. Reid of the state patrol. He said he believed Florida was afflicted more than any other state by the thumbers.

"Last winter," he related, "we tried stopping hitch-hikers at the state line. Local newspapers razzed us for this activity while gamblers and racketeers were enjoying winter vacations at Miami and other resorts.

"The state has only 60 patrolmen, so we're not doing anything about the hitch-hikers this year. We need all 60 and many more to work on accident prevention.

Vagrancy Law Used.

"But I certainly believe something should be done by the legislature this year to outlaw the thumbers. We haven't any law against them now. Some of the sheriffs and police in larger cities are picking them up for vagrancy, but that doesn't seem to be enough.

"The other day a woman, pretty good looking, too, stood on the pavement in the path of my car waving for a ride. When I didn't stop she thumbed her nose at me.

Some Are Dangerous.

"Some of the thumbers are honest workers trying to get south to look for jobs. But it isn't safe to pick up any of them. Some are petty thieves or worse, dangerously down at the heel. It's good sense to leave them alone—even if one is pretty good looking and thumbs her nose at you for not stopping."

In circling Florida in The Tribune road car we saw many hitch-hikers. Almost all were men, pointing a thumb southward. Some were in rough clothes with unappealing countenances, probably honest laborers seeking work, but there is no way of being sure. Others, better dressed, some with fake college letters on their suitcases, tried to win a ride with big smiles that didn't look genuine. We saw no counterpart of the one who caught the police chief's eye.

WOMAN IS FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH IN N.Y. APARTMENT

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Catherine Watson, 63, wife of William Watson, vice president of the Sullivan Drydock corporation, of Brooklyn, was found slain today in her apartment, her head battered by a heavy instrument.

Robbery appeared to be the motive. Police said $100 recently given her by her husband was missing, and that normally there would have been other money in the apartment, paid as rent by other occupants of the building owned by the Watsons.

Investigators said bloody footprints and marks on a corridor wall were the best available clews to the slayer. A married daughter who lives in an apartment in the same building discovered her mother's slain body.

OBITUARIES

Thomas Gallagher.

Detective Thomas Gallagher of the Hudson avenue station died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 4810 Jackson boulevard. He was 49 years old. He joined the police department in 1922, and won eight creditable mentions and two awards of extra compensation. He was awarded the Order of the Purple Heart for battle service in the third division in the world war. Before the war Detective Gallagher played baseball with the Washington Senators. He leaves his widow, Annie, and a daughter, Anna Marie.

Mrs. Anna Friedrich.

Mrs. Anna Friedrich, wife of Adam G. Friedrich, secretary and treasurer of P. Becker & Co., luggage manufacturers, died yesterday in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. She was 67 years old and lived at 929 Washington street, Evanston. Two sons and two daughters also survive. The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 1573 Maple avenue, Evanston, to St. Nicholas church. Burial will be in St. Boniface cemetery.

Enoch C. Redding.

Enoch C. Redding, 80 years old, of 722 Fellows place, North Chicago, a retired building contractor, died yesterday in St. Therese hospital, Waukegan. His widow, two sons, and a daughter survive. Funeral services will be held at 611 10th street, North Chicago, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

ROOSEVELT PAYS TRIBUTE TO WORK OF RETIRED JUDGE

Judge James H. Wilkerson, who retired Jan. 1 as senior judge of the United States District court here, made public yesterday the letter from President Roosevelt accepting his resignation. The letter read, in part:

"Your continuous and distinguished service since July 22, 1922, merits any consideration that can be given and, on that basis alone, I regretfully accept your resignation as presented. The manner in which you have carried out your duties as a federal judge has brought credit and distinction to you and honor to the bar."

Judge Wilkerson's health has not been good, and this was one of the chief reasons for his retirement. He said yesterday he had not made up his mind on future plans except that he was first going to rest.

A TRAVEL ITEM: HOW FOODS GET TO YOUR TABLE

They Come from 46 States and Other Countries.

BY RUTH COOK.

It takes the produce of 46 states and several foreign countries to keep your dinner table supplied with fresh fruits and vegetables thruout the year.

You would have a right to be startled if on some cold, blustery January day, you discovered feathery carrot tops or tightly curled lettuce leaves pushing up out of a snowdrift near your doorstep. Yet these and a long list of other vegetables and fruits appear on your dinner table at any and all seasons of the year without causing you the slightest surprise. In fact, you'd be surprised if for some reason they didn't appear.

The travels of a bunch of spinach from the gardens in Texas where it is grown at this season, to your neighborhood grocery, are full of hazards.

The spinach must keep to a strict time schedule. Keeping punctual helps the spinach to stay fresh. So it is promptly bundled off, usually in bushel baskets, and packed into trucks or freight cars for an air conditioned ride northward.

Cars Are Made Chilly.

Most human travelers wouldn't care about riding on an air conditioned train in subzero weather, but not so spinach. Even in the coldest weather, perishable fruits and vegetables travel better in a decidedly chilly car. Spinach is usually kept cool by thin blocks of ice packed between layers of spinach. Sometimes only one layer of ice is put across the top of the entire car or truckload. Lettuce, carrots, spinach, turnips, radishes, and shallots usually get the same kind of a cold pack. Beans are shipped in refrigerated cars.

Vegetables that aren't packed in ice are packed in snow. Because the kind of weather that grows vegetables seldom provides snow at the same time, the snow is made mechanically by pulverizing ice. It is blown into the packed car solid to the doors with a space for ventilation at the top of the car. The snow gets into all the crevices and keeps the vegetables more uniformly cold than blocks of ice. Peas, cauliflower, broccoli, and brussels sprouts are almost always packed in snow.

Get Every Consideration.

No paying passenger receives more consideration than a perishable fruit or vegetable in its journey. All cars and trucks come into Chicago on a schedule which must be kept. Railroads are held responsible for delays.

A very large percentage of the fruits and vegetables grown all over the country have Chicago as their destination. Within the last five years Chicago has become the center of the fresh produce industry and it is the largest potato market in the world. More than a million carloads [about a third of this volume coming by truck] of fresh produce arrive in Chicago each year.

The trip isn't over for a fruit or vegetable when it's reached the Chicago market. Some fruits and vegetables are sold to other cities and keep right on traveling. Others are unloaded immediately to the trucks of a wholesaler who delivers the produce promptly to your neighborhood grocer.

Much of It Goes to Auction.

About 75 per cent of the citrus fruit and apples, as well as much of the deciduous fruit [cherries, grapes, pears, and similar fruits], must go to auction before finally arriving on your grocer's display rack. What goes on at the auction is entirely intelligible to bidders and auctioneers but a mysteriously complicated proceeding to you or me.

Fruits are unloaded on the floor of the auction house for inspection. Early in the morning skilled auctioneers begin rattling off a jargon that only the initiated can understand. Bids are made entirely by signal and it takes an experienced auctioneer to catch their meaning. Fifteen minutes after one lot of fruit was sold, a reporter saw half of it loaded on trucks ready to go to the wholesale market.

Auction Proceeds Rapidly.

The auction proceeds rapidly, and as many as 27 carloads of fruit, each broken down into half a dozen or so lots, will be auctioned off in an hour's time on a busy day. Chicago boasts some of the best fruit auctioneers in the country. Bidders representing the 300 wholesale fruit dealers of the city also are experts. They can judge quality almost by ear, or at least by smell. Some of them can tell you the approximate percentage of decayed oranges in a carload simply by sticking their noses in the door of the car.

Twenty years ago the fresh produce industry was a small one catering mostly to hotel and restaurant trade and specialty stores. Today fresh produce is so important to all of us that some of it is shipped from foreign countries when our own supply gives out. Cuban, Chilean, Canadian, and Argentine fruits and vegetables are often found on the Chicago market. Once it became necessary to go all the way to Egypt for onions to supply Chicago dining tables.

A Salad and Its Origin

She has a right to be proud of her pretty salad, tho she probably doesn't realize the part that growers, shippers, wholesalers, and her neighborhood grocer played in bringing those fruits to her, their tempting freshness unimpaired by long journeys from distant states.

The little girl's salad is a combination of fresh fruits served from a hollowed melon with prepared mayonnaise.

Buyers of carload fruit shipments make their bids in a sign language all their own. Some of them are so expert that they can detect the number of decays in a carload of oranges by smell alone. They examine the fruits on the floor of the auction house before coming up to the sale.

Here's a Luscious Topping for Those Cinnamon Rolls

Try this luscious topping on your next batch of cinnamon rolls: Thin honey with corn sirup using about 1 part corn sirup to 2 parts honey. Drip this generously over the pan of raised rolls just before popping them into the oven. Be sure to dust the tops of the rolls with cinnamon before allowing them to rise.

CHEESE AND JELLY TEAM UP TO MAKE DELICIOUS COOKIES

Cookies made with cheese are delicious little bites of goodness and they're fortified with all the healthful minerals of the cheese.

Most cheese cookies are members of the eggless shortbread family and get their sweetness from a filling or topping of flavorful jelly or marmalade. Cheese and jelly are a complementary combination in any form.

CHEESE FOLDOVER COOKIES.

½ cup butter
1 package cream cheese
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cream or evaporated milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cake flour sifted
Currant jelly

Beat up butter and cheese until well blended and creamy. Fold in sugar and cream until of whipped cream consistency. Sift flour with salt and sift into butter mixture.

GOOD COOK BOOK BASIC NECESSITY IN EVERY HOME

Here Is a List to Supply Almost Any Need.

BY RUTH ELLEN LOVRIEN.

One of the basic necessities in any household where there's cooking to be done is a good, complete, easily understood cook book. Hundreds of new cookbooks come into being every year, and it is a difficult matter for a bride, or for an experienced cook, for that matter, to sift the golden kernels from the chaff.

If a woman takes her cooking seriously, she'll want more than one cookbook. She'll start out with a substantial, modern, fairly complete bookfull of the basic recipes needed for everyday cooking, and extend her cookery library from time to time to include books on specific phases of cookery, such as party menus, meal planning, cooking for children, pies and pasteries, marketing.

Good bookstores will have any of the books on this list, or will be able to order them. The list is made up of books which have proved their value thru intensive use. It doesn't pretend to be complete, but it should be a help to cookbook shoppers. Here it is:

General Cookbooks.

America's Cookbook, Charles Scribners' Sons, $2.50.

Good Food and How to Cook It, D. Appleton Century Company, Inc., $2.50.

The Joy of Cooking, Bobbs-Merrill company, $2.50.

Boston Cooking School Cookbook, Little, Brown & Co., $2.50.

Menu Planning.

How to Prevent Edges of Ham from Curling Up

To prevent the edges of sliced ham from curling up during cooking, make several cuts in the fat edge of the ham.

USE DRIED FIGS TO MAKE THESE TASTY FRITTERS

This is the dried fruit season, and in your anxiety to use lots of raisins, prunes, apricots, and the more common dried fruits, don't forget dried figs. They can be used in place of dates, raisins, or prunes in most recipes. Here's a recipe planned particularly for the use of cooked dried figs. And a scrumtious dessert it is.

GOLDEN FIG FRITTERS.
[About 2 Dozen Medium.]

1 cup ground cooked dried figs
¾ cup milk
3 eggs, beaten
¼ cup granulated sugar
3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder

Combine figs, milk, beaten eggs, and sugar, and stir to blend. Add flour sifted with salt and baking powder and beat. Drop by spoonfuls into hot deep fat [360 degrees] and fry to a golden brown. Turn fritters 2 or 3 times while frying to brown evenly; drain on paper. Serve hot with vanilla sauce.

Salted Pecans Darken Quickly if Overcooked

When salting pecans for parties, be careful to avoid overcooking, since the nuts have tendency to darken after they have been removed from the fat it.

Self-Rising Flour Saves Lot of Time and Trouble

Self-rising flour is a great time sayer. You can use it wherever plain flour is called for, except in yeast breads. Self-rising flour saves you the trouble of sifting in baking powder and salt, since these are already in the flour. You omit them from your recipe when using self-rising flour, of course. All grocers handle

"I gladly pay more per pound for STEWARTS COFFEE. It has a richer, better flavor"

"And the 25 to 30 extra cups per pound make STEWARTS least expensive per cup"

Why in the world drink coffee at all if you don't get flavor and stimulation? True, Stewarts costs about 10¢ more per pound but you really get flavor—rich, delicious, vigorous flavor that only genuine Sumatra coffee in the blend can give.

And Stewarts is so rich that you use only a heaping teaspoonful per cup—get 25 to 30 EXTRA cups from every pound—making it least expensive per cup. Thousands are switching to Stewarts. Surprise the family—buy a pound of Stewarts today.

POLICE TO CLEAR WAY FOR VOTING BY BARTENDERS

Seek Time Off for Union Members to Ballot.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Police Commissioner Allman directed his district commanders yesterday to request all tavern and café owners to give their bartenders ample time to vote in the bartenders' union election, which will be held next Monday in the courtroom of Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne, room 741 in the County building.

State's Attorney Courtney and Allman are to give the bartenders protection and secrecy in their voting to enable them to clean house, if that is the desire of the membership, both said. The union has been ousted by the Illinois Federation of Labor, thereby becoming an outlaw union.

Slate Approved by Nitti.

The slate of candidates headed by George B. McLane, present business agent and candidate for reëlection without active opposition, is regarded as having the approval of the gang leader, Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, according to Courtney. McLane appealed to him and to the courts for protection against the Nitti gang, Courtney recalled, but later McLane made his own deal with Nitti.

McLane, thru an appeal to Judge Dunne, plunged the union into receivership, but last month he asked Judge Dunne to withdraw the receivership and dismiss his suit for an accounting of funds, stating that Nitti had agreed to let him and the union alone. Judge Dunne refused. Later two candidates against McLane asked to have their names left off the ballot.

McLane said he had formed an alliance with James Crowley, present secretary-treasurer of the union and candidate for president. Previously he had termed Crowley a Nitti stooge, and Crowley had publicly denounced him as a dissolute character and an enemy to organized labor. At that time both factions of the union were accusing each other of misappropriating the union's money.

Allman Studies Charges.

Commissioner Allman took cognizance of the charges made by all factions of the union. He discussed the union's status with Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, he said.

Under the rules outlined by Judge Dunne, the election of union officials will be held between 9 a. m. and 9 p. m. Each member of the union will be required to sign an application for a ballot, and the signature will be compared with the signature on the application of that person for union membership.

The member then will be asked to present his union book, showing dues payments, and the book will be stamped by one of the court's assistants, "Voted Jan. 6, 1941." It was explained that this stamp is to enable the bartender to show his employer that he has voted.

Warnings to Taverns Indicated.

The action of the officials in asking that the bartenders be allowed time off for this election is said to be indicative of what may follow.

Any indication that the tavern and café owners are in league with the Nitti syndicate may cost them some of their privileges, it was rumored. State's Attorney Courtney is said to have declared that he will not tolerate any union, and particularly that of the bartenders, being under the control of gangsters. There was a hint given that tavern owners who find "26" games profitable should not be giving any support to the Nitti gang in its union-grabbing affairs.

CITE PUBLISHERS OF RACE SHEETS IN BOOKIE DRIVE

Publishers of two Chicago horse race pamphlets were ordered by Circuit Judge Maurice V. Joyce at East St. Louis yesterday to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for alleged violation of his sweeping injunction against bookie betting.

The publishers, who were ordered to appear in court next Thursday, are the Winning Horse corporation, 10 North Clark street, and the Bulletin Record Publishing company, Inc., 608 South Dearborn street. Both issue scratch sheets.

The contempt citation was requested by Lewis M. Nowlen, assistant attorney general, who said that both defendants had been served with copies of the injunction.

Judge George Quilici ruled yesterday in South State Street court that evidence of gambling can be used against defendants seized in raids even tho police do not have search warrants. The ruling was made in connection with the seizure of seven persons in a raid on a handbook at 11 North Clark street New Year's eve. Charges against the seven were continued to today to give attorneys time to prepare their defense.

NEGRO ROBBER ADMITS KILLING OF MOTORMAN

George Anderson, 29 years old, colored, 3218 South Wabash avenue, confessed last night to Sergt. Thomas Brennan of the Wabash avenue police that he was one of two robbers who shot and killed William Custer of 10224 South May street on Nov. 10.

Custer was the motorman of a one-man street car. He was shot at 43d street and St. Lawrence avenue. Robert Myrick, 4419 Langley avenue, a passenger, was wounded by the bandits but recovered.

GREEN REFUSES PART IN STELLE POLICE JOB PLAN

Board Named to Pass On New Applicants.

Dwight H. Green, governor elect, dismissed yesterday with a terse "No comment" Gov. John Stelle's latest move in connection with resignations of members of the state police force.

At Springfield Stelle announced that he had invited Republican members of the general assembly to recommend former members of the department for reappointment and had named a board of six officers of the National Guard and the police department to examine all applicants.

Green will take over the powers of governor from Stelle 10 days from today. There has been no disclosure of an emergency call for replacement of nearly a third of the state's 350 highway patrolmen.

Green Denies Charge.

Green recently denied that he had authorized anybody to tell jobholders under the present Democratic régime that they will be fired when he takes office. At that time he said reinstatement of former members of the force would be sufficient to meet any emergency that might arise.

Stelle replied that an emergency already exists and put his own plan of selection into operation, altho there is not sufficient time in the remainder of his term to fill the vacancies, even if enough former policemen appeared as applicants.

The board Stelle named consists of Col. Robert W. Davis, Carbondale; Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, Chicago; Col. Arthur E. Lord, Piano; Chief Jesse Griscom, Stelle's own appointee as head of the state police; Capt. Harry E. Trautsch of the same force, and Maj. Howard H. Bently, weapons instructor of the department.

Stelle Ousts 50 Jobholders.

Stelle said yesterday that 50 state employés in other departments had been discharged on Jan. 1 and that about half the number were appointed by him during the two months he has been in office.

Stelle denied that appropriations for the biennium ending next June 30 have been depleted so that there will be a shortage of funds that will cripple operations during the next six months. He said:

"The department of finance advises me that the unexpended balances amount to 30 per cent of each appropriation for operation and the remaining six months is only 25 per cent of the biennium."

Governor Elect Green consulted yesterday with Tito Schipa about the numbers the operatic star will sing at the inaugural ceremonies Jan. 13. One of these is "I Shall Return," a composition written by Schipa.

Unlicensed Driver, 15, Fined as a Hit and Run Motorist

Thomas McGowen Jr., 15 years old, of Mellody road, Lake Forest, was fined $15 and costs yesterday by Justice of the Peace Harry Hansen of Highland Park when he admitted leaving the scene of an automobile accident. Another fine of $5 and costs was imposed because the youth had no driving license. Testimony showed that young McGowen, riding in a station wagon, struck a parked automobile in Green Bay road in Highland Park and fled.

Motorist Begins Sentence Delayed Till After Holiday

Last week Judge Perry L. Persons of the Lake county court in Waukegan sentenced Peter Miller to 30 days in jail for driving a car without a license. But on Miller's plea, backed by Sergt. Laurence Kelly, that he'd like to spend New Year's day with his family, Judge Persons gave him time out with orders to surrender at 8 a. m. the day after the holiday. Yesterday, at 7:50 a. m., Miller surrendered at the jail and began his 30 day stay. He lives at 678 Clinton street, Waukegan.

HIT-RUN DRIVER STRIKES 2 BOYS; 1 KILLED, 1 HURT

Mist Blamed for Deaths of Two Others.

Two small boys were struck by a hit and run automobile last night in Doty avenue near 128th street. One, Elmer Bodi Jr., 12 years old, of Markham was killed; the other, Barry Hilts, 10, of Markham, was taken critically injured to the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey.

The accident was indirectly due to the fact that Elmer's father's car ran out of gasoline. He and the boys had trudged several blocks to carry a fresh supply and Bodi was pouring it in his tank, with the youngsters looking on, when the car roared by. Kensington police said they believed the boys were barely grazed but hurled forcibly to the pavement.

Michael Rome, 48, of 1803 Adams street, a laborer, died in People's hospital shortly after being hit in Ashland avenue near 27th street by a truck driven by John Katavic, 53 East Main street, Chicago Heights.

A man identified as Robert Dean, 61, of 347 West 37th place, was critically hurt yesterday at Western avenue and 45th street when he was knocked down by one car and run over by a second. Arthur Wibbelsman, 38, of 6038 Honoré street, drove the first car. James Walsh, 56, of 4208 South Campbell avenue, drove the second. Both were charged with reckless driving by New City police.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 11 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these eight were killed in Chicago where 113 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

City Auto License Sales Fall Behind Total in 1940

City Clerk Ludwig Schrieber announced yesterday that 106,612 city automobile licenses for 1941 have been sold. Last year 121,417 were sold by Jan. 2. Collections this year total $1,017,225, compared with $1,188,415 for the same period a year ago.

SAFETY COURT JAILS 413 IN 1940 LAW VIOLATIONS

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court reported yesterday that 6,483 motorists appeared in Safety court during 1940 for traffic violations. Of these, 382 were sent to the county jail and 31 to the Bridewell, and 1,443 were fined.

Two motorists were sent to the county jail yesterday by Judge John V. McCormick in Safety court. Frank Wall, 1216 School street, was sentenced to serve 20 days for driving while intoxicated. Albert Stroka, 3100 Logan boulevard, got a five day term for reckless driving.

Charge Driver of Death Car with Manslaughter

Meyer Markowitz, 33 years old, 1145 Hyde Park boulevard, driver of the car which fatally injured Mrs. Edele Johnson, 40, of 6407 Ingleside avenue, Wednesday, was charged yesterday with manslaughter and driving while intoxicated. A coroner's jury had exonerated him, but the complaints were signed by Policeman James D. Kenneally of the South Park police, who was passing 53d street and Cottage Grove avenue when Mrs. Johnson was hit.

Shirley Keith Selects Feb. 8 for Wedding

BY JUDITH CASS.

JUST back from a pre-New Year's visit in New York, Miss Shirley Keith, daughter of Stanley Keith of Lake Forest, has reserved the date—Saturday, Feb. 8—on which she and Sewall Gardner will be married.

It will be a 4:30 o'clock ceremony in the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest. After the Rev. Herbert Prince has read the service, wedding guests will go to the Keith home for a reception. The list of bridal attendants has not yet been completed.

The couple will live in Lake Forest, where Mr. Gardner now shares bachelor quarters with a group of young business men. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Gardner of New York, formerly of Chicago. His stepmother, Mrs. Gardner, will come from her home in the east for the wedding.

Debutante Peggy Boyd's Engagement Announced.

Miss Peggy Boyd has the distinction of being the first of the current debutante crop to have her engagement announced.

She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Kenneth Boyd of Winnetka, who told the romantic news at a family party on New Year's eve. The young man, Theodore Donaldson, was here for the announcement party and for the four days preceding New Year's. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Donaldson of West Orange, N. J.

Tuesday night's party was the second highlight in Miss Boyd's Christmas vacation from Wellesley, as she and Miss Gertrude Scribner were presented on Christmas eve at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club by their parents, the Boyds and the Gilbert Scribners. Before entering Wellesley, where she is a sophomore, Miss Boyd attended the North Shore Country Day school.

Mr. Donaldson attended Washington and Lee university and was graduated last June from the Babson institute. They plan to be married in the fall and reside in New York.

Charles Foster Glore Jr. to Wed Fort Worth Girl.

Another interesting bit of romantic news that was revealed over the holiday is the engagement announcement of Miss Dolores Mummert of Fort Worth, Tex., to Charles Foster Glore Jr. Miss Mummert's sister, Mrs. W. Gibson Payne, made the announcement. Miss Mummert is departing tomorrow for her home after a holiday visit with her fiancé and his parents at their home in Lake Forest.

Miss Mummert attended Briarcliffe Junior college and young Mr. Glore is in his first year at the Babson institute. He went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology after finishing at the Hill school. Plans for the wedding have not been made.

At a dinner party in Barrington on New Year's day, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Read announced the engagement of their daughter, Vivian Adele, to Orrin F. Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Nash of Chicago.

Miss Read was graduated from Lake Forest college, and her fiancé attended Northwestern university. The engagement is the second within a short time in the Read family, as Miss Ruth Read was married in No-

Home from College

Pretty Harriett Dawes will be making her debut next season. She is at home from Connecticut college to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. McCormick Dawes, and her little brother, Rufus, but she will return east by Jan. 7. Miss Dawes has spent most of her summers at Lakeside, Mich., but last summer her mother had a house on Cape Cod.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

There's just no knowing about individual reactions to different perfumes, as we have been saying over and over again to women who told us about their Christmas loot. It's perfectly true that perfume that might be perfectly divine on Maisie is simply awful on Daisie. The reasons for this are complex.

It's largely a matter of individual body chemistry, which varies in every one, of course, and even in the same person from time to time. We know many wonderful perfumes that are only wonderful for other people, and so does every woman who experiments with fragrances.

Maybe you haven't noticed, but we have, that the scent of your perfume, which you've used for years, changes radically when you have a bad cold. It must be due to changes in the system. And if you're particularly jittery or run down, sometimes your perfume doesn't smell as it usually does.

One terribly important point about the use of perfume is the rule that it shbuld be applied to the flesh. Don't put it on fabric of dresses or coats or hats—any material that isn't immaculately clean and kept that way. It's all right to use it on lingerie or handkerchiefs because these articles are laundered after each wearing and the admixture of natural soil and old perfume won't become offensive.

Designers Put New Smartness Into Sweaters

BY REA SEEGER.

Some one with a good active imagination has successfully injected a new smartness in the important sweater collections now on display. Whether you need a sports sweater, or the classics for general wear, there are enough new ideas in town to keep extra money in circulation. See the beauties that are expertly hand knit if you want something definitely different. Also look for zippered jacket sweaters [not hand knit] if you are one of the millions of zipper enthusiasts!

The hand knits are especially distinctive not only in bright or pastel colors but in stitch. The models that look like they are spattered with fine French knots make every one applaud. Such delicate shades as dove grey and star-sapphire blue make lovely pastel accents for dark skirts and the red and white are for strong contrasts. For active sports outfits, see the hand knits with long sleeves that come in natural, gray, and white. Across the chest is a band of contrasting colored pattern, an elk in scarlet yarn going in a hurry from east to west. The same elk in smaller size decorates wrist bands of each sleeve.

Cable yarn cardigans are bigger and better than ever, if that could be possible. Short sleeves make them look like smart fur jackets in general outline. The colors are perfect for the contrast and combine tricks. There is a stunning maize tint that goes with navy blue and gray as well as green, black, and brown; a natural, a pink and navy. The natural shade is a winner for plaid or checked skirts and suits. Jacket sweaters [not hand knit] are extremely smart. They are equipped with a front zipper that keeps them streamlined to the "figger." The weave is effectively slender because of the vertical ribbing that alternates with plain knitted panels. The colors available are a flaming scarlet, old gold, and blue.

Fashion photograph . . . tailored two piece suit of military O. D. twill fabric. A long jacket boasts four patched-on pockets with gold metal eagle buttons. The straight, slim skirt has inverted pleats front and back. Over the suit is worn the newest topcoat. Cut like the old time trench coat with the new deeply fashioned sleeves, it has a tie belt that cinches in the waistline. It, too, is tailored with the snap as the suit. The suit is priced around $16, the coat around $20.

Cupid Gets an Early Start on 1941 Marriage Licenses

George W. Grabner, 33 years old, and Miss Lucille Larson, 24, obtained the first marriage license of the new year in Chicago yesterday and, in addition, were the first couple to be married in the Marriage court in 1941. Grabner lives at 1809 North Tripp avenue. His bride lived at 222 LeMoyne parkway, Oak Park. Clerk Michael C. Zacharis Jr. of the Marriage bureau issued license No. 1 of the new year, and Judge John J. Wallace performed the ceremony.

The Military Influence

Not all the military dash and buttons march away. For proof, this precisely tailored two piece suit of regulation O. D. twill fabric. A jacket that fits smoothly has the longer silhouette and patch pockets with brass eagle buttons one to each pocket. A straight skirt has inverted plaits front and back. With the suit is worn a fine gabardine cloth coat, cut like the old-fashioned trench coat with a cinched in belt to accent the waist. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Stock Repeats 1891 Program: It's Still Good

BY EDWARD BARRY.

On Friday afternoon, Oct. 16, 1891, in the then almost new Auditorium, the Chicago orchestra under Theodore Thomas' direction presented its first concert. The program consisted of Wagner's "A Faust Overture," Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Tschaikowsky's First Piano Concerto, and Dvorak's Dramatic Overture, "Husitská." The soloist in the concerto was Rafael Joseffy.

Last night in Orchestra hall the same organization, now called the Chicago Symphony orchestra and now conducted by Frederick Stock, presented the very same program as a memorial to Theodore Thomas and as a special observance of this golden jubilee season. The soloist in the concerto was Alexander Brailowsky.

The day after the first concert, in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 17, 1891, the music critic astonishingly described the new orchestra as "a fine looking lot of men." However, he was not trying to imply that the manly beauty of the orchestra was its principal claim to distinction, for he declared a little farther down that "the body of tone is superb, possessing a vitality, a fullness, and a volume such as has been heard from no other orchestra ever before in Chicago."

He took Mr. Joseffy to task for "the glaring faux pas" of wearing evening dress before 6 o'clock, but in view of the "hard work" involved in the concerto he conceded his [Mr. Joseffy's] right to appear even in blue overalls if he so desired.

The audience was described as consisting largely of young lady music students, but it seems that even some babes in arms were admitted "to listen to the advanced modern music of Dvorak and Tschaikowsky." One of them—where was he or she last night?—furnished a crying obbligato to Mr. Joseffy's performance. That THE TRIBUNE'S critic was not unduly alarmed even by such modernists as Dvorak and Tschaikowsky was proved by his concluding statement that "the program was rich in musical worth."

As a critic of 1941 takes up his typewriter to review the very orchestra and the very program that his colleague of half a century ago dealt with so divertingly, he can concede first of all that the orchestra is still a fine looking lot of men. Also, the body of tone is still superb, possessing the vitality, the fullness, and the volume to which years of listening to the Chicago Symphony orchestra have accustomed us.

Last night's soloist, Mr. Brailowsky, cannot be criticized for his dress, which seemed impeccable. And he did not seem to find the concerto very hard work. He played it easily—especially at the end—with immense éclat.

Last night's audience definitely did not consist largely of young lady music students but represented rather a cross section of the city of Chicago—its artistic and business and social leaders, its sustaining middle classes, its financially embarrassed but optimistic students. No babies were visible or audible.

And the program was certainly "rich in musical worth." The Beethoven symphony's grandeur of utterance is no less impressive in 1941 than it was in 1891. The Tschaikowsky concerto, threadbare tho parts of it may be, is still impressive for its clanging brilliance, its air of nobility and importance, and its opulent flow of idea. Even the Wagner and the Dvorak overtures possess enough freshness and interest to justify their retention in the répertoire.

Charles Norman Fay, who was the man chiefly responsible for bringing Theodore Thomas to Chicago, and who now, at 92, is living quietly in Cambridge, Mass., was represented last evening by a sympathetic study of Thomas' character and achievements printed in the program books. Mr. Fay heard the orchestra in Boston last Nov. 24 and declared that "it is simply tops."

But the principal link between the orchestra's first and 55th seasons is not a person but an ideal. The desire to present excellent music competently and modestly actuates Frederick Stock and the present members of the association just as it did Thomas and his associates. The fact that this ideal has remained untarnished for half a century is the principal reason for the tremendous present prestige of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

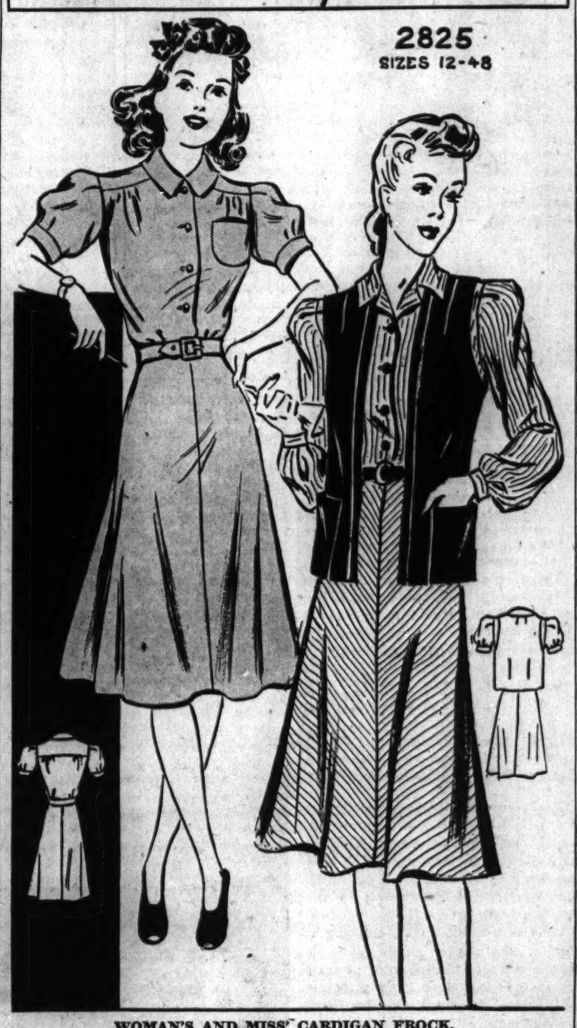
Businesslike Daytime Frock



WOMAN'S AND MISS' CARDIGAN FROCK.

Ideal for campus dwellers and office workers is this businesslike daytime frock with time-honored shirtwaist lines all dressed up for 1941 appearances. The unusual feature of this stunning frock is the companion cardigan in a contrast fabric and color. It adds to the usefulness of the dress and also to its warmth.

Style No. 2825 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material for short-sleeved dress, 4½ yards for long-sleeved version, 1⅞ yards for cardigan.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 2.—It's been bad enough for the movies all along, but now even the army and navy want men. The film studio recruiting stations—the talent departments—are in a heck of a fix. They can get all the women they want, but they can't get the men they need.

Before all the screen-struck boys in the country start writing, "Dear Mr. Chapman: Why, I didn't know! I'll come at once"—I'd better make it clear that the films are not yet ready to take anything in pants and that it's just as hard as ever to get a break. You'll understand this after we get thru talking with Billy Grady.

Mr. Grady is the head of the talent department of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and the list of stars he has signed up is enormous. He is a brisk, fast-witted, lovable Irishman who has known the stage for more than 30 years and who has two passions—the theater and people. Before he became a movie talent scout his office in the Fulton theater just off Broadway was the main port o' call for wise theater reporters because Billy always knew what was going on.

Now he looks for movie material—and he says the lack of men is shocking. But there are so many women it is hard to make a choice. Asked if he knows why this is, he says:

"There are so many avenues of escape for men. A guy can be a lawyer, or a dentist, or an engineer, or an air pilot—any number of things after he gets out of school. And he's apt to think being a movie actor is slightly sissy, altho I've been battling that idea for years. Men think of the movies as a job and they know that 10 years in Hollywood is a long time, and then what are they going to do? You can be a cop, or a postman, and work 20 years and then retire on $35 or $40 a week.

"Women have very few avenues of escape. A girl can be a teacher, a nurse, a secretary, or a wife—and that's about all. She thinks of the movies in terms of glamor and beauty, and naturally she wants to get in 'em. That's why there are so many that it is hard to make a choice.

"But men! I was down at Pensacola last year at the naval air station, and I never saw so many fine and handsome specimens. But why should they bother with the movies? They had careers ahead of them and already they were getting good money. Why, the government is my opposition now."

I asked Billy how he went about looking for talent—either men or women. He has 11 scouts who constantly comb the country, making little theaters, college shows, night clubs, all forms of entertainment. Grady tours the country three times a year, holding auditions. I said I thought it would be a cinch to get something out of all this, and he told two stories:

"I told a friend in Dallas that it was almost impossible to find men, and he said, 'Any time you say, I'll get you the flower of Texas.' So I said go ahead and round 'em up and I'll come down for an audition. He held his roundup and I went down. There were 500 people there—250 women and 50 men. And not one of the men was worth a test.

"I told L. B. Mayer, the boss of the studio, that people had an idea that it was impossible to get a break in pictures without influence. I said I wanted to advertise that my door would be open to any man every Friday, and Mr. Mayer told me to go ahead. What I proposed to do—and what I still will do—was to take anybody who had personality and appearance. He didn't need any acting experience at all. I'd give him a drawing account of $25 a week and pay his tuition at an acting school that is run like a theater. If he could land an occasional job at Paramount or Columbia or wherever, okay, because it would be experience. At the end of a year, if he showed ability, I'd give him a contract. But I reserved the right to call the deal off if I saw there was no talent there.

"Well, we ran the ad, and on six successive Fridays I interviewed 3,000 men. I selected six as possibilities. Two of these we gave the $25 a week and sent to school. Neither of them is there now. One did not develop. I dropped into a rehearsal one day and found that the other one had a bun on. Out he went—quick! Maybe he could have become a star. But suppose he turned up drunk one afternoon in a million dollar production. His little binge would cost $15,000 or $20,000—so you can see he wasn't worth the risk."

I asked Billy if he wanted glamor boys and he said not necessarily. He'd take men up to 35 or 40 if they had personality and appearance. I said "let's pretend I've come for an audition. What will you do with me?" He said, "You're just a character man. I can get all of you I want from Central Casting with a phone call."

Most people who want to get into the movies think only of a glamorous life at high wages. They are, according to Grady, laggards and not serious. And often when they really have something it isn't worth their taking a chance. For instance, a draftsman came in from a local airplane plant and he looked good. But he was married, had two children, and was making a steady $55 a week. "I couldn't tell him to quit and take my $25 a week on a chance," said Billy. "He was the sort of guy I was looking for, but I had to talk him out of it."

Grady's letters from screen struck folk are voluminous and occasionally funny—but more often pathetic. Until somebody stole it a while ago, one of his treasures was a picture a man had sent of himself. It was in the nude. The fellow was covered with hair and said he was known locally as the ape man. Pasted to a corner of the portrait were two hairs. "These," said the inscription, "are genuine hairs from my chest."

Ernst Krenek Gives Recital of Own Works

BY CECIL SMITH.

If the size of the audience it attracted were the sole criterion of its significance, Ernst Krenek's recital of his own piano works in Perrin hall would scarcely merit space on this page. About 75 listeners, some enthusiastic and others skeptical, heard Mr. Krenek play his Second Suite, from Opus 26 [1924] and his Twelve Variations in Three Movements, Opus 79 [1937]. After he had finished the variations, the composer gave a brief analytic lecture upon their musical structure, and then repeated them.

Mr. Krenek, a native of Vienna who now teaches on the Vassar college faculty, is a complete disciple of the "atonal" or "twelve-tone" technique first formulated by Arnold Schönberg. If this entire page were at my disposal, I might hope to make a brief, superficial introductory explanation of the scrupulous intellectual laws governing the composition of music in this style. Every single note falls into its place because an elaborate pattern requires it to go where it does, and nowhere else.

The result, regrettably enough, is a kind of music devoid of emotional spontaneity, of natural lyric line, of rhythmic appeal, and of agreeableness of instrumental timbre. I think I understand Mr. Krenek's style and intentions, and I am convinced that his and Mr. Schönberg's twelve-tone technique is the greatest, because the most widely discussed, blind alley into which modern music has ever strayed.

This arbitrary judgment, for which at least 50 people in Chicago will despise me permanently, is not intended to cast aspersions upon the New Music Group, which courageously sponsored Mr. Krenek's recital. Chicago needs a forward-looking organization which will sponsor new music that seldom comes to performance, and if the New Music Group keeps its interests sufficiently broad, it can perform a significant artistic service for the community.

Heart Stamps Go on Sale Today in Annual Campaign

Fifteen thousand Chicagoans will receive 1,500,000 little heart shaped stamps in the mail today. The stamps are issued by the Chicago Heart association, 203 North Wabash avenue, in its annual campaign to raise funds for the care of children suffering from heart disease.

"Heart disease now accounts for more than one-third of all deaths in Chicago and annually kills more people than cancer, tuberculosis, and pneumonia combined," Mrs. Ruth Pearce McEldowney, executive director of the association, warned yesterday. "A more widespread knowledge of it would save many people."

The dissemination of information concerning heart disease is one of the chief activities of the association. In addition, it cares for children convalescing from rheumatic fever which weakens the heart. Wheelchairs are sent to children whose parents cannot afford the chairs and occupational therapy is taught so that the children's minds will be occupied during the long period of inactivity.

The stamps are being sold in books of 100 for $1 each. They may be purchased at the association headquarters or at the service desks of State street department stores. The campaign will close on Valentine's day, Feb. 14.

Numerology
By Evelyn Holmes

Jan. 3, 1941.

Universal day—Time to get going with plenty of new ideas for improvement this year.

Universal year—On the negative side of the number six, which is the universal number for 1941, we have the "Mr. and Mrs. Fix-It" who like to tell others how to run things. There will be a tendency for men and women in power to want to interfere in the affairs of other nations, and to want to try to run the affairs in their own governments. On this negative side there is the possibility of one nation becoming a sort of workhorse for the others, or else of becoming very rebellious and trying to throw off the yoke of responsibility. It is possible that each nation will want to shift the burden of responsibility to the shoulders of another nation.

Fire Squad Autograph Seekers.

Concert Pianist Alexander Brailowsky, soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night and this afternoon, found a letter waiting for him when he arrived in Chicago. It was from London and was addressed to him in care of Henry E. Voegeli, Orchestra hall, and the contents had been duly examined and passed by censor No. 5245. "Guy's Hospital, S. E. 1," read the address stamped on the envelope, and beneath it was written, "Care of Fire Squad." The letter:

Dear Mr. Brailowsky:

Two of your admirers ask if you will please autograph the two inclosed cards for our album. We would be so very proud to possess them. With many thanks,

Walter F. Davis.

Two blank cards, protected by stout outer cards, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope were inclosed.

Portraits of Time.

The December days are gone.
The year is stowed away,
But, like a family album,
We'll take it up some day
And from it brush the cobwebs,
The tarnished clasp undo,
Then with tear and sigh and twinkle
We'll leaf the portraits thru.

Sartorial Splendor.

The list of 10 best dressed men has been announced, and Lucius Beebe is on the list. Beebe was in town New Year's day. Here is what he wore for New Year's day festivities, which included lunching at the Pump room, calling on some friends, and drinking hot, buttered rum at the Robert Harveys' New Year's day party: A cutaway coat and striped trousers, a pink and white striped shirt [horizontal stripes], a turndown collar and gray ascot scarf, pinned with a large gold safety pin. He wore a large old-fashioned watch chain strung across his vest from pocket to pocket. His coat was a double breasted dress coat with satin lapels, and he wore a silk hat.

Best Dressed Man.

Peter Arno, who headed the list as the best dressed man in America, spent a week in Chicago recently, and appeared day after day in a beigeish brown tweed coat and dark trousers. Would his tailor think that just the costume for the city in midwinter, we wonder. Of course, Arno didn't plan to stay a week. He meant to be here only between trains, but he fell in with friends at the Ambassador and kept postponing his departure. We add that explanation so his tailor won't be too embarrassed about him.

Have you heard about the Emlyn Williams fan, asks Virginia Lamb, who unconsciously refers to There Shall Be No Night as "Night Must Not Fall"?

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment, goes in, and finds Paul has been murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Paul Gerente, with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron confesses to the murder, but Maclain doubts his story. Barbara disappears. Norma's stepson, Gilbert, is designing engineer for Bunny Carter, who is head of the aircraft works. In Gilbert's workshop some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma, and she suspects it is Bella, the maid. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder of Paul and the bombing sight Gilbert has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwill home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced, and later finds Bella beheaded. He has noticed the odor of violets in Paul's apartment, and notices it again about Bella. He concludes it is a trade-mark of a foreign spy system, but believes Bella was murdered because she was working for the naval intelligence while pretending to work for the spies. Maclain goes with Carter to the aviation plant, where he hears Louis Madoc, foreman, speak and recognizes the voice of the man who visited him the night of Gerente's murder, pretending to be Gerente. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee, and Maclain decodes it, finding it is a message to kidnap him and find the defense plans. He throws the ad out as bait to catch the criminals after he has sent a message to Spud in the city to go to the House of Bonnee, investigate and be ready to capture the kidnap gang. Spud goes there and the sales girl tries to sell him some black violets perfume. Spud refuses to buy and is knocked out by a whiff of it. Upon reviving he puts up a battle to escape, but is shot. Cameron, who confessed to Gerente's murder, is also working for the intelligence service. The spies think he is locked up under suspicion of murder, but he has been trailing Maclain. He breaks into Maclain's apartment and hears the message on the dictaphone Maclain sent Spud. He reports to Col. Gray. Meanwhile Maclain, driving to town with Chell Scott, is kidnaped.

INSTALMENT XLI.

SECOND KIDNAPING.

Louis Madoc, his long neck drawn turtle-like thru the collar of his cardigan jacket, stood against the sheltering wall of the new addition and watched the men file by. It was Christmas eve and occasionally one man more friendly than the rest would wave or call a greeting; but for the most part, they passed him silently or deliberately turned away.

The surliness of his fellow workers was lost on Louis entirely. He resented the noisy groups which formed to pass on ribald pleasantries and give advice about not eating too much dinner on the following day.

He was glad when they trickled on into the parking space, found their cars and drove off. Only a handful of men was left when Louis forsook the shelter of the wall. He started toward the gate. A short distance up the road toward Glastonbury he had sighted the truck he wanted so much to see.

The watchman on duty hailed it. Louis quickened his steps and was just in time to prevent an altercation between the watchman and the driver.

He broke it up by showing his long teeth and saying, "That's plumbing equipment. What are you stopping him for? I've been waiting for it all day."

"This is a hell of a time to be bringing it in." The watchman glared from Louis to the driver and back to Louis again. "This shebang's supposed to be shut down. Tomorrow's Christmas day."

"And we go to work again the day after." Louis hopped on the running board beside the driver and said, "Take it thru."

The watchman looked after them until the truck stopped by the new addition and disgorged the driver and helper. The watchman shrugged and went back into the warmth of his little house. It was cold outside, anyway.

Louis waited while the two men unloaded a short squat box, handling it gingerly.

"Bring it in here," he ordered, and clicked on a flashlight to dispel inside shadows grown long with the fading of the day.

The two men followed him thru skeleton walls down the length of an uncompleted hall.

"Here," Louis pointed to a spot with his flashlight. "This'll do. Any more?"

"This is plenty," said the driver.

Louis guided them out and stood in the doorway until he heard the motor roar. When the truck had gone, he made his way back to the building without using the light. Near the box, he stood silently, turning his head from left to right and back again. Not quite satisfied, he knelt on the floor, put his ear against one end, and gave a wolfish grin.

It was dark when he reached the other side of the parking lot and opened the door to turn on the lights of his car.

A hand reached out and fastened itself firmly to the throat of his cardigan jacket.

"I'll help you in," said a voice.

The arm went back into the sedan with Madoc attached to one end of it. He had a sensation of falling thru space as his shins scraped along the running board, and his feet kicked vainly in protest. Not more than five seconds elapsed before Louis found himself tucked neatly behind the driver's wheel.

"You drive, Hawkface," said the voice.

The dashlight went on and shed rays on the camel hair coat.

"That uncomfortable lump in your side is a Luegar 7.65. I'd hate to have to shoot it because this coat set me back $69.50 and at 100 feet this Lueger will penetrate 18 inches of pine. Now drive on like a good lad because some friends of mine will be here in a few minutes to take your little box away."

Louis stepped on the starter with a foot that seemed suddenly affected with frostbite. "Who the devil are you?"

"I'm the spirit of '76," said Arnold Cameron, "but you can just call me Toots and I'll call you Hawkface, and we won't get in each other's way. When you get outside the gate, turn toward Hartford—and don't dilly-dally."

"This is kidnaping." Madoc's bony frame began to shake with a chill of sheer fury. "You can't get away with it. I'll signal the first policeman I see."

"All you need to do," said Cameron, "is raise your right hand and wiggle your fingers in the rearview mirror. There's a state trooper named King riding in the back of your car."

"You can't arrest me without a warrant."

"Who said I was arresting you?" Cameron demanded bitingly. "I wouldn't waste my time."

"What do you think you're going to do?" Madoc's voice wasn't quite so brave as before.

"I'm going to torture you," said Cameron. Something terribly sincere in his tone caused Madoc to swerve the car.

"Keep on the right side of the white line," Cameron told him, "or the sergeant will run you in. I said I was going to torture you and I mean it, too."

"You can't scare me," Madoc told him, but the force of the words was lost on a quavering note which crept in on the end.

"Scare you?" Cameron repeated surprised. "I'm not going to scare you, Hawkface, I just don't like you. I'm going to feed you to rats and throw what's left of you away."

* * * * *

It was cold and extremely dreary in the top floor rooms of the closed up, deserted hotel. Wall paper which had long ago served its purpose was beginning to scale in tiny curls from the wall. Louis Madoc, stripped down to shirt, socks and shorts, lay on the pancake mattress and stared at the flinty, clean lined face of Sergt. King. Arnold Cameron had just finished a neat job of trussing with sash cord cut from the long closed windows. Madoc had taken it unresistingly, gazing with feverish, birdlike eyes into the steady muzzle of the sergeant's gun.

Cameron took off his camel hair coat and hunted for a dust-free place to hang it up. Failing to find one, he went over the top of the bureau with a handkerchief and deposited his treasured garment there. That done, he sat down and began to rock himself slowly back and forth in a squeaky rocking chair.

"It would be quicker," said Sergt. King, "to shoot him and be done with it. I hate these stinkin' foreigners. He chopped off the head of a girl."

"I never killed anybody in my life," Madoc whimpered protestingly.

"Shut up," said Cameron, "or I'll stick my finger in your eye."

He rocked back and forth a dozen times more, each separate squeak stabbing into Madoc's nerves with the pain of a dentist's drill.

"I'd match you," said Cameron still rocking, "to see who'd shoot him first. In that way one of us could start and we could riddle him with bullets. Maybe we'll do that after he tells us what they've done with Duncan Maclain."

Madoc's wrinkled lids slid down as tho the light of the single bulb in the room had become too strong. He raised them quickly as Cameron left the chair.

A suitcase carried upstairs by the sergeant sat just inside the door. Cameron picked it up and held it in his hand for a moment, weighing it appraisingly.

"It's funny as hell about you fellows," he stated flatly, looking down at Madoc. "You figure everything out on earth except that two can play at a game. You and your gang of saboteurs have kidnaped a blind man who'll never talk if you cut him to pieces. I'm interested to see if our side isn't better than yours. I'm giving you a chance to tell me right now what you've done with Duncan Maclain."

Madoc had taken it unresistingly, gazing with feverish, birdlike eyes into the steady muzzle of the sergeant's gun.

"I've never heard of him," Madoc was drooling slightly on the mattress.

"Now that you've got that lie out of your system," said Cameron, "I can get on with my work without having to start all over again."

GASOLINE ALLEY—ON ORDER

MR. CLOCK, I'D LIKE TO TALK WITH YOU ABOUT NINA'S GOIN' TO SCHOOL.
YES, SKEEZIX.
I THINK WE'VE GOT A FINE BUSINESS COLLEGE IN DETROPOLIS AND I BELIEVE IT WOULD BE GRAND IF SHE COULD GO THERE.
THE FACT THAT NINA WOULD BE IN THE SAME TOWN WITH YOU DOESN'T HAVE ANY BEARING?
TO BE FRANK WITH YOU, IT DOES. BUT I'M SINCERE ABOUT SCHOOL, TOO.
NINA AND I WILL TALK IT OVER AGAIN, SKEEZIX!
HE DIDN'T SAY NO, ANYWAY, NINA!
SWELL, BUT I MUSTN'T SHOW TOO MUCH ENTHUSIASM!

Pivot Window Perfected for Modern Home

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Let's look ahead into 1941 to see what is coming—for our homes. . . .

There is a modern and beautiful window on the way. It does not swing in or out like a casement, nor move up and down like a double-hung, but instead swings around on a central pivot. This permits it to assume an automatic ventilating position which keeps out winds and rain and snow even while it is open.

These modern windows are "picture windows" and provide uninterrupted glass surfaces without sealed panes.

The man who has developed this new window type is a well known authority on architecture in Sweden, Eric Sigfrid Persson, and it is said that some 80 per cent of all the buildings constructed in Sweden in the last two years have this type window.

With this window unit, cleaning is simple: the large, single pane is merely turned "inside out" on its pivot. It is this same pivot principle which simplifies ventilation for these great "picture" windows, removes drafts, and eliminates frames and center latches.

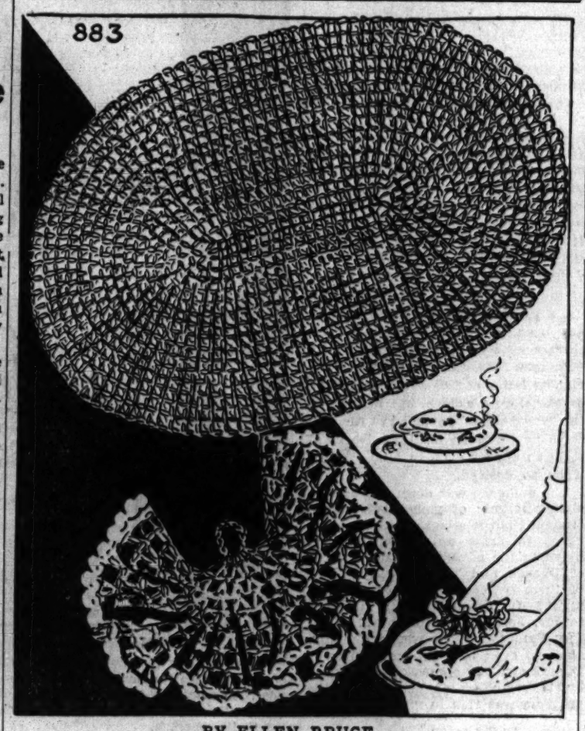
Double glasses can be had for climates which are cold, and both sashes work on the same pivot system. And to keep out sun a special translucent material can be installed between panes and operated from within the room.

The trend toward picture windows is very definite, and Mr. Persson says of his development:

"The purpose of a window should be to admit the maximum of sun and light, to permit a free and unobstructed view from within, making it appear as though the person on the inside of the house were living right next to nature. It should also prevent dust, drafts, cold or heat from entering the home. It should be easy to operate, not only for ventilation purposes but for ease in cleaning. A dirty window can prevent the passage of as much as 40 per cent of light."

It may not be long before we will see large picture windows in our home, providing uninterrupted glass surfaces which will be as easy to clean as our modern casements and double-hung, and without the inconvenience of sealed panes.

Unusual Crocheted Dish Cloth



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a dishcloth so unusual and attractive that it would look quite appropriate as a boutonniere. The hot plate mats, in three sizes, would make perfect bridge prizes or gifts. These items require virtually no time to create. One spool of carpet warp and two small skeins or candlewick cotton make three lovely dishcloths. One skein of heavy perle cotton creates the hot plate mats.

For instructions in crocheting the dish cloth and hot plate mats, No. 883, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Clark Gable to Lose Tooth as Aid to Shoulder Ailment

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 2 (AP).—Dr. Louis Hamman said today Clark Gable, movie actor, would have a tooth extracted in an effort to cure a shoulder ailment he has suffered since 1937. Gable, who arrived Monday with his wife, Carole Lombard, said "present plans call for us to fly back to Hollywood Saturday or Sunday." Meanwhile, Howard Strickling, press agent, denied a report that Miss Lombard would undergo an operation today at Johns Hopkins hospital.

Correcting the Child Is Job for Only One

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

When a child has to be corrected one person should do it. The one who starts it should carry it thru and finish it. It certainly isn't sporting for a whole lot of grownups to go "at" one child. Not that they mean to be unkind, they just have to put their oar in. I suppose it's only human to do it, but it's hard on the child.

So if your husband, being wise and kind, corrects Bobby, keep still, even if the self-control it requires nearly kills you. And when you have to speak to the boy about something, have everybody else in the family keep out of it. Have it understood that it's a matter between you and him.

It's a wise father, mother, or doting relative who can learn to "keep hands off" like this. But they should do it, because it's pretty hard on a youngster to be corrected by the whole family every time he does something, to have every one "jump on" him for every little offense he commits.

History of War of 1812 Told in Exhibit at Club

American naval history of the war of 1812 is graphically presented at the Lake Shore club, 850 Lake Shore drive, in an exhibit of color drawings and carved figures of ships, guns, rigging, officers, and men. The exhibit was created by Lieut. Raymond J. Toner, instructor in nautical astronomy at the Northwestern university naval reserve training school. Lieut. Toner has seen active duty on almost every type of warship in the United States fleet.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert Kress of East 73d street announce the engagement of their daughter, Priscilla Fayette, to Ambrose P. Finn Jr., son of Mrs. Finn of East 70th place. Miss Kress is a graduate of the Starrett School for Girls. Mr. Finn was graduated from Georgetown university.

School Is 'Kinda Dull' for Shirley, So She's Returning to Movies

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—Shirley Temple says she finds school "kinda dull"—so she's going back into pictures at $2,500 a week.

Shirley, her parents, and attorney appeared in court today for approval of a contract to play opposite Mickey Rooney in a new series of Andy Hardy pictures.

The contract, effective Feb. 15 for 40 weeks, provides that:

The studio [Metro-Goldwyn] will be required to arrange with the board of education for her education during that time. She is to make no more than eight radio broadcasts and in all pictures she must either be the star or co-star. Half of all her net earnings will be put in a trust fund for her.

Shirley "retired" a year ago to attend a school for girls.

Alec Templeton to Get Music Award Tonight

Alec Templeton, concert and radio pianist, is to receive an award from the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation tonight. This announcement was made yesterday by Lawrence W. Scudder, chairman of the Chicago committee. The award, in the form of a plaque, will be given in recognition of his contributions toward the popularization of fine music. Eighty members and friends of the Bohemian club of Chicago, which is interested in the arts, will be guests at Templeton's broadcast tonight.

Doing Things for Yourself Wins Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

From one of the older professional women we learned by watching, studying and listening to her how youthfulness is extended into the mid-years without loss of the dignity maturity should bring.

The particular woman's motto is summed up: "Do it yourself!" And that goes for getting yourself that drink of water, that paper over there, that pen from the desk, or the sewing basket from upstairs. Do it yourself!

Yes, here was a woman with an income that would easily permit a personal maid, but no aid such as that would she permit. The woman has a terrifically full day, beginning in the early morning and often carried over until midnight. Yet we've never seen such vitality, such a figure, such zest for living and such a young "fifty."

One thing impressed us, and it was the way the woman we speak of did her own hair. In this I thought there was a good sermon for those of us who shift the job to a professional with whom appointments aren't faithfully kept. The sad consequence is that for a week before the hairdresser date all is far from well with the locks.

We women ought to become more skilled with our own fingers and hair. Why don't we try? Why don't we keep at it until we become expert? We see how hair is combed and curled and waved. Perhaps we can't get the wave as the professional does, but we could, with practice and the will to do it ourselves, arrive at a good imitation.

Tryout for Amateurs.

Amateur entertainers of every variety—singers, dancers, chorus girls, chorus men—will try out at the Country club of Evanston tonight at 8 o'clock for a floor show to be presented in the near future.

Fiance Refuses to Marry with Small Salary

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

The young man in the case explains that he is 24, his fair one, 22, and that they are in love. Their combined income, he tells, is $40 a week, of which he earns only a quarter, because of his pursuit of bar examinations about a year hence. That fourth of his is earned in part-time work arranged to fit in with his law studies.

The girl, it seems, insists upon early marriage, arguing that she can live perfectly well on the stated income. The young man refuses to be supported to the extent their early marriage would necessitate, and so there's incessant warring going on now, the girl saying marriage now or never, the young man clinging to his intention never to be even one-fourth part gigolo, as he interprets the economic situation.

Well-meaning friends and family urge that the young man's answer be: Never! A girl, they argue, who is not willing to wait patiently the regular course of professional establishment before marriage is not the one to suggest future understanding and sympathy.

But why, we query, should friends and family be invited in on the momentous decision? A lawyer in the making should have a mind of his own. He needs to jury for his verdict.

Calls Meeting to Promote Bundles for Britain Drive

Mrs. James A. Cook of Lake Forest, chairman of the Bundles for Britain committee, is having a meeting at her home this afternoon to perfect plans for carrying on the work started on Wednesday night by a Hollywood radio broadcast for the purpose of obtaining donations for victims of bombings in England. Contributions in this area should be addressed to Bundles for Britain, Lake Forest, Ill.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Brilliance and shrewdness are two very much overworked words, particularly at the bridge table. There are other qualities which bear equally luscious fruit. In today's hand it was that homely virtue "patience" which was responsible for the defeat of a vulnerable game contract.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 diamonds	2 spades
Pass	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

North's response to his partner's vulnerable no trump was probably responsible for the loss of a vulnerable game. His two diamond bid was according to the best practices of contract bridge during its swaddling days, but judged by present day bidding theory and method, was inexcusable. South's bid had announced balanced distribution, meaning that South almost surely had three cards in the diamond suit as well as a strong hand. That being true, North could visualize at least four and possibly five or six diamond tricks at a no trump declaration. The only result of his mentioning the suit instead of properly raising the no trump was to permit East to get in his non-vulnerable spade overcall at a low level. East's bid was risky enough at the two level; he could not have dared come in over three, or even two no trump.

West led the seven of spades, and East, who could immediately mark declarer for at least the K-Q-J, contented himself with an encouraging card, the ten. Declarer won and immediately attempted the establishment of the diamond suit. To maintain communication, West was allowed to hold the first diamond lead with the jack. A second spade was also conceded, East this time playing the eight spot. West still had the diamonds stopped, and declarer had no other play for contract except to clear the suit. The third spade lead, this time won by the ace, dashed declarer's hopes, for now East was ready to run off the remnants of his spade suit.

East's defense in this deal [ducking two rounds of spades], is a splendid illustration of maintaining communication with partner. Many players in the East position would be irresistibly tempted to put up the spade ace and shift to hearts, in an effort to knock out dummy's entry while partner's marked stoppers in diamonds are still in force. This, however, would be fatal if declarer maneuvered properly. He would win the heart return in his own hand, lead a diamond, and let West's jack hold. Now when West removed the heart king from dummy, declarer would not play for a 2-2 diamond break; he would lead a low diamond from dummy and concede another trick in order to maintain communications on his own account. Hence, this line of defense would give declarer not only his contract but an overtrick.

Dearborn Seminary Alumnae Holding Luncheon Jan. 17.

Each time there are fewer guests, but for that reason the annual meeting and luncheon of the Dearborn Seminary Alumnae association becomes more interesting and more filled with sentiment. The 60th will be held at the Blackstone hotel on Friday, Jan. 17, at 11:30 o'clock. Mrs. Alice Wood Coy [Mrs. Lincoln M.] is president of the association, which is made up of women who attended the Dearborn seminary, long since out of existence, but not forgotten by the loyal ones who learned their A, B, Cs there.

The women keep alive the memory of the founder and former principal, Zuinglius Grover, by holding their annual meeting on his birthday. The oldest living alumnae is Mrs. Ferdinand Peck, who as Tilla Spalding, was graduated from the seminary in 1866.

Reunion in New Orleans for Broome Family.

The Thornhill Broome family, whose members have left Chicago at varying times this week, will have a reunion today in New Orleans. Miss Caryl Broome, who remained in Chicago until last night, arrives in New Orleans just a day before a dinner-dance which will be given tomorrow night at La Louisiane for her and her sister, Miss Betty.

The dance is the second debut party for the greatly fêted Broome sisters, who were presented at a November tea in Chicago by their grandmother, Mrs. John A. Spoor. For tomorrow's party Miss Betty is wearing a fragile gown of white tulle edged in silver, while her younger sister will be in pastel tulle in rainbow shades.

Mrs. Broome left Chicago on Monday, and her elder daughter followed her the next day. The girls' brother, Jack, flew back to Louisiana yesterday morning. The Broomes will be in New Orleans for six weeks before returning to their home in Pass Christian. They are expected back in Chicago about the end of April.

Young Women Invited to Service Club Membership.

Welcome New Year's mail in the boxes of 23 young Chicagoans were invitations asking them to become members of the Service club. The newcomers will be introduced at a luncheon at the Arts club on Monday, Jan. 20, which Miss Kay Kelly is planning.

The invitations were sent out on New Year's eve to Miss Jacqueline Aagaard, Miss Priscilla Armstrong, Miss Peggy Bear, Miss Jane Beckwith, Mrs. Edward Benninghoven Miss Nancy Bolenwick, Mrs. Dale Bost, Mrs. Orrin Clifton, Miss Katherine Cohlgraff, Mrs. Thomas Conlon, Mrs. Richard Culver, Mrs. Louis Davis, Mrs. Nathaniel Duval, Miss Mary Faherty, Miss Marie-Merrill Hubbard, Miss Jane Mather, Mrs. J. Haydn MacDonald, Miss Carolyn Mellinger, Miss Helen McAuley, Miss Loretta O'Donnell, Mrs. Henry Stanton Jr., Miss Jeanne Stenson, and Miss Peggy Ware. Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh is president of the club.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Friday, Jan. 3.

Today's minor problem is to give the other fellow a break in matters of sympathy and understanding—tendency to be somewhat blinded by self-interest. On other fronts, investigate the new, put theories and plans to pracical tests.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from birthday today increases romantic-affectional scope, chances of improved health, and possibility of working off past burdens. Develop own talents persistently. Danger: Feb. 23-March 9; July 15-27; Oct. 7-29; Nov. 23-27.

Tomorrow.

Better early than late; then go after what you deserve.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Send 10c for your 1941 horoscope to WYNN, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, date of birth and address.

The Misses Adams Giving Luncheon Today for Cousin.

Miss Katharine and Miss Mary Adams will give a luncheon at 1 o'clock today at the Woman's Athletic club for their cousin, Miss Barbara Adams, who is making a flying visit here on her way back to Sarah Lawrence college from her home in Iowa. Miss Barbara will go on to school this afternoon, but her cousins, who are also students at Sarah Lawrence, will not leave until Sunday. Miss Katharine and Miss Mary are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams of Winnetka. Miss Mary is a debutante this year.

Miss Barbara Wakeley, who assisted at Miss Angeline Johnson's debut tea on Dec. 23, will give a luncheon for the debutante at 1 o'clock today at the Indian Hill Country club. Miss Johnson is the daughter of the C. Wallace Johnsons. Miss Wakeley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Wakeley.

The Arts club's first tea of the new year this afternoon will open three exhibitions, the works of Gustave Courbet, Oskar Kokoschka, and Francesco Cristofanetti. Mrs. Henry Field, chairman of the reception committee, has asked Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Mrs. Edward B. Smith, Mrs. Samuel Marx, Mrs. Gorton Fauntleroy, Mrs. William E. Vogelback, Mrs. Peter Moon, Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Chester MacChesney, Mrs. Walter S. Carr, and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell to pour.

Cliff Dwellers Having Tea After Concert Today.

Mrs. Charles H. Hamill is in charge of the tea which the Cliff Dwellers will give after the symphony concert today. She will be assisted by Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Alfred H. Wolfe, Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mrs. Hans Lange, and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson.

Mrs. Francis M. Lowes, whose exhibition of oils will be on view in the galleries of the Cordon during January, will be the especial guest at the club's regular Friday tea this week.

The College club will have its usual Friday tea this week.

Miss Charlene Erbstein returned yesterday from a holiday visit in St. Louis with her fiancé, Joseph F. Switzer, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Switzer. Their wedding will take place on Feb. 25 in Chicago. Miss Erbstein is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Erbstein of Elgin and Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville C. Branch Jr. have returned to their home in Alexandria, Va., after a brief holiday visit with Mrs. Branch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross J. Beatty of Highland Park. She is the former Miss Veronese Beatty.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting.

Jack Poorman, former department commander of the American Legion, will discuss "The Legislative Program of the American Legion and Auxiliary" at a meeting of the auxiliary's Cook county council at 1:30 o'clock today at the Hotel Sherman.

Camp Algonquin Gift of $15 Is Acknowledged

A gift of $15 from Stephen A. Poyer to the Camp Algonquin fund is gratefully acknowledged by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Camp Algonquin, administered by the United Charities, is a vacation ground on the Fox river for the mothers and children of Chicago's poorest families.

Round Table Luncheon.

Janet Norris Bangs, Chicago poet, will be the special guest of the Friends of Literature at a round table luncheon tomorrow at the Piccadilly tearoom, 410 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Frank Dow will give a dramatic review of Paganini's biography, and Manuel Komroff's "The Magic Bow" will be discussed.

The Esquire PRESENTS
QUEEN of DESTINY
A magnificent spectacle and a human document which poignantly traces the womanly life of Victoria. What enlivens it is the personal quality pictured in its impression of simple family life and in the devotion of Albert, her husband. Anna Neagle's restraint and ease as Victoria are the marks of a masterful portrayal. A sequel to "Victoria the Great," it has been filmed in technicolor with Anton Walbrook and C. Aubrey Smith in other roles.

SANTA CLARA HALTS DE PAUL; LOYOLA LOSES

ORLANDO GOES UNPUNISHED IN HOCKEY BRAWL

Wings' Slugger Says He Had Orders.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

National Hockey league officials yesterday were in an apparent stall over the riot which followed the Chicago-Detroit hockey game in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. No disciplinary action was taken against Giacomo Orlando, unwashed Detroit defense player, who slugged a spectator, knocking him unconscious, nor was there any clarification of the status of Manager Jack Adams in the brawl, after witnesses charged he had incited Giacomo to violence.

Frank Calder, president of the league, for 22 years fast on his feet in sidestepping hockey jams, had taken no action hours after hearing of the outbreak; President Bill Tobin of the Blackhawks was "conducting an investigation," and Referee Bill Stewart said he was "waiting for a street car" when the rioting started.

Can It Be an Act?

Calder said last night in Montreal he had received no complaint against Orlando and added that he will take no action against the player until one is filed.

GIACOMO ORLANDO.

It has been apparent for several weeks that some one in authority has been encouraging rowdyism on National league rinks, possibly as a spur to the gate. Prior to Wednesday night, however, fisticuff stimulants had not been introduced to any marked extent here possibly because of the remarkable attendance in Chicago.

In the meantime, the buildup of Orlando as "the last of hockey's bad men," has been classified as a phony smokeup project that got out of hand dangerously when Orlando, apparently on urging from Adams, the pudgy Detroit manager, spread his roughhouse technique to the stands.

Just Like the Wrestlers.

In developing Orlando, hockey apparently has stolen several pages from the most disreputable books of hippodrome wrestling. Orlando has been forbidden to bathe or shave for several days before a hockey match, a ban he is said to accept with enthusiasm. Like the villain in fake wrestling shows, he specializes in picking on favored players, preferably small players, like Doug Bentley of the Hawks. This, it is pointed out, is not because he fears larger men, but simply to follow the bully rôle, as laid down in the wrestling manual.

Everybody concerned was said to have felt greatly relieved when Charles Y. Freeman Sr., father of the spectator knocked cold by Orlando, stated his son did not intend to start suit as a result of the hoodlum attack. Freeman Sr., chairman of the board of the Commonwealth Edison company, interviewed his son yesterday, then announced there would be no suits or warrants.

His Feelings Are Hurt.

Upon returning to Detroit yesterday morning Orlando was in a defiant mood. He said Freeman's language had hurt his feelings and had offended the dignity of Mr. Adams. He said that Adams had called him back to slug Freeman after he, Giacomo, had started to leave the ice.

The danger in the whole thing was in mob psychology.

Hawk officials denied that Mr. Tobin or any one connected with the Hawks had suggested any hippodroming by Orlando or anybody else. They pointed to the average Chicago attendance of 15,000 against the average 5,000 in Detroit as reasons why hockey needs no hoodlum stimulus.

HALAS MAY BE RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL SUNDAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2 [Special].—George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears football team, which defeated the National league All-Stars here last Sunday in the pro bowl championship, may leave St. Vincent's hospital next Sunday, his physician, Dr. Verne C. Hunt, said tonight. Halas underwent an operation for acute appendicitis on Dec. 22. He was allowed to leave his bed for a short time today.

The physician says he expects Halas to remain in Los Angeles for a week or 10 days for observation after his release from the hospital.

RIGNEY, SOLTERS, DICKEY AND NAVIE SIGN WITH SOX

They Raise '41 Signature List to Eighteen.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Four more White Sox members jumped aboard the James Dykes 1941 band wagon yesterday, raising to 18 the number already eligible for the streamliner journey to Pasadena, Cal., next month.

Leading yesterday's batch of contented performers was Pitcher John Rigney, the prospective bridegroom, whose signed document arrived in the morning's mail. Later in the day John called at the park in person, not only to make certain the mails hadn't miscarried, but for a few words with Dorothy Comiskey, part owner of the club, and the future Mrs. Rigney.

Rigney balked, despite a raise, when he first talked terms with Vice President Harry Grabiner three weeks ago.

Solters Joins Up, Too.

Other signed papers accounted for during the day were dispatched from the winter retreats of Outfielder Julius Solters, George Dickey, the catcher who may cause a little worry for other members of that department, and Walter Navie, a left handed pitcher who at Shreveport last season developed a knack for rescuing. Dickey, brother of Bill, the Yankee star, was purchased from Oklahoma City, where he batted .315 in 113 games for second place among Texas league batsmen.

Sox contracts affairs have progressed so smoothly that the prospective 1941 starting lineup, pitchers excepted, is ready for the westward ride. Larry Rosenthal is the lone absentee among the outfielders. The three utility infielders, Jim Webb, Dario Lodigiani, and Bill Knickerbocker, are in the same class. The mailman hasn't reported on Thornton Lee or Eddie Smith.

Mail Cub Contracts Today.

The Cubs, who probably have had an unpleasant winter thus far, will soon know whether their worries were warranted or whether they didn't worry enough. Contracts will be put into the mails today by General Manager Jim Gallagher. A number of the bloated bond holders will receive offers befitting their work last season and that means lower wages.

Not even one Cub is under contract and as there are 37 on the roster at the moment it is a cinch there will be painful squawking. The first squawks undoubtedly will be heard early next week.

FENGER ESCAPES I. S. H. S. A. BAN FOR MIAMI GAME

Fenger High school's football team, city champion, which still believes in Santa Claus despite a 19 to 0 defeat in Miami, Fla., Christmas night, will maintain its standing in the Illinois State High School association, it was learned last night.

The champions risked suspension by playing the postseason contest despite a rule prohibiting football games after the first Saturday in December, an amendment passed in November, 1939.

While no official statements were made, it was revealed that the state association, headed by C. W. Whitten, executive secretary, has asked the Chicago Public High School league thru its athletic director, August H. Pritzlaff, to join the group as a unit. Heretofore, members of the Chicago league entered the association individually. Only 10 of the 40 Chicago public schools have joined the state group for 1941. The dues have been increased from $2 to $20.

Under the state association's proposal, the Chicago league would join the state association and its teams would adhere to the city and not the state association rules. Each school would pay a small fee plus an additional charge for competition in the state basketball, track, swimming, tennis, and golf meets. A committee representing principals of Chicago high schools will meet next week to consider Whitten's suggestion.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

LOS ANGELES hospital attachés, standing by with hypodermic needles and pulmotors when the story broke, say Coach George Halas of the Bears did not miss a pulse beat when informed his No. 1 draftee, Tom Harmon, had declared: "I would rather go on relief than play professional football." . . . Sid Richardson of Northwestern, Western conference golf champion, was aboard the U. S. S. Arkansas when it collided with a freighter recently in New York harbor. . . . He is a member of the naval reserve. . . . Doc Romnes, former Blackhawk star, is coaching the Portage Lake team of the Upper Michigan Hockey league. . . . Louie [Dutch] Conlon, who refereed the Rose bowl game, has become financially independent from football officiating alone.

I Have Tried.

Lord, I have tried to walk the narrow way
That leads up Calvary's hill to Thy abode;
Oft have my wandering footsteps gone astray,
Oft has my heart grown faint upon the road;
Still have I struggled thru the dismal night
Hoping the dawn might find me at Thy side;
Tho my poor heart is scarlet in Thy sight,
Lord, I have tried.

Lord, I have trod where thorns and briars grew,
Along each stony road my feet have bled;
And when the wasting winds of passion blew
I sought to follow where Thy footsteps led.
What tho I still am plodding in the gloom,
Far from the mountain peak where saints abide,
Take Thou my hand; for tho I'm far from home,
Lord, I have tried.

ILLINOIS QUINTET DEFEATS KANSAS STATE, 45 TO 29

Indiana State Whipped by Purdue, 41-28.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Illinois defeated Kansas State, 45 to 29, in a basketball game tonight. The Big Six team got off to a 12 to 9 lead in the first 12 minutes against a reserve team, but the appearance of the Illini regulars, led by Walt Evers, Vic Wukovits, and Art Mathisen, quickly changed the situation. Illinois led, 22 to 13, at the half.

The Illini scored consistently in the second half which soon found many substitutes in their lineup, 18 players in all being used in the game. Wukovits with 10 points and Mathisen with 8 led the Illini. Lineup:

PURDUE WINS, 41-28

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 2 [Special].—Purdue's Big Ten basketball champions wound up their preconference campaign tonight with a 41 to 28 victory over Indiana State Teachers of Terre Haute. It was the sixth victory in seven starts for the Boilermakers.

Purdue's real margin of scoring superiority was recorded in 2 minutes, 25 seconds toward the end of the first half which netted 11 points for the Boilermakers while the visitors were standing still. Lineups:

SNEAD GETS 65 IN PRACTICE FOR $10,000 TOURNEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., is regarded by many players as the man to beat in the Los Angeles $10,000 open golf tournament, opening tomorrow.

Snead, in a workout, went around the difficult 7,000 yard Riviera Country club course in 65. The tees were set farther forward than they will be tomorrow, but the course is well trapped and lays stress on distance for both the tee and second shots.

Snead is competing against a tough field, which includes Ben Hogan, the Texan, rated as one of golf's most consistent performers in 1940, and Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., held by many as the greatest professional of the last two seasons.

Shaughnessy, a Jubilant Coach, Explains Rose Bowl Strategy

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 2.—Several winters ago, long before he had any thought of leaving the University of Chicago, Clark Shaughnessy, in one of those moments when men sit with trusted friends and think aloud, declared professional football is the best football.

"If I ever have the personnel, I'll try to copy the pros in everything," he said. "We would adopt the Bears' man-in-motion offense tomorrow if we had the athletes for it on the Midway. But, of course, we'll never get them at Chicago."

This can be revealed today without breaking confidence, for it was obvious to the more discerning among the 90,000 in the Rose bowl yesterday while Stanford was rolling over Nebraska, 21 to 13. It was the Indians' 10th consecutive victory since Shaughnessy was called to rescue them from the depths of the Pacific Coast conference. In conquering the burly Cornhuskers, Stanford featured the strategies, defensively and offensively, that are characteristic of National league football.

Husker Defense Fails.

Its offense basically was the Bears' man-in-motion with such variations as are necessitated by the differences in college and pro rules. It also included some plays used by the Bears several years ago and since discarded. Shaughnessy took these plays, worked in a modified single wing to the left and a direct pass to the full back from T formation, then supercharged the mixture with relentless stress on the cardinal fundamentals—blocking and tackling.

Nebraska, strictly collegiate in its tactics and strategies, attempted to meet this attack with a set five-three-two-one defense. At no time did the Cornhuskers appear at ease in this alignment. The middle man in the trio of backers-up played almost shoulder to shoulder with the backer-up on the right, and did not shift over toward the center of the line when the left backer-up went out to cover Stanford's left half back in motion.

Kmetovic Play Planned.

Shaughnessy, too happy over the Rose bowl victory and his most successful season as a coach to answer queries about the future, revealed today that Pete Kmetovic's 38 yard return of a punt for Stanford's third and last touchdown was a set play, put in two days before the game. It depended on Kmetovic drawing the defense to one side of the field, then utilizing his tremendous speed to flee a trap and reverse his field while blockers went to work.

The reticent, fidgety Shaughnessy added that Albert had been given full charge of the offense when he stepped on the field. Only one suggestion was sent in to him. Whether it was on offense or defense he would not reveal.

Stanford went home today, while Nebraska stayed to tour the movie studios. Maj. Lawrence [Biff] Jones, Husker coach, had nothing but praise for the Indians.

Mrs. Babe Ruth, Hurt in Fall at Home, Improved

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—Babe Ruth spent an anxious day today pacing the corridors of French hospital, where Mrs. Ruth was taken earlier suffering from concussion of the brain. The wife of the former home run king slipped and fell in the Ruth's Riverside drive home. Hospital attachés announced that she was resting comfortably and would go home in a few days.

BRONCOS BREAK DEMONS' STRING AT SEVEN, 43-39

Kansas Five Beats Ramblers, 41-40.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

De Paul's status as one of the country's ranking undefeated basketball teams ended last night in the Coliseum when the Blue Demons ran into a nimble band of Broncos from Santa Clara, and went away 43 to 39 losers. It was the first De Paul defeat in eight games this season and climaxed a wild evening in which 7,000 clients saw Loyola yield a thriller to Kansas, 41 to 40, in the first game of the double header. It was the Ramblers' third loss in seven shots.

Santa Clara, fastest team to appear in the double header series this semester, was powered by big Jim Rickert and Dick [Skinny] Mangan, who baffled the Demons during most of the tight argument and finished off the game in the final minute when Mangan scored on an out of bounds sleeper, just after De Paul's Bernie Wekler had counted three points to bring the Demons within a basket at 39 to 41.

Gainer, Sachs Star.

Co-Capt. Elmer Gainer and Ed Sachs shared scoring honors for De Paul with 12 and 10 points, respectively, but Bruce Hale of the Broncos matched Gainer's total before he was ejected on fouls.

The scoring hero of the evening, however, was Loyola's red haired Jewish star, Mickey Rottner, who fired nine baskets and four free throws for more than half of the Ramblers' points and set a season high for individual scoring on the Coliseum floor. This gave Mickey a total of 110 points for seven games.

Broncos Get Going.

The best De Paul could do in the first half was a 13 to 8 lead about midway thru the period. Gainer and Sachs being largely responsible for this margin. Then Passaglia, Mangan and Feerick made five shots so fast that the Demons thought a Pacific coast wind had swept thru the building, and Rickert's free throw gave the Broncos their first lead. This eventually was built up to 20 to 14 before Cominsky's follow-up shot and Sachs' two free throws on Rickert's foul cut the visitors' advantage to 20-18 at the half.

The second half found the lead changing hands five times, De Paul finally going into a 31 to 30 lead on Cominsky's basket. Master Cominsky, incidentally, was the only member of the De Paul cast who appeared undisturbed by the visitors' sleight-of-hand passing and one-handed shooting. After Bob Feerick had tied it with a free throw Carter O'Rourke put De Paul ahead again, but Rickert's free throw and basket and Hale's long one-hander gave the Broncos the edge they needed.

Jayhawkers Catch Up.

Loyola trailed 6 to 0 before getting started against Kansas. The Ramblers were ahead 21 to 20 at the intermission. The Jayhawks quickly overhauled Loyola in the second half and pushed their margin to 36 to 28.

That was the largest margin enjoyed by either team for Lee and Rottner began to boost the Rambler tally until the final seconds, when Rottner made his last basket.

20 MORE TEAMS ENTER $5,000 BOWLING MEET

Total Soars to 100 for Sweepstakes.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

A fifth squad of 20 teams, including five Chicago Classic league lineups, has been scheduled for Ray Schalk's five man bowling sweepstakes which is to open tomorrow with 40 teams rolling and finishes Sunday night in Schalk's Beverly recreation center. The 20 teams increase the entries to a record 100. The 1940 meet drew 80.

The fifth squad is to be put on at 8 o'clock Sunday night. The first 20 teams will bowl at 8 o'clock and the second at 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

Seal-Fasts Defend Title.

The opening squad includes the Bowes Seal-Fasts of Indianapolis, defending champions; the Silver Seal Sodas and Say It with Flowers of St. Louis, and Joe Falcaro's Schlitz of New York. Chicago teams are the Mineralites, Chatham Posts, De Young Fuels, Wolniat Morticians, Burlington Zephyrs, and Ivanhoes.

The name teams which will roll on the second squad are the Monarch Beers of Chicago, American Bowling congress champions; Goebel Beers of Detroit, A. B. C. champions in 1939; Linsz Recreations of Cleveland, recently challengers for the national match game title; Collinwood Shales, Cleveland; Joseph L. Gills, leaders in the Stevenson and Randolph leagues; Koenig Braus of the Classic league; Heil Products of Milwaukee; Pepsi-Colas, leaders in the North End Traveling league, and the Stroh's Bohemians of Detroit.

Prize Money Totals $5,000.

Top prize for which the teams will shoot is $1,100. The complete total of prize money will be $5,000, which is to be split among 18 teams.

The baseball players who will meet the Pabst Blue Ribbon five in a benefit match for the Catholic Youth Organization Needy Youth Fund Monday night on the C. Y. O. alleys were named yesterday.

Six men associated with baseball will face the Pabst quintet, total pins of three games deciding the victor. The diamond performers are Lou Boudreau, Cleveland shortstop; Bob Kennedy, White Sox third baseman; Bruce Campbell, Detroit outfielder; Frank Gustine, second baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Billy Webb, director of the White Sox minor league clubs, and Don Kolloway, who is expected to be the White Sox regular second baseman next season.

The Pabst team is made up of Herb Freitag, Joe Sinke, Les Fuller, Ned Day, and Paul Krumske.

The Chicago Women's Bowling association will open its annual tournament in Bensinger's 131 South Wabash avenue center tomorrow and continue for three week-ends. The record entry includes 607 teams, 155 more than last year; 804 doubles, a gain of 290 over last season; 1,681 singles, an increase of 549 over a year ago. It is made up of 407 senior and 200 junior teams; 687 senior and 117 junior doubles, and 1,401 senior and 280 junior singles. The prize list totals $6,324.

East-West Game Boss Hits British Aid Clash Methods

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 2 [Special].—William Coffman, director of yesterday's charity East-West football game, today criticized the backers of a proposed British war relief contest in Los Angeles. He charged the sponsors broke their pledge not to capitalize on it as an East-West battle, had jeopardized the amateur status of some invited players by offering them money, and had affronted presidents of the colleges of the players by failing to obtain their consent to the scheme.

Jockey Bierman Set Down for 10 Days and Fined $100

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—Jockey Carroll Bierman has been suspended for 10 days and fined $100 by Santa Anita racetrack stewards for rough riding aboard Dare Bunny in the seventh race Tuesday. Bierman was accused of bearing out and bumping Real Clear, for which Dare Bunny was disqualified.

Seek Second Straight Pontiac Title

Centralia, invading northern Illinois, is the defending champion in the 15th annual holiday invitation basketball tournament at Pontiac High school. Following a 65 to 25 victory over Aledo in the first round, Centralia defeated Clinton yesterday, 45 to 30, to reach today's semi-finals. Left to right: Bob Miachel, Bill Castleman, Dwight Eddleman, Jack Klosterman, and Harold Wesner. Eddleman is the highest scoring prep player in the state this season, with 306 points in 15 games. Admit Proxies for Officers to Big Pin Event

Nonbowling secretaries whose leagues are entered in the League of Leagues competition and who wish to have representation in the special contest for secretaries may appoint substitutes for the duration of the competition, it has been explained by Howard McKay, League of Leagues head.

Rules provide that secretaries participate in the regular competition whereby a bowler is placed in one of seven classes according to his average and bowls for weekly prizes and a grand prize. The grand prize in each class is to be paid to the bowler who during the 10 weeks of the contest—which opens Jan. 25 and runs thru April 5—rolls the highest score in that class. Accordingly, the secretary in the 170 to 180—or any other class—who rolls the highest three game score during the 10 weeks gets that group's prize.

Little work is involved for secretaries. During the contest they use the League of Leagues' special score sheet—which is the standard sheet plus a column for each bowling night's total score for each participant.

Many sanctioned leagues which already had voted to enter the contest and awaited the passing of the holidays are now getting in their applications. The deadline for the receipt of applications is Jan. 19. The entry fee is 10 cents per man per night or $1.00 per man for the full period. The League of Leagues' offices are at 1609 Tribune Tower. Its telephone is Whitehall 5882.

Pontiac, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Peoria Manual, undefeated in nine games this season, and the veteran defending champions of Centralia, victorious in 14 out of 15 contests, will meet here tomorrow afternoon in a semifinal battle of the 15th annual Pontiac High school holiday basketball tournament.

In a clash between two previously unbeaten teams, Peoria Manual squeezed out a 34 to 33 decision tonight over York High of Elmhurst, while Centralia's high scoring quintet won its second round clash with Clinton this afternoon, 45 to 30.

Dwight Eddleman, high scorer among prep players of the state, who counted 18 points against Aledo yesterday, added 20 more for Centralia today. This ran his season's total to 306, an average of 20.4 per game. Centralia's only loss was inflicted in a home series with Taylorville, which was beaten in the first round by Flora last night.

Duquoin, from far southern Illinois, gained its seventh victory in eight games by defeating Greenup tonight, 35 to 23.

Flora, runner-up to Centralia in the last Pontiac meet, defeated Coal City, 34 to 25, to complete the semi-final bracket.

Amateurs Box in Two Club Shows Tonight

Amateur boxing shows will be held tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, and Chicago Towers club, 505 North Michigan avenue, and a professional wrestling match will be presented in Ashland auditorium, Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street. Lou Angelucci, city Golden Gloves middleweight champion, will meet Frank Jamison in a five round headliner in the Madison A. C. Frankie Kidd, Downers Grove boxer, encounters Bill Tyus in a five round secondary feature. Torsten Ahlbeck, Senn High school athlete, opposes Bill Jordan in one of five matches of three rounds.

Maurice Tillet, the French Angel, will be opposed by Frank Sexton, former Ohio State football player, in the windup bout on the Ashland auditorium card. The match is set for two hours. Tillet, who weighs 276, will have an advantage of about 50 pounds. Frank Judson, who once taught wrestling at Harvard university, is paired with Red Ryan of Texas in a semi-final, booked for a half hour. Other engagements, each of which also is scheduled for 30 minutes, will bring together Hans Steinke and Ole Olson, Joe Esposito and Pete Baltran, and Charley Monigan and Joe Dvorak.

John [Scotty] Strachan, Chicago Stadium matchmaker, last night closed a six round bout betwen Annunzio Ferraro, Milwaukee welterweight, and Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., for the first show of the new year in the west side arena next Friday. This completes the program, which is headed by a 10 round overweight contest involving Tony Zale, rightful holder of the middelweight championship, and Steve Mamakos. Other matches follow:

Irv Sarlin, Pittsburgh, vs. Booker Beckwith, Gary [6], 175.
Bill Cowan, Elgin, vs. Bill Peterson, Indiana Harbor [4], heavyweights.
Davey Day vs. Nick Castiglione [10], 138.

Leo Rodak, only boxer to win three Golden Gloves championships, left last night for Cincinnati, where he will meet Herschel Joiner in 10 rounds Monday. . . . Johnny Paycheck started training yesterday in Trafton's gim for a proposed match against Lee Savold, Des Moines heavyweight, in Des Moines this month. . . . The winner of a 10 round headliner in Marigold gardens Monday between Jimmy Tygh, Philadelphia lightweight, and Mike Gamiere of Cleveland will be rewarded with a match against Billy Marquart, Promoter Irving Schoenwald said yesterday.

Savoy Big Five Triumphs in Last 15 Seconds, 33-32

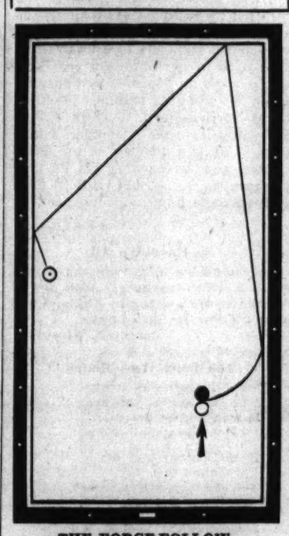
Leo's senior basketball squad and St. Patrick's junior quintet will begin defense of their Catholic High School league championships tonight. Leo, which hopes to carry its success from the gridiron to the basketball court, will meet Fenwick in the Leo gymnasium. St. Patrick starts its 1940-'41 campaign against St. Mel on St. Patrick's court.

Leo is expected to encounter strong opposition from the Oak Park team. Fenwick reached the finals of the recent St. George tournament, where it was beaten by Catholic High of Joliet, 26 to 20.

The Fenwick junior tournament brought Leo's ponies into the spotlight and they are among the favorites to triumph in that division.

Shots of the Stars



THE FORCE-FOLLOW.

[This is the fifth of a series of sketches on the specialty shots which competitors in the world's three cushion billiards championship tournament, opening Jan. 13 at Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, are expected to use.]

If Joe Chamaco's use of the difficult force-draw shot is one of the best fans may expect to see in the forthcoming tournament, so also is the force-follow, at which Welker Cochran, the onetime Iowan who learned his billiards in Chicago and later won the world's championship with frequent use of it, is unusually adept. Like the force-draw, it is one of the most difficult in the game.

Cochran especially relies on this maneuver when the cue ball lies close to the first object ball and no natural angle possibility presents itself. The cue ball stops momentarily after being struck and then gathers tremendous momentum, especially when leaving the first rail, at which point it must strike perfectly to create the correct angle. It comes off sharply at the second cushion, in order to run true to the third.

HOPPE ARRIVES TODAY

Willie Hoppe, world three cushion billiards champion, will arrive from New York this afternoon to taper off his practice for the defense of his crown against Jake Schaefer and for the annual championship tournament four days later. The Hoppe-Schaefer pre-tournament challenge match will be held at Bensinger's 131 South Wabash Avenue arena from Jan. 6 to 9.

OIL MAN SAVES FAIR GROUNDS FOR RACE FANS

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2 (AP).—Last minute action by a public spirited citizen today saved New Orleans' historic Fair Grounds race track from dissolution.

In accordance with a public announcement, Auctioneer Al Pailet, had knocked down divers clubhouse furnishings and was preparing to offer the track itself for sale, when William Helis, wealthy oil man, stepped up with a check for $525,000 to close the deal on a 30 day option.

Helis announced that racing will be continued in New Orleans but that he would have no part in the operation of the plant. The Fair Grounds, scene of continuous racing for 103 years, was sold last September by the Louisiana Jockey club to a real estate syndicate for $460,000.

SEEK TO SCREEN SERIOUSNESS OF MONETARY ROW

New Deal Fights to Hold Powers.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—As congressional leaders girded themselves for battle on the federal reserve system's proposal to gain power over monetary policies at the expense of the treasury, the administration today moved to smoke screen the seriousness of the New Deal family row over the nation's credit and currency from public eyes.

Stephen Early.

At the White House, Stephen Early, secretary to the President, attempted to allay reports that the reserve board's proposal to repeal President Roosevelt's powers to further devalue the dollar and issue 3 billion dollars of greenbacks had effected a break between the chief executive and Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the system's board of governors and chief supporter of the New Deal deficit spending policy.

Hedge on Approval.

Early told reporters that the board's report to congress was made with the "full knowledge" of the President. However, he would not say that meant the President had approved the plan which would clip his fiscal wings.

"Before he'll give approval, he'll study it," Early said.

Across the street in the treasury building Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. also refused to indorse the Eccles program. Taking his cue, as usual, from the White House, Morgenthau said he, too, had the recommendations "under consideration."

Forecast New Deal Fight.

He declined to comment further. His attitude, however, gave unmistakable evidence of the administration's intention to fight the federal

Giant Bomber Two Year Job, Asserts Maker

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 2 [Special].—Two years are required to deliver one of its giant bombers after an order is received, Maj. Reuben H. Fleet, president of Consolidated Aircraft corporation, disclosed today in a message to employés announcing a possible sixfold increase of plant facilities during 1941.

Even if money were "almost thrown away," in an effort to speed up production, Consolidated could not deliver under its present system in less than a year and a half after an order is received, he said.

Consider Midwest Plant.

Maj. Fleet said the expansion program would include a parts plant under consideration for the midwest and new structures now being built in San Diego. The company pay roll will rise from 14,000 to 35,000 in six months, he said.

Pointing to the laborious, special process involved in manufacturing of Consolidated planes, which he termed "the largest battleships that fly the heavens," Maj. Fleet asked for complete coöperation from workmen to speed up production.

Eight months are required, he stated, to obtain the material and supplies for one such bomber as Consolidated is building for the United States and Great Britain.

Tools Require Year.

"Then the plane must be built with special tools that take at least a year to procure, or design and make," he said. "Only skilled journeymen mechanics could make such a plane without many special tools and, of course, such skilled hands are few. From a quarter to three-quarters of a million rivets of hundreds of shapes and sizes must be made and driven in the building of each plane."

A school to train 1,000 new inspectors will be established by Consolidated, he said. The company has a $325,000,000 backlog of orders.

CHICAGOAN WILL BECOME HEAD OF BANKING FIRM

Joseph D. Murphy, vice president in charge of the Chicago office of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Inc., investment banking firm, will become president of the firm, it was announced yesterday. The change follows acquisition of the interest of Arnold G. Stifel in the company by Louis J. Nicolaus and a group associated with him. Nicolaus will be chairman of the board.

Murphy will remain in Chicago, and the office in St. Louis, which has been the headquarters, will be retained.

Number of Idle Rises Despite Factory Gains

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—The National Industrial Conference board reported in an employment survey today that expansion in manufacturing and construction resulting from the defense program was principally responsible for the absorption of nearly 1,200,000 more persons in industry from November, 1939, to November, 1940, and for an increase of 500,000 workers in the service industries.

But despite this trend the conference board estimated that total unemployment in the United States rose by 573,000 in November to 7,217,000 compared with 6,644,000 in October.

805,000 Lose Farm Jobs.

A drop of 805,000 persons in agricultural work accounted for the rise in unemployment, "altho in nearly all other nelds the changes were more favorable than could be expected for that month."

Total employment in all fields in November was estimated by the conference board to have been 48,132,000, an increase of 1,816,000 over November, 1939. The conference board's estimate of the number of unemployed for November a year ago was 8,337,000.

PREDICTS RISE IN STATE.

Illinois has not yet felt the full effects of the defense program, but should have a "considerable increase in employment" during the early months this year, Markin Durkin, state director of labor, said yesterday.

Various estimates, he said, have indicated an increase of between 300,000 and 350,000 workers in the state during the fall of 1940 and the first half of 1941 due to the defense activities.

Durkir estimated that 2,428,000 persons were engaged in nonagricultural occupations in Illinois during the month of November, or 123,000 more than the 2,305,000 for the same month in 1939.

Since April, 1940, the employment trend in Illinois has been upward each month, with the estimated number of nonagricultural workers increasing from 2,200,000 at that time to 2,428,000 in November, Durkin said.

GOVERNMENT BONDS DROP ON PROPOSALS FOR FISCAL CHANGES

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—United States government bonds lost up to a point today as dealers and investors sought to determine what effect the federal reserve board's recommendations for governmental fiscal changes would have upon interest rates and prices.

Government bond dealers had a variety of comment concerning the steps advocated. It included the thought that if congress adopted the board's recommendations to increase reserve requirements of member banks of the reserve system it would automatically dry up a prolific source of buying power because a large part of these funds are often placed temporaril yin government bonds.

The general attitude was to defer buying pending a clearer view of the situation. In these circumstances the trickle of offerings found no takers until prices dropped back sufficiently to meet existing bids.

The general corporate market was mixed. Rails were in demand at small advances, industrials were only little changed and utilities and foreign issues tended a bit higher.

IDLE RESERVES OF BANKS GROW BY 180 MILLIONS

Factor in Plea for Fiscal Changes.

American banks' excess reserves, the enormity of which has caused the federal reserve board to express its concern officially, expanded again in the week ended Tuesday.

The board reported yesterday that lendable excess reserves totaled $6,620,000,000 as Dec. 31, $180,000,000 more than the total of a week earlier, and $1,350,000,000 more than a year earlier. Return to the banks of money that had been withdrawn by shoppers prior to Christmas was the main cause of the increase, the board said.

Significance of the huge idle reserves as a potential inflationary influence was stressed by the board in a report to congress made public Wednesday.

Ask Increased Powers.

The board requested increased authority to permit it to deal with the dangers inherent in the billions of excess reserves as well as in the greatly swollen supply of bank deposits.

The report to congress, in which the federal advisory council and the presidents of the 12 federal reserve banks joined, said of the problem of reserves:

"Excess reserves are huge and increasing. They provide the base for more than doubling the existing supply of bank credit. Because of excess reserves, interest rates have fallen to unprecedentedly low levels."

The official expression of misgiving merely brought to a head a problem which has been worrying bankers for several years—what to do with billions of locked up dollars for which no profitable use could be found.

Chicago Loans Expand.

In yesterday's regular weekly report, the board said business loans by reserve system member banks in Chicago increased $3,000,000 for the week to a total of $480,000,000. The gain as compared with the volume of loans outstanding a year earlier was $108,000,000. The New York City total climbed $1,000,000 to $1,907,000,000, up $235,000,000 compared with the year ago volume.

Owner of Elevators to Tear Down His Part of Building

BY AL CHASE.

A contract was signed yesterday with a wrecking company to slice off the north one-third of the ten story Atwood building at the northwest corner of Madison and Clark streets. This part of the building and site is owned by Arthur Bernstein. As all the elevators in the building are in the 21½ foot section to be torn down, the remaining two-thirds of the structure, owned by the Chicago Title and Trust company, will be left with no elevator service.

Harold A. Moore, vice president of the title company, said the question of joining forces with Bernstein and demolishing the eight upper floors of the part owned by the Chicago Title and Trust company is being discussed.

Upper Floors Vacant.

Moore intimated that about the only feasible thing to do would be to carry out a plan first suggested last July when the first two floors of the building were leased to the Stineway Drug company. At that time the title company and Bernstein canceled an operating agreement they had and notified tenants to move. Since then the upper floors have been vacant.

Bernstein is a member of the firm of Bernstein Brothers, owner of the 15 story 10 North Clark street building adjoining on the north. Bernstein said that a two story "taxpayer" will be built on his 21½ feet. This structure, probably the loop's smallest "taxpayer," will be 80 feet deep. A "taxpayer" is a structure built to replace an older building and planned to at least pay the taxes on the site.

Will Have Glass Front.

Designed by David Saul Kiafter, Chicago architect, it will be of fireproof construction and with a structural glass front. Completion is set for May 1. Wrecking of the Bernstein part of the Atwood building will be started next Thursday.

The basement, first, and second floors of the two-thirds of the Atwood building owned by the Chicago Title and Trust company, also will be converted into a "taxpayer" if it decided to wreck the eight upper floors simultaneously with Bernstein's operations.

The building was erected in 1898 by the Atwood Clothing company and has had several widely known tenants. S. W. Straus & Co. at one time owned and occupied it. Later H. O. Stone & Co. owned it.

NORTH WESTERN PLANS ANOTHER STREAMLINER

The Chicago and North Western railway is planning the construction of a streamliner of the 400 type for service between Chicago and Green Bay, Wis., to cost 1¼ million dollars or more, Charles M. Thompson, trustee of the road, said yesterday.

The new train, which would be powered by a Diesel electric locomotive, is being considered as part of a general expansion program for 1941, which includes 2,700 new or rebuilt freight cars and other equipment, he said.

The streamliner is designed to win back traffic lost to the highways in previous years. Service may be extended to points north of Green Bay, Thompson said. He observed that providing fast passenger service to other points on the line had resulted in bringing the road additional freight business and predicted the same result should the new streamliner be installed.

CHICAGO AREA GETS MILLIONS IN U. S. ORDERS

Defense Jobs Cover Varied Products.

National defense contracts and orders totaling $34,620,000—an average of more than $1,100,000 a day—were received last month by companies in the six county Chicago industrial area. And 48 companies got their first taste of national defense work, inquiry revealed yesterday. The area includes Cook, Lake, Du Page, Will, and Kane counties, Illinois, and Lake county, Indiana.

A compilation made by the Chicago Association of Commerce disclosed the extent of Chicagos' participation in rearming efforts thru direct contracts, and also showed that the wide diversity of manufacturing skill and equipment is being put to use. Gauze and heavy machinery, flannel undershirts and acetylene gas cylinders, forceps and locomotive cranes, pencil sharpeners and dough mixers, gloves and crushed limestoqe, telephones and corned beef—these are samples of the varied items which plants in this area were asked to make.

Steel Volume Boosted.

Not included in the month's total of awards is a vast amount of steel being made by mills in the Chicago district. An official of the association said indirect war business has added possibly $60,000,000 a month to the dollar volume of the mills' business.

About 170 separate contracts and orders were let during the month to account for the $34,620,000 or direct war business and of these 16 were for $500,000 or more each. The largest was for $6,311,085, awarded to Diamond T Motor Car company for army trucks.

Other large orders or contracts were: To Leonard Construction company, $4,224,000 for housing facilities at Coco Solo and Balboa, Canal Zone; Buda company, $3,891,705 for Diesel engines and $1,304,988 for power boat motors; Stewart-Warner corporation, $1,733,827 for fuses, and $742,931 for fuse parts.

I'm arranging to be my own beneficiary under a Living Trust

I still make the decisions, but I'm free from all the details

And when I'm gone, my Trustee will know just how I want my estate administered

THE Living Trust is ideal for the man who wants more freedom to enjoy life. His voice governs every decision. But he is released from the many details of conserving his present assets while he turns his attention to other things. The trust itself may provide that it be terminated at will or its provisions freely altered. If continued, it is not probated, avoiding unnecessary delay, expense and publicity.

Many men nowadays are turning to this newer form of trust, by which they candidly test the knowledge and ability of the Trustee who is to administer the estate later. This is a test which we welcome. Here at Chicago Title & Trust Company you will find that our Trust Officers are schooled in practical business. They are experienced in estate transfer taxes. They are experts in the field of investments, real estate and business management. They are fully equipped to shoulder your financial problems today and, through familiarity with your plans and intentions, to carry on ... in your own spirit ... for your heirs.

You and your attorney are invited to consult with our Trust Officers in confidence and without obligation. Meanwhile, send for our recent booklet, "Your Plan for Estate Conservation."

CHICAGO TITLE & TRUST COMPANY

We offer many services for estate preservation:

FOR INDIVIDUALS—Living Trusts • Business Trusts • Land Trusts • Insurance Trusts • Testamentary Trusts • Investment Management • Agency and Safekeeping.

FOR CORPORATIONS—We also serve as: Paying Agent for Dividends • Trustee for Bond and Note Issues • Depository under Reorganizations • Transfer Agent • Registrar of Stock.

STOCK MARKET LIMPS INTO 1941 WITH HANGOVER

Volume Tumbles; Price Trends Are Mixed.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—The stock market today stepped into 1941 with a decided limp.

Gains of fractions to a point or so outnumbered declines, but late selling of steels and motors was an unsettling factor and early advances by many other market leaders were reduced or canceled.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 of a point to 43.7. Four successive preholiday upturns had been recorded.

Many potential buyers stood aside, brokers said, because of their inability to determine possible later market repercussions of the federal reserve board's antiinflation recommendations to congress.

Volume Drops to 527,470.

Dealings were sluggish, altho volume picked up briefly in the final hour when prices were slipping. Transfers totaled 527,470 shares compared with 1,073,070 Tuesday.

Chrysler lost 2⅜ and General Motors 2¼. Lesser declines were made by United States Steel, Bethlehem, United States Rubber, Anaconda, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse Electric, and du Pont.

Finishing ahead were Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, New York Central, American Telephone, American Can, Loft, and Paramount Pictures.

Chicago Stocks.

Late selling reduced or canceled many price gains on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Only 21,000 shares changed hands. Of the 100 active issues, 51 closed higher, 23 lower, and 26 unchanged. North American Car, one of the volume leaders, set a 1940-'41 high at 6¼.

In trading from 2 to 3 o'clock, the hour after the close of the New York Stock exchange, Texas corporation sold at 39½, off ¼ from the New York close, and Commonwealth Edison and Gillette Safety Razor were listed at 29⅜, respectively, unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

City National, First National, and Harris Trust shares moved 2 points higher yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Chicago Title and La Salle National each advanced a point and Continental Illinois half a point. Industrial National common eased half a point.

RAYON OUTPUT UP 20 PER CENT TO NEW RECORD

Imports Are Replaced by Domestic Product.

American rayon manufacturers produced 460,000,000 pounds of the material in 1940, the largest amount ever made in one year, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Wilmington, Del., reported yesterday.

Comparative figures for recent years emphasized the rapidity with which the industry has developed. The 1940 volume represented an increase of 20 per cent over the 1939 total. In 1939 output had shown a 33 per cent gain over 1938 output. Ten years ago the annual rate was 127,000,000 pounds.

Fiber Output Up 51 Pct.

Reporting an increase of 51 per cent in domestic production of staple textile fibers, du Pont said a reduction of imports of wool, flax and other textile materials had led to development of new fibers and fabrics designed to fill the place of the imported materials.

Du Pont's new "crimped" fiber, having certain characteristics found only in wool heretofore, was cited as an example.

"This new fiber is of particular interest to rug and carpet weavers hitherto dependent on wools from Syria, Iraq, China and other parts of the world," the company said. "The fiber, as yet known only by its laboratory name of 'fiber D,' shows promising potentialities as upholstery material, wall covering and plushes.

Spun Yarns More Popular.

"A wide range of spun rayon yarns, spun to achieve a woolly effect, found increasing use in woolen and worsted fabrics containing larger proportions of rayon than in the past."

Increased use of rayon in tires, especially in those used on buses and trucks, was reported, and du Pont said that one of its tough rayon yarns "figured for the first time in home furnishing fabrics, particularly in curtains and drapery materials."

The same yarn was used in newly developed sheer dress fabrics in organdie and chiffon finishes. Rayon or part rayon fabrics were used in larger amounts than before in men's clothing, including sportswear, the company reported.

DECEMBER PORK PRODUCTION AT NEW PEAK LEVEL

Production of pork during December was the largest on record for the month and marked the third consecutive month that output had attained record highs, the American Meat Institute reported yesterday.

"Production of all meat dressed under federal inspection in 1940 was about 10 per cent greater than in 1939 and about 15 per cent greater than the average production during the five year period, 1929-'33," the institute said in its review.

OIL PRODUCTS.

What information do you have about National Oil Products company? I have been offered some of its stock.—T. E.

Answer: National Oil Products company and its subsidiaries manufacture chemical products and vitamin concentrates. The chemicals are utilized in manufacturing processes of various industries, and the vitamin concentrates are used in foods and in animal feeds. The company also prepares oil shampoos and cosmetics. Its main plant is at Harrison, N. J.

To repay bank loans and obtain funds for plant expansions, the company recently issued $1,500,000 of 3¼ per cent debentures, which constitute the entire funded debt, and 35,965 shares of additional $4 par common stock. Already outstanding were 179,829 shares.

Earnings of the company have been fairly stable, demonstrating resistance to the influence of declines in general business activity. Net income in the first nine months of 1940 increased to $530,207, equal to $2.95 a share, against $499,289 or $2.78 a share in the corresponding period of 1939. The earnings and dividend record in recent years follows:

	Net Income	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.
1935	$537,949	$2.17	$0.60
1936	559,097	3.31	2.80
1937	458,249	2.53	2.10
1938	401,871	2.23	0.90
1939	700,401	3.89	1.85

Dividends on the common stock in 1940 totaled $1.35 a share. A dividend of 50 cents a share will be paid Jan. 20 to holders of record Jan. 16. Current assets of the company last Sept. 30 amounted to $3,468,972 against current liabilities of $1,159,030.

RECEIVER IN EQUITY.

Please explain the nature of an equity receivership.—H. M.

Answer: Equity receivership consists of a temporary assumption by a court of the control and management of properties involved in litigation. The court usually appoints a receiver to act as its representative to conserve the assets of a business while measures are being taken to liquidate, reorganize or make some other adjustment of its financial affairs.

The receiver is primarily a custodian of property and his first function is to prevent its impairment or loss. His secondary duty is to administer or dispose of the property in accordance with the court's decree after the proceedings are concluded. The amended federal bankruptcy law has outmoded equity receiverships. Corporate reorganization without the court sale of assets has become the common method of dealing with insolvency.

CHICAGO AREA GETS MILLIONS IN U.S. ORDERS

Defense Work Covers Varied Products.

McNeill & Libby, $1,040,960 for corned beef, hash, and other similar foods, and Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, $1,020,000 for plant expansion and equipment to permit production of gears for other companies having orders for naval aircraft engines.

International Harvester company received two orders totaling $1,348,593 for cranes and for shell parts. Armour & Co. was awarded a contract to furnish corned beef, dried beef, sausages, and corned beef hash.

Reports "Secret" Orders.

From the time awards of defense contracts began, in July, to the end of December, 389 Chicago companies received orders and contracts numbering 984 and totaling $301,517,000, the association reported.

In addition, it said, secret orders totaling $45,000,000, on which no details were made public, were let in this area, and an additional $160,000,000 of subcontracts from companies having defense orders were placed with Chicago area companies.

Thus, according to the association's survey, orders and subcontracts totaling $506,517,000 were received in this area in six months.

TRANSIT LINES REPORT TRAFFIC GAINS IN MONTH

Substantial traffic gains in December were reported yesterday by the Chicago Surface Lines, the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated], and the Chicago Motor Coach company. Their figures were preliminary. The reports for the year also showed traffic increases as compared with 1939 figures.

Surface Lines December passenger volume amounted to 61,339,944, a gain of 4.2 per cent over the 58,859,171 passengers carried in the same month last year. The 1940 volume increased 1.9 per cent to 689,315,129 from 676,334,797 in 1939.

Elevated passenger traffic compared as follows: December, 14,016,188, against 13,156,349 in the 1939 month, an increase of 6.5 per cent; for the year, 149,205,137, against 145,394,382, up 2.6 per cent.

Bus traffic: December, 5,301,650, up 4.7 per cent over the 5,061,313 of 1939; for the year, 60,127,670, against 57,893,347 in 1939, an increase of 3.9 per cent.

NEW BUILDING TOPS YEAR AGO FOR 18TH WEEK

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Engineering construction awards for the short holiday week ended yesterday totaled $82,544,000, a gain of 54 per cent over the same week a year ago and 10 per cent over the Christmas week, Engineering News-Record reported today.

It marked the eighteenth consecutive week that awards have exceeded their value for the corresponding week a year earlier.

Increased industrial building contracts boosted private awards 45 per cent over a year ago and 74 per cent above the preceding week.

Comparisons follow:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Private	$31,395,000	$18,049,000	$21,697,000

New C. & E. I. Receives 1¼ Million Postal Savings

Benjamin Wham, trustee in bankruptcy for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway company, yesterday turned over $1,250,000 in postal savings to the new Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad company, completing the transfer of assets under the reorganization program. The majority of the properties had changed hands Tuesday, but the postal savings item was postponed to prevent loss of accumulated interest.

SEEK TO SCREEN SERIOUSNESS OF MONETARY ROW

New Deal Fights to Keep Its Fiscal Controls.

reserve program and seek to retain the full control over fiscal matters it won after a hard fought congressional struggle 18 months ago. In June, 1938, the New Deal secured a two year extension of dollar devaluation, currency inflation, and other fiscal powers.

Up on Capitol Hill no secret was made of congressional expectation that the reserve board's program will touch off a war of words which may go down in history alongside the epic campaign of Andrew Jackson against the Bank of the United States.

In 1832 Jackson was reelected on the issue of his opposition to the United States bank. He withdrew government deposits from the bank in 1833. When congress met in December the subject became the matter of weeks of debate amid scenes of wildest excitement. The fury of the senate against Jackson was so great that that body would have impeached the President had it not been for the fact that impeachment power lies only in the house and the house at that time was Democratic.

Battle Lines Formed.

Early battle lines formed along well marked administration and anti-administration gradations.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg [R., Mich.] characterized the Eccles plan a "tremendous contribution to economic sanity."

"It is comforting to me that somebody at last proposes to deal with our own economic crisis," he said.

The report was also praised by Senator John G. Townsend [R., Del.], who called for going a step further to repeal of the gold and silver purchase program to ward off dangers of inflation and remove "the ultimate cause of our monetary headache."

Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.] told the house that he expected to oppose the Eccles plan, asserting that congress once gave the reserve board power and that grant was abused.

Laid to Selfish Interests.

Representative John E. Rankin [D., Miss.] charged the proposal constituted a request by "selfish interests" that congress give up its constitutional powers to coin and regulate money. He added that approval of the plan would be "the greatest calamity that could possibly happen to the people in agricultural states."

Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator, told reporters at St. Louis, Mo., that he saw no danger of inflation. He declined to discuss the recommendations directly.

While applauding the major objectives of the plan, officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation hinted opposition to two minor points. Chairman Leo T. Crowley, asked about a proposal to abolish FDIC assessments on reserves deposited in the federal reserve banks by member banks, said, "We will have our own recommendation on that point."

It was understood the proposal would cost the FDIC $20,000,000 of its annual revenue, which forms a pool for payment of depositors in closed banks.

Another Sore Point.

Another possible sore point to the FDIC was the recommendation that the federal reserve board be authorized to impose reserve requirements on approximately 6,000 banks not belonging to the federal reserve system.

The reserve system's monetary program was advocated as a means of heading off inflation on the warning that "a monetary system divided against itself cannot stand securely." In addition to urging abrogation of the devaluation and inflation powers, the plan recommended means be found to end gold hoarding, suggested additional taxes be gradually imposed to balance the budget, and called for financing the defense program by selling federal securities to investors rather than to banks.

TREASURY SAYS DEBT IS PAST 45 BILLION MARK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The treasury said today the public debt has passed $45,000,000,000, the former statutory limit.

The debt passed that mark several days ago, officials said, but it did not show on the books immediately because of delay in reporting baby bond sales at distant postoffices.

On Dec. 30, the treasury said, the outstanding debt was $45,001,757,537.38. The new debt limit, voted just a few months ago, is $49,000,000,000, but Secretary Morgenthau already has spoken of a desire to increase it to approximately $65,000,000,000, because of the large deficit expected to arise from the costly defense program.

NUNN-BUSH SHOE PROFITS NEARLY EQUAL YEAR AGO

President Reports Rise in Recent Sales.

The Nunn-Bush Shoe company realized a net income of $262,172, or $1.12 a share, in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, H. L. Nunn, president, announced yesterday. In the preceding year, the company's net profits totaled $262,317, also equal to $1.12 a share.

H. L. Nunn.

Nunn reported that there had been an increase in consumer buying of shoes in recent weeks, with present prospects indicating a considerable gain in shipments during the next few months. Main offices of the company are in Milwaukee, Wis.

N. Y. CENTRAL'S NEW EQUIPMENT AWARDS MADE

Details of a $12,500,000 equipment purchase program for the New York Central railroad were announced yesterday by F. E. Williamson, president. The road is buying 95 passenger coaches, 36 Diesel-electric switching locomotives, and 2,000 box cars. The system early last year bought 50 locomotives and numerous freight cars, costing a total of $10,000,000.

Williamson said the new coaches will be air conditioned, with brilliant lighting, adjustable reclining chairs, decorations in pastel colors and large washrooms. The order has been divided as follows: Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, 45; American Car and Foundry company, 25, and Pressed Steel Car company, 25.

The Electro-Motive corporation will build 26 Diesel-electric switchers, the American Locomotive company, 9, and the Baldwin Locomotive works, 1. Despatch Shops, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., will build 1,000 50-foot box cars and the Pressed Steel Car company will build 900 40-foot and 100 50-foot box cars.

TVA WAGE BOOST IS ESTIMATED AT MILLION A YEAR

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 2 [Special].—New 1941 wage schedules, announced here today for Tennessee Valley Authority workers, "result in an increase in the total annual pay roll, under expanded employment due to accelerated national defense program, to the amount of about $1,000,000."

The announcement was made in a joint statement by Arthur S. Jandrey, TVA personnel director, and Samuel E. Roper, president of Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor council, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The new wage schedule affects some 10,000 skilled, semiskilled, and unclassified workers employed in the construction, operations, maintenance, and chemical engineering departments for the authority. It is effective as of Jan. 1, 1941.

22 Per Cent More Domestic Wine Marketed in Year

Tax paid withdrawals of domestic still wine in the United States totaled 82,176,586 gallons in the fiscal year ended June 30, an increase of 22 per cent as compared with 1939 withdrawals, Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, reported. The report showed 1,090 wineries and 98 bonded wine storerooms were in operation in 33 states and Hawaii last year.

FOUNDRY NEEDED FOR ENGINE JOB STARTED BY FORD

Other Defense Expansion Projects Disclosed.

Industrial expansion announced yesterday for defense purposes covered a wide range of activities. In Detroit the Ford Motor company announced that it has started the construction of a magnesium foundry at its River Rouge plant for the production of lightweight castings for airplane engines.

The new plant will cost about $800,000 and is to be ready for production early in March. Present plans call for the production of about 110,000 pounds of magnesium castings monthly, altho the company contemplates the installation of 19 furnaces having a combined capacity of 500,000 pounds monthly. The castings are to be used in the airplane factory the Ford company is building for the production of Pratt and Whitney airplane engines for the army.

Will Enlarge Zinc Refinery.

In New York the American Smelting and Refining company announced that it is restoring its plant at Amarillo, Tex., to predepression size. The addition will add 2,400 tons to the plant's zinc smelting capacity. Work is to be completed in March.

The Bethlehem Steel company has been given a $7,275,484 contract for gun forgings to be produced for the navy at its Bethlehem, Pa., plant. Another navy contract was one of $1,239,000 given the Kelsey Hayes Wheel company for the making of projectiles at Detroit.

A $2,270,405 contract was approved by the defense commission for North American Aviation, Inc., for the expansion of the company's plant at Inglewood, Cal. Airplane frames will be produced at this plant.

Let Chicago Contracts.

Another contract provides for the construction of a new turbo supercharger plant by the General Electric company to be built at Everett, Mass., at an estimated cost of $5,873,800.

Awards given Chicago area companies included:

Aluminum Products company, La Grange, a war department contract for 8,000 aluminum pots and water pitchers costing $498,160 and a navy contract for $158,896 of aluminum ware.

McGraw Electric company, Elgin, a navy contract for electric toasters costing $65,569.

The maritime commission announced that it has awarded the Consolidated Steel Corp., Ltd., Los Angeles, a contract for the construction of two transports for the marine corps costing $4,375,000 each.

Lets Ordnance Plant Job.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company announced the award of a general contract for the construction of buildings at the naval ordnance plant near Louisville, Ky., to the J. G. White Engineering corporation, New York. Gun mounts, turrets, gun slides, and other ordnance items will be built in the plant which is to be completed by July. Westinghouse will operate the plant, employing about 1,000 skilled workers.

Plant construction and replacements costing a total of $6,800,000 has been budgeted by the Milwaukee Electric company, subsidiary of the North American company. Included will be $4,300,000 for power plants. The Commerce street station, Milwaukee, and the Port Washington plant will both be improved.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

An abrupt decrease in hog slaughtering and a rise in prices of all classes of live stock were recorded yesterday at the stockyards.

Hogs advanced 10 to 20 cents above Tuesday. The average showed a gain of 15 cents, at $6.90 a hundred pounds. Most classes ranged from $1.25 to $1.60 higher than a year ago.

Steers and yearling cattle of good to choice quality advanced 10 to 15 cents. Heifers ruled strong to 15 cents higher. Beef cows and calves were steady to strong.

Advances of 15 to 25 cents were recorded in slaughter lambs.

Hog receipts, 19,000; shipments, 2,500.
Cattle receipts, 6,000; shipments, 2,500.
Sheep receipts, 11,000; shipments, 1,000.

Receipts include 100 cattle, 4,400 hogs, and 2,000 sheep direct to packers.

CHASE NATIONAL EARNINGS RISE TO $1.83 A SHARE

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—The Chase National bank today reported 1940 net earnings of $13,550,000, or $1.83 a share, compared with $13,315,000, or $1.80 a share, in 1939. Deposits as of Dec. 31 totaled $3,543,338,000, largest on record, compared with $2,803,730,000 at the end of 1939.

The First National Bank of New York announced 1940 net income of $10,240,647, or $102.40 a share, against $10,407,174, or $104.07 a share in 1939.

Indicated earnings of the Commercial National bank were $3.20 a share for the fourth quarter of 1940, against $2.87 a share in the 1939 quarter.

MONEY, GOLD AND SILVER

The Canadian dollar yesterday lost about .06 of a cent in terms of United States currency in the open foreign exchange market. Because of the small supply of "free" exchange, the Canadian unit has been susceptible to sharp swings. The free Argentine peso and the Hongkong dollar rose slightly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP).—Bar silver, 34¾c per ounce, unchanged.

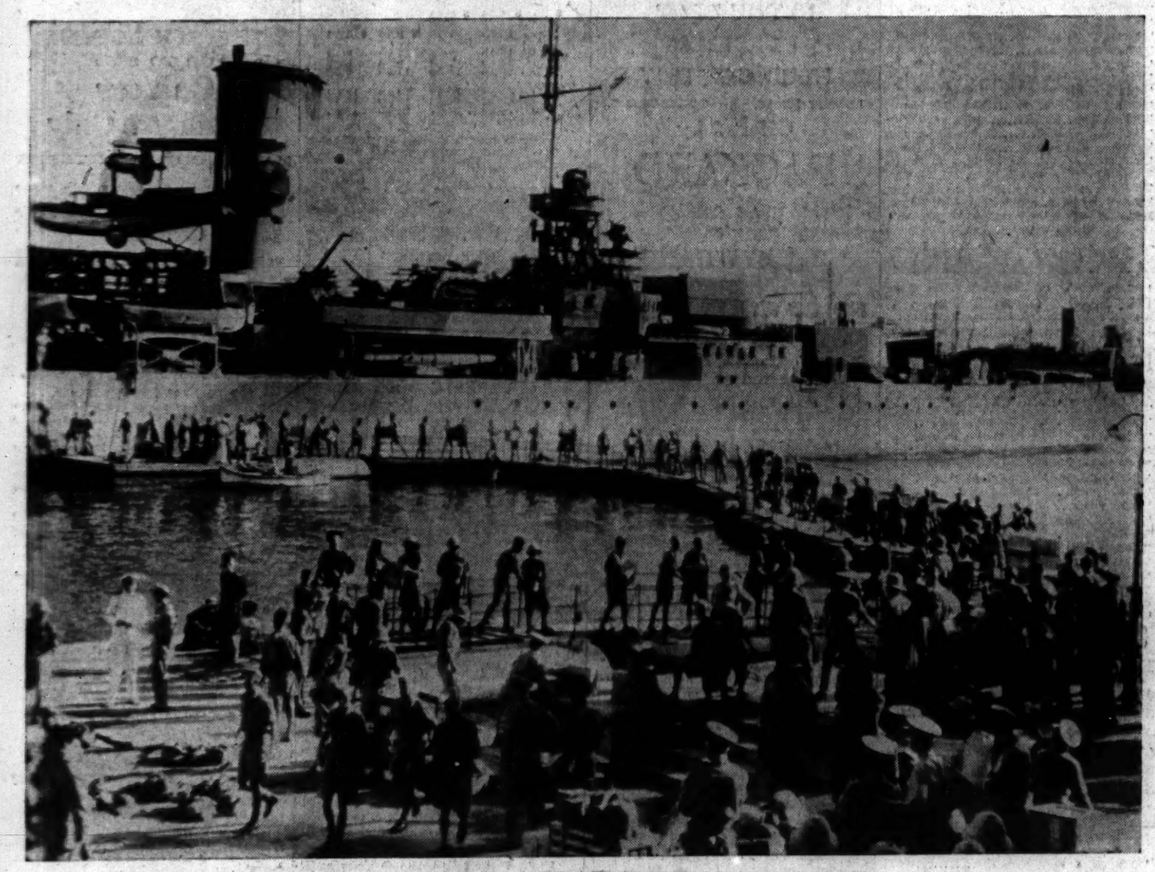
Fly Girl to United States and Remove Bolt from Lung—British Penetrate 75 Miles Within Libyan Border

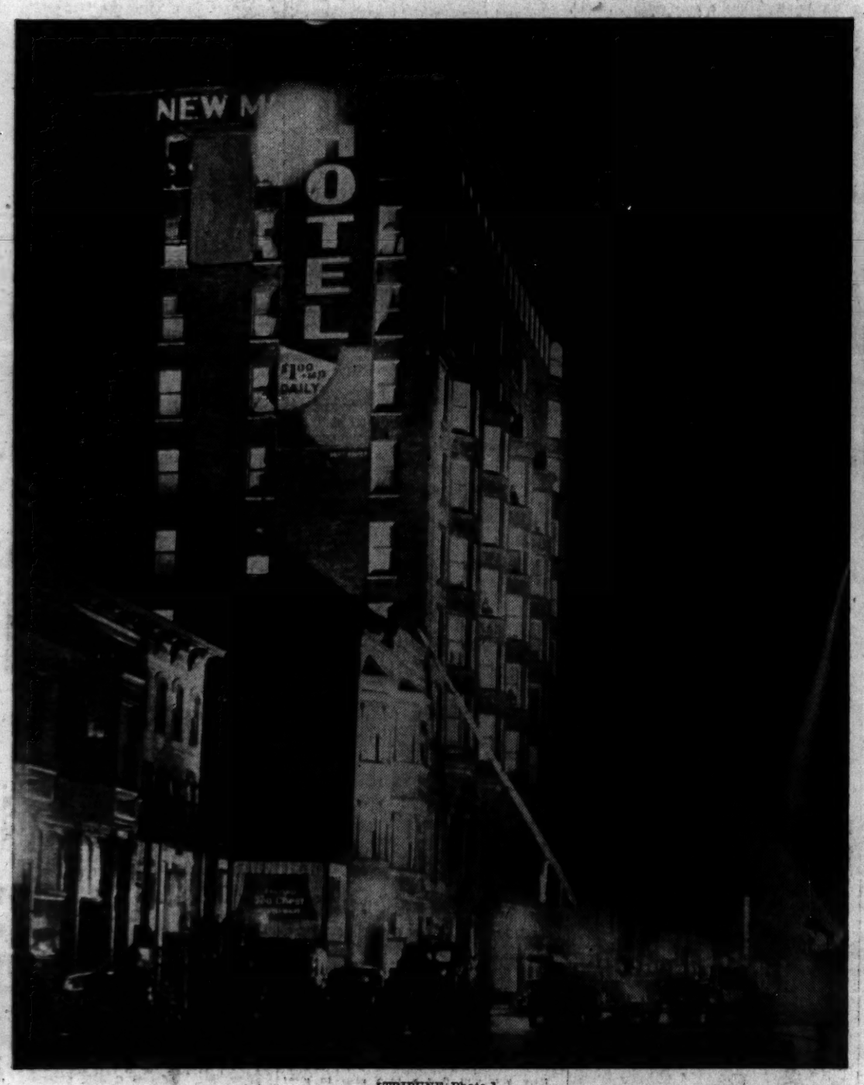


[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

British troops marching to a warship at an undisclosed port to embark for Crete, Greek island in the eastern Mediterranean. They carried equipment, even to heavy guns, with them on the expedition to aid their ally.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

This British military truck threw clouds of dust as it roared down a desert road, illustrating one of the difficulties encountered by mechanized equipment in Africa. British units yesterday penetrated 75 miles within Libyan border.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Fire apparatus playing water on fire last night at the New Michigan hotel, in Michigan avenue at Cermak road. Flames are visible in tenth floor window. (Story on page 7.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Pulmotor squad working over George Dempsey, 72, who was severely injured in hotel fire. (Story on page 7.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Some of residents of a southeast English coast town using nearby cave as night refuge from air raids. They bring beds to the caverns which once were smuggler hideouts.

Donald (left) and Gerald Flagg display the toothless gaps that make them look alike again. For awhile Gerald was known by lost teeth. (Story on page 8.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Patricia Norberg, age 5, and her mother, who flew from Lima, Peru, for operation in Philadelphia, Pa. A bolt was removed from Patricia's right lung. (Story on page 8.)

[Acme Photo.]

Proof his cooking is good. Master Sergeant William Hoffman, who is in charge of messes for 3d air base group at Selfridge field, Mich., tries his hand. He weighs 290 pounds.
